(AP)—The top United States commander on Formosa said today American "help is coming"to meet the Communist threat to the Chinese Nationalist offshore islands.V. Adm. Roland N. Smoot told a news conference it would take the combined efforts of the Nationalists and the U.S.to overcome this immediate situation created by Red bombardments of the islands and efforts to blockade them.Smoot declined to tell what help he meant, saying it would be foolish to give the Communists military information. Healso refused to say whether this meant United States forces would help defend the offshore islands, a commitment

retary James C. Hagerty declined comment on Adm.
Smoot's remarks."Has a decision been made whether we will support QuemoY and Matsu?" Hagerty was asked at a news conference."I have no statement on that either," he replied.Asked when whether he was denying what Smoot said, Hagerty said: "I have no com-

Defending Formosa.

Smoot is commander of the United States Taiwan (Formosa) Command, which is committed to
Pescadore islands. Congress also authorized Mr. Eisenhower to defend any other Nationalist territory he considered
for the twelfth day an artillery attack on the Quemoy islands that might be a prelude to an invasion attempt, Smoot was asked if they could successfully invade or blockade the islands. "They can do neither," he replied.(United Press International quoted Adm. Smoot as saying
"we can lick" the Communists if they try to seize Quemoy.)The Nationalists said they still were getting soldiers and supplies through to Quemoy despite Red attempts to cut it off from Formosa.Smoot said "there are many ways" to break a blockade attempt. "As far as the enemy blockade of Quemoy is concerned, I can tell you the Chinese (Nationalist) forces have not yet begun to fight," he said.

Obscene Gestures
Made — Integration
Began Last Year Without Violence.LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept.
3 (AP)—White resistance flared at an already integrated school in Van Buren, Ark., yesterday. Thirteen Negroes made their way into Van Buren High School past jeering white boys and signs saying, "Nigger, go home.""Van Buren, a west Arkansas city of 6,000, integrated about 24 Negroes under federal court order last September. There were no reports of violence in the 1957-58 school year."But when Negro boys and girls reported for the first day of the fall term yesterday, they were met by shouted insults and obscene gestures.Police cars patrolled the area during the school day but no violence was reported.Mrs. Georgia Bell, 70 years old, Negro, who accompanied her grandson, Freddy Bell, 16, said she was "crowded" into a ditch, but not shoved. She was not hurt.The Negroes estimated the group numbered more than 20 white students.In contrast, across town at the junior high school, whites and Negroes went to classes in a friendly atmosphere. And today there was no further sign of resistance at the senior

Other Developments.

Elsewhere on the Arkansas integration scene, these developments occurred yesterday:1. Gov. Orval Faubus said he would close Little Rock Central High School if either federal marshals or federal troops tried to enforce court-ordered integration.2. A United States District Court judge scheduled to open Sept. 15, four days after the United States Supreme Court takes up the question of whether Negroes attend again this year.3. Two more Negroes applied for admission to Central High but were turned down
by Superintendent Virgil Blossom. He told them the school board was still operating under a "separate but equal" policy.4. A District Court decision which delayed integration for 2 1/2 years.5. It was reported at Little Rock that a chapter of the Ku Klux Klan, symbol of white supremacy, was scheduled to be chartered this week.6. Fort Smith integration. Integration started today at Fort Smith, second largest city in Arkansas. About 10 Negro children were eligible to enroll in the first grade with white pupils.7. Last year, under Fort Smith's voluntary integration plan which started integration at the first-grade level, one Negro boy was entered in an all-white school. He is eligible to attend classes with second-grade white students this year.8. Two Negroes began fall classes in grade schools in Bentonville yesterday. They have been attending with whites for several terms without incident.9. Three Negroes are expected to enter the high school at Ozark this week. They enrolled last year under a voluntary integration plan.10. About 10 Negroes are expected to attend integrated schools at Charleston this fall and Hot Springs will admit five Negroes to an integrated vocational high school class for the third year. Nine Negroes are scheduled to enroll at integrated schools in Hoxie when that city's fall term, delayed by the cotton harvest, starts in November.11. Fayetteville, home of the University of Arkansas, has had integration since 1955 and about 33 Negroes are expected to return to public schools there this week.12. Gov. Faubus to be questioned on British Radio.LONDON, Sept. 3 (UPI)— Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus will face a battery of international interrogators on the British radio tomorrow.Representatives of South Africa and Brazil, countries with sharply contrasting racial policies, also will speak from their own countries and answer questions on race relations put by British, French and Dutch experts.Faubus will broadcast from Little Rock, Ark. Brazilian editor Luiz Alberto Bahia of Correio da Manhã will speak from Rio de Janeiro. The South African speaker has not yet been named.All three speakers will be peppered with questions from French sociologist Olivier Todd, speaking from Paris; Dutch editor Matthieu Smedts of the weekly Vrij Nederland, speaking from Amsterdam, and

The United States wants to preserve the right to set off peacetime nuclear explosions in any worldwide bar on weapons testing, an American delegate told the second international atoms-for-peace conference today.Atomic Energy Commissioner Willard F. Libby described a large number of peacetime uses for nuclear blasts. He told the 500 delegates in a report to the 69-nation conference, "We must forever grasp the helping hand the atom extends us."Libby replied affirmatively when asked if his statement represented United States Government policy.President Eisenhower cleared the way for such a policy in his Aug. 22 offer to suspend nuclear tests by stating that any agreement on the subject should "also deal with the problem of detonations for peaceful purposes, as distinct from weapons tests."

Hostility to Idea.

But Dr. Edward Teller, father of the H-bomb, encountered some hostility when he urged peaceful use of explosions at the conference yesterday. In response to questions Teller indicated he did not favor a test ban."I do not believe agreements not to do something will last, even if they are made," Teller said. "I believe the future of the world lies in agreements that begin with 'do.' I doubt if the future of the world lies in agreements that begin with 'don't.'"Libby spoke at a conference session devoted to the uses of radioactive isotopes. He said that in addition to moving earth and creating power, underground nuclear explosions can be used to manufacture isotopes.It is possible in a few millions of a second to produce quantities of isotopes which take months and years by ordinary methods, and to produce isotopes which cannot be produced except in the most valuable and expensive chain-reacting piles," he said.

Isotopes in Rocks.

The isotopes would be imbedded in hundreds of tons of rock pulverized by the subteranean nuclear explosion. Libby indicated that they might be economically removed.He suggested that radioactive carbon might be made so cheaply that its cost for "labeling" purposes in gasoline refineries would be reduced from a current one cent a gallon to a hundredth of a thousandth of a cent.There are many other uses which we are considering for atomic and thermoelectric explosive devices," he said. "Perhaps the most obvious of these is excavation to form harbors and canals."He also mentioned creating underground steam for power mining and "the formation of aquifers (water-bearing strata of earth or gravel) to store water.""Placing a bomb at just the right depth so that several millions of tons of rock are shattered and rendered porous would make it possible for surface water in great quantities to be stored," he said. "This is a very important application."

Taming of Strontium Reported.

A method of taming and utilizing one of the most dangerous radioactive waste products from atomic plants has been disclosed by recent experiments in the chemistry of soils. The waste product is radio-strontium.Three scientists from the United States Atomic Energy Commission's Hanford plant in Washington state described how strontium could be locked up chemically by means of phosphates.If the process can be carried out cheaply enough the waste will be tamed and extracted and used in industry, research and medicine. Radio-strontium is a well known source of penetrating beta rays that can be put to the service of man.

Harold J. Gibbons told the Senate Labor Rackets Committee today that in 1952 and 1953 he authorized business agents of St. Louis Teamsters Local 688 to carry revolvers.Gibbons, now executive vice president of the Teamsters International Union, explained he was "cleaning gangsters out of union ranks and there were re-

Loan to Upholsterers.

International Upholsterers' Union paid about $600 for redecorating and refurbishing his home at 308 Altus place, Kirkwood.
Subsequent to this gift, the Central Conference of Teamsters, of which he was secretary-treasurer, lent the Upholsterers Union $25,000 in 1956, Gibbons said.The loan to the Upholsterers is still on Teamsters Conference books, he said, and he expects it "will be repaid someday." He said he regarded the transaction "strictly as a loan."Describing the circumstances of the redecoration and refurbishing of his home, Gibbons said officers of the Upholsterers Union "walked into my house and viewed it. Then, they put rugs on the floors, among other things." He said he regarded this as a gift and so reported it on his income tax return the following year.Gibbons accepted the responsibility for bring Robert (Barney) Baker to St. Louis on several occasions. Baker, a former confederate of Teamsters troublemaker, went to St.
Louis when there was trouble in the taxicab drivers local.
Gibbons said, he had not known Baker had served prison terms in New York and was known as a "waterfront tough."

Says Baker Told Him.

"Then he sat down and told me all about himself," Gibbons testified. "I later was pleased with his work in St. Louis."The union officer told the committee he takes full responsibility for the activities of his subordinates, but frequently has no personal knowledge of their actions. He defended his position, declaring that the organization he controlled was large and he must depend on subordinates.He denied the union bought revolvers, and said the business agents asked to be permitted to be armed for their own protection.He said that at that time he and the business agent were engaged in a drive "to clean out gangsters associated with Joint Council 13 in St. Louis.""The business agents bought the revolvers themselves and carried them for three or four months," the witness added. He added that prior to granting the authorization, he consulted Dave Beck, then international union president.Gibbons told the committee he personally had not carried a revolver, but had a weapon in his possession for skeet shooting on four occasions.Asked about the purchase of holsters, Gibbons denied buying the holsters and insisted he did not approve the bill or "pay out any money."

Praises Work of Baker.

Gibbons said he also consulted Beck about retaining Baker, and the then union president agreed that Baker should remain. The witness described the 275-pound Baker in glowing terms, declaring that Baker "came up through the ranks and is one of the labor movement's great public speakers."In reply to a question whether he was concerned about Baker's record and association with gangsters, Gibbons said,
"Yes, it concerns me."Baker left St. Louis at the request of police, following an arrest for displaying a revolver.
He suffered a severe heart attack after prolonged questioning at the current hearings about his connections with violent Teamsters activities in several cities.Gibbons was asked about his acquaintance with John

Expected to Confer Tomorrow With Nasser — U.A.R. Chief Says Arabs Will Win, Asails Israel.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Sept. 3.—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations Secretary General, landed here today to resume his Middle East peace mission.

His first meeting with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic is expected to take place tomorrow night at dinner.

Today the Secretary General planned to meet with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi at a dinner this evening. There was no indication whether substantive discussions would begin today or whether only procedural matters would be considered.

In a radio address soon after Hammarskjold's arrival, Nasser predicted that Arab nationalism would be triumphant, the Associated Press reported.

Imperialism Beachhead.
(Nasser, speaking over the Cairo radio at a ceremony inaugurating the executive council of the federation of Yemen with the U.A.R., also charged that the United States and Britain were aiming to establish a "beachhead for imperialism."

In the broadcast carried to the Middle East and North Africa Nasser said, "We thank God that the Iraqi revolution destroyed the Baghdad pact, which was created with the Arab nation to sow dissension and destroy this Arab nation."

He attacked Israel and international Zionism as an imperialist tool designed to destroy Cairo and Arab nationalism and added, "Imperialism has failed and Arab nationalism has spread everywhere."

In Cairo, Hammarskjold's difficult task is to sell to Nasser a plan proposed by Premier Sami Rifai of Jordan for establishing a "U.N. presence" in Jordan, Egypt, Syria and Iraq.

The plan, which Rifai presented privately to Hammarskjold in the course of their talks last week, provides for a special representative of the Secretary General to sit in Amman, the capital of Jordan, with deputies in Cairo, Damascus and Baghdad. The U.N. representative would have a small staff and would hold the rank of Ambassador.

His duties would be to receive any Jordanian complaints about outside interference in its domestic affairs, to monitor a sample of propaganda broadcasts from surrounding Arab countries and to fix the location of clandestine mobile radio stations which have been broadcasting propaganda against the present Jordanian regime.

Rejection Prediction.
Some informed Egyptian sources here predict Nasser will reject the scheme as carrying the inference that Arabs cannot settle their own problems among themselves.

Other Egyptian sources take the broader view that Nasser might well agree to the creation of a token U.N. presence, including the representative in the belief that the pro-Nasser tide is running so strongly that Jordan must swing in his direction regardless of what new U.N. agency is created.

There is some expectation that Hammarskjold will try to present the situation to Nasser as a choice between agreeing to some form of U.N. presence in the Middle East on the one hand and obstructing the implementation of the 10-nation Arab resolution on the other.

Moussy adopted last month by the special session of the General Assembly, Hammarskjold was requested to make "such practical arrangement" as would help maintain the independence of Jordan and Lebanon "and thereby facilitate the early withdrawal" of British troops from Jordan and American troops from Lebanon.

He also was invited to continue his studies on possible assistance in setting up "an Arab development institution designed to further economic growth in these countries."

Hammarskjold's discussions here were expected to be confined to U.A.R. government representatives. United States Ambassador Raymond A. Hare was expected to pay no more than a brief courtesy call on the Secretary General.

Reports that Hammarskjold would be accompanied on the remainder of his Middle East tour by Abdal Khaleq Hassouna, secretary general of the Arab League, also were discounted.

Hammarskjold's arrival here was delayed more than four hours by engine trouble on his flight from Athens. The plane had to turn back last night for repairs and did not arrive in Cairo until 8 a.m. today (midnight Tuesday St. Louis time). He had been to Geneva for the opening of the atom-for-peace conference there.

Hammarskjold is expected to leave here Saturday, probably flying direct to Baghdad, Iraq. After discussions there he is expected to fly to Beirut, Lebanon, and make his promised return visit to Amman afterward. He hopes to return to New York in time for the opening of the regular session of the U.N. General Assembly Sept. 16.

Eisenhower Gets Free Lures, Advice but No Deep Sea Fish

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER and his friend, GEORGE ALLEN, in smiling mood before putting out from Block Island, R.I., today for some deep sea fishing.

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower got some free lures and advice today on how to catch deep sea fish. But he had no luck right away.

Still trying for his first fish since starting a vacation in this area last Friday, Mr. Eisenhower went trolling in Block Island sound. That is one of the best fishing grounds off the New England coast.

Only one reporter, Robert Roth of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, was permitted on the boat with Mr. Eisenhower. Roth sent back this word by radio-telephone.

"The President, after two hours of strikeless fishing, appealed to local fishermen for advice. He got advice but no fish—at least not right away."

"Weather perfect, sea calm, little wind. . . . Navy escort boat asked by President's boat to haul fishing boat Anna F. of Noank, Conn., which was getting bluefish."

The Anna F., skippered by B. F. Rathbun of Noank, advised using small white lures, heavily weighted, with 200 feet of line.

Mr. Eisenhower's boat then advised the escort carrying Secret Service agents and Roth to obtain some of the recommended lures from the Anna F.

Mr. Eisenhower's instructions were, "Be sure to put for them," but Roth reported: "Lures obtained but payment refused."

The President then requested that the name of the skipper, Rathbun, be obtained. So the chances are Rathbun will be receiving a thank you note in a day or so.

The vacationing President took off by helicopter in sunny weather from the summer White House at 7:58 a.m. He flew south along Narragansett bay to Block Island, about 25 miles from Newport.

At the island Coast Guard station, a 62-foot Navy fishing boat awaited Mr. Eisenhower and his party for a day in quest of tuna, sailfish and blues. He was accompanied by George E. Allen, an old friend from Washington and Gettysburg, Pa.; Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House physician; and Col. Walter R. Tkach, Snyder's assistant.

Mr. Eisenhower fished in the bay for four hours yesterday but caught nothing.

BEIRUT SNIPERS OPEN FIRE ON U. S. EMBASSY

Marine Guard Takes Cover — Little Damage — Other Explosions at Night.

BEIRUT, Sept. 3 (UPI)—Rebel snipers opened fire last night on the United States Marine guard in front of Ambassador James McClintock's residence. The shooting caused little or no damage.

Elsewhere in the city there were explosions and bursts of machine gun fire. It was the first night of firing in Beirut in more than a week.

The Marine Corps duty sergeant posted at a Patton tank in front of the McClintock residence said his men could see the rooftop from where the fire was being directed at their positions.

The sergeant said he counted eight shots and pointed out three marks on the wall of a building across the street which he said were made by the bullets.

He said the American guards did not return the fire. They took cover inside the tank and alongside the six-foot-high wall flanking the residence.

He said the ambassador was not excited by the firing and apparently slept through it. It was the first time the ambassador's residence had drawn fire since the start of the Lebanese rebellion.

Most of the firing heard in the night was in area of the United Nations building, a 10-story residence for foreigners.

By the Associated Press.

The United States Army has begun training Lebanese troops in the use of light American tanks, the American embassy said yesterday.

The possibility of a training program for the Lebanese has been under discussion for weeks.

An embassy spokesman told reporters he knew of no plans to begin Lebanese infantry training, but American Army sources said the matter still was under negotiation.

A three-week tank training program began Monday for 40 Lebanese officers and men. It involves M-41 Walker Bulldog tanks shipped to Lebanon last May under an American aid program.

FRENCH CABINET OK'S DE GAULLE CONSTITUTION

Document Appears Certain to Be Approved at Polls in Sept. 28 Vote.

PARIS, Sept. 3 (UPI)—The cabinet today approved a proposed new constitution for France. If approved in a referendum later this month, it will set up the fifth republic and clear the way for Premier De Gaulle to become president.

The cabinet met for nearly five hours under the chairmanship of President Rene Coty to study the text of the proposed constitution.

An official announcement said afterward that the cabinet members had approved the document. It now will be submitted to a vote by the people of France and its overseas territories on Sept. 28.

Gen. De Gaulle will present the constitution to the nation tomorrow in a speech to be delivered at the Place de la Republique in Paris.

The constitution first was worked out by De Gaulle and his ministers. It then was submitted to a committee consisting of private citizens and members of the National Assembly.

After this group approved it—with some suggested changes—it was given the stamp of approval by the Council of State, France's highest legal body.

Approval in the referendum appeared to be a certainty. Political experts predicted it would receive 55 to 80 per cent of the votes.

The new constitution establishes a presidential system difficult for the National Assembly to overthrow a government as it has done frequently since the end of World War II and the establishment of the Fourth Republic.

De Gaulle's original draft of the constitution has undergone some changes since it was first presented to a "constitutional consultative committee" of 39 members last August. What these are, however, will not be made known until tomorrow.

Communists and fellow-travelers oppose the new constitution, fearing that it will limit their powers drastically.

Socialist leader Guy Mollet has advised his colleagues to vote for the constitution. If it fails, he said, it may mean the end of the Socialist party in France.

Christian Pineau, Foreign Minister under former Premier Mollet, has said he would vote against it.

Kills Increase in Airport Funds With Pocket Veto — Only 18 Measures Remain to Be Acted On.

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed bills yesterday to lighten tax loads in a few fields, increasing the national debt ceiling, and provide $887,000,000 in education aid.

He killed by pocket veto a bill to increase federal aid to airports from the current $63,000,000 a year to $100,000,000, and continue it until the middle of 1962.

Those were highlights of Mr. Eisenhower's action at his vacation headquarters on 117 bills which Congress sent to him shortly before it adjourned Aug. 24. He signed 105 and vetoed 12. Most of those vetoed were minor bills.

The President now has only 18 pieces of legislation before him for decision by midnight Saturday.

The major measure remaining would launch a $275,000,000 new program to help chronically depressed city and rural areas.

Advance Research.
Advance research on all of the bills on which Mr. Eisenhower acted had been done for him by aids, principally White House special counsel Gerald D. Morgan who arrived by plane from Washington shortly before the President went to his office.

The major bills signed into law:

1. Provide multi-million-dollar tax relief to small business and make technical changes in the tax laws. Those changes provide special new advantages to some classes of taxpayers and block loopholes which have given unintended benefits to others.

2. Cut excise (sales) taxes for air taxi service, and ease the tax burden on whisky distillers and movie tickets. This bill juggling excise levy loopholes will cost the Government $42,000,000 annually in revenue. Most of the revisions, including the change in movie ticket rates, will become effective Jan. 1. Other changes will not be effective until next July 1.

3. Increase the national debt limit to 285 billion dollars, highest in United States peacetime history. That is a temporary ceiling — up five billion dollars from the current temporary one — until next June 30. The new law also hikes the permanent statutory limit from 265 to 283 billion dollars.

4. Provide $887,000,000 over a four-year period for "national defense" federal aid to education in this increasingly scientific age. The plan features loans of up to $10,000 a year to college students who meet standards.

The President also signed a $1,118,128,835 public works appropriation bill, and denounced some of its provisions as irresponsible.

"I am compelled to approve the act, however," he said, "because it appropriates essential funds for continuing work on river and harbor, flood control and reclamation projects that were started in previous years."

The measure ignored the President's recommendation of last January that no money be provided for new projects. The total in the bill, however, is not far above his recommendations that Congress appropriate $1,677,336,000 for public works to be built in the year which started July 1.

In signing the education aid bill Mr. Eisenhower said it did not go far enough. For one thing, Congress refused to authorize the federal scholarship program the President recommended. Mr. Eisenhower nevertheless called it a constructive and sound piece of legislation.

The new law also provides fellowships for trainees for college teaching. Also authorized are federal grants for science equipment, foreign language training institutes, and education counseling.

As for the two tax measures approved, one authorizes distillers to hold whisky in bonded warehouses up to 20 years without paying the $10.50 a gallon alcohol tax. The present limit is eight years. The new provision applies to present supplies as well as future output.

Movie Tax Cut.
That bill also increases from 90 cents to one dollar the portion of the cost of a movie theater ticket exempt from excise tax. It exempts teen-agers, "milk bars" from excise levies, and knocks out the federal club dues on community swimming pools and skating rinks.

The other tax measure aimed chiefly at helping small business—to the tune of $260,000,000 in federal revenue loss the first year—also closes such loopholes as a man's listing a mistress as a dependent for tax purposes.

The small business aids include speeding up of depreciation for tax purposes on new plant and equipment costs, and letting heirs pay estate taxes over 10 years.

In vetoing the $100,000,000-a-year airport aid bill, the President said the time has come for the Federal Government to pull out of the city and state airport development program. He said in a statement that the Federal Government already has spent more than a billion dollars in aiding airport development.

"At the next session of Congress," he said, "the Administration will recommend a transitional program to provide aid for the construction of urgent airport projects that are essential."

PRESIDENT SIGNS $1,700,000 FUND FOR FLOOD WORK

Authorizes Start of St. Louis System — Another $1,500,000 for East St. Louis.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—An appropriation of $1,700,000 to begin construction of St. Louis's master flood control system was approved yesterday by President Eisenhower.

The measure was in a $1,118,128,835 public works appropriation bill signed by the President.

Also in the public works bill was an appropriation of $1,500,000 for flood control work in East St. Louis and vicinity.

A $1,000,000 appropriation to begin construction of a $5,802,000 dam on the Mississippi river at Chain of Rocks was approved by the President. The dam will be designed to relieve low water conditions on the Mississippi at the Alton dam locks.

The St. Louis flood control project would be designed to protect against a 52-foot flood stage.

The Corps of Engineers has said that actual construction of the St. Louis flood protection system could get under way next February if funds were available.

Other appropriations approved for Missouri included: Cape Girardeau, $1,500,000 to continue flood control; Pomme de Terre Reservoir $3,400,000; Table Rock Reservoir, $12,400,000; Bear Creek Reservoir, $300,000; and Fabius River Drainage District, $750,000.

MEETING CALLED BY FREEHOLDERS TO CHOOSE SETUP FOR CITY, COUNTY

Board to Decide on Legal Framework to Be Used in Effecting Governmental Changes for Area.

The Metropolitan Board of Freeholders will hold a special meeting Saturday to decide which of four constitutional methods for improving intergovernmental relations between St. Louis and St. Louis county shall be recommended to voters. It was announced today.

Several months' work will be required to draft the proposal for submission to the voters, after the freeholders have decided which of the four legal approaches should be used. The board must conclude its study by next May 7.

The decision to shift the board's attention from an extended series of public hearings about changes desired by the public to consideration of the legal framework to be used in effecting changes, was voted unanimously by the freeholders at a meeting yesterday.

Approach to Writing Plan. Mrs. Rogers Deakin, one of the 19 freeholders, offered the motion, seconded by James S. McClellan, that the closed meeting be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday to select a method of intergovernmental adjustments, "and for developing an orderly approach to writing a plan."

In introducing the motion, Mrs. Deakin said the board had been concerned largely with possibility of establishing a metropolitan district for administration of areawide services. She said the freeholders had been following before "too much time is wasted on preliminaries."

The other three ways by which the city and county may adjust intergovernmental relations, as set out in the Missouri Constitution, are:

1. Merger of the city and county government to form a single unit under the municipal government of the city.

2. Re-entry of the city into the county, as one of the county municipalities.

3. Enlargement of the city by annexing part of the county. The board will continue its public hearings while debating and drafting the plan that ultimately will be presented to the voters.

Kaufmann's Views. A metropolitan district government to perform area-wide services probably would be approved by city and county voters, Aloys P. Kaufmann, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis, told the board last night.

Kaufmann was heard at the freeholders' televised meeting at Educational Television Station KETC. Although formation of a metropolitan district would mean "another layer of government," the advantages of uniformity of services could win acceptance in all areas, he predicted.

A proposal to merge the city and county governments would be rejected by the voters, Kaufmann said. In response to a question as to whether the freeholders should recommend such a merger, he said one over-all government might be regarded "as highly desirable and realistic, but I doubt that the citizenry is ready for such a step."

Asked if any proposal made for a metropolitan government should give it authority for performing virtually all services that could be classified as area-wide needs, or for administering a minimum of basic services, Kaufmann said he recommended a "happy medium."

"I would strive to develop the best charter you believe the people would accept," he said. "By the people, I mean the voters and also the public authorities."

Proposal of idealistic governmental changes must be tempered with a regard for what the public will accept as being practical, Kaufmann said.

"Both the city and county will ultimately be very heavy losers unless some means of co-ordination is evolved," he said.

The chamber president, a former Republican mayor of St. Louis, said the two areas are interdependent, with the city being both the economic and cultural core, and the county providing the land needed for expansion.

Each Needs Other. "Neither could survive without the other," Kaufmann said. "The reason I emphasize this is that there appears to have developed a feeling of rivalry between some city and county residents which I do not believe is altogether healthy. When we begin to talk about possible methods of co-ordination, too many people base their judgment on whether, in their opinion, one side or the other would gain or lose."

The St. Louis area is not able to secure many new industries because insufficient industrial sites are being zoned under present land use practices, Kaufmann said. He said Western Electric Co. chose Kansas City as the site for a new plant with 4000 workers after zoning clearance could not be obtained for a 200-acre site here sought earlier by the company.

Cervantes Testifies. Alderman A. J. Cervantes (Dem.), Fifteenth ward, another witness at the hearing, said the ideal solution of governmental problems probably would be "to throw the whole area under one governmental tent, providing all services and collecting all revenues."

But he agreed with Kaufmann that a proposal for a metropolitan district would have the better chance of acceptance by the voters. Cervantes, who led in organization of the citizens' committee which obtained signatures necessary to establish the freeholders' board, said the citizens' group stood ready to campaign for governmental revisions proposed by the board.

Girard C. Varnum, president of the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce, in response to a question, said he had heard little sentiment for outright merger of the city and county. He urged that "the simplest, most direct and streamlined plan" for areawide administration of basic services be devised by the freeholders.

Other Witnesses. Other witnesses included Mrs. Edward G. Brungard, the city's Director of Public Welfare, and Daniel J. Hanson, the county's traffic commissioner. Mrs. Brungard pointed out that of 14 recommendations made in a recent hospital survey here by the American Public Health Association, seven require joint action by city and county health officials. This showed the need for co-ordinated planning, she said.

Hanson said many difficulties in planning adequate traffic controls in the area stem from the fact that St. Louis, the state of Missouri, St. Louis county, and 97 municipalities in the county have a hand in the planning.

J. J. Pierson, spokesman for the Metropolitan Church Federation's civic commission, was heard by the board at its meeting yesterday afternoon at the court house in Clayton. Pierson recommended a master plan for land use in the St. Louis area.

The freeholders will hold televised hearings at 8 p.m. on television station KETC today, tomorrow and Friday. Witnesses scheduled for tonight are Robert H. McRoberts Sr., the board's counsel; Arthur B. Shepley Jr., and James W. Connor, chairman and director, respectively, of the St. Louis Crime Commission, and Dr. Henry Hampton, physician, who was a member of the county charter commission.

26 ON OVERLOADED ELEVATOR STUCK FOR 100 MINUTES

Twenty-six persons were trapped for an hour and 40 minutes yesterday in an overcrowded elevator that became stuck just below the first floor level in the Mart Building, Twelfth and Spruce streets.

Occupants of the stuck elevator, on their way home at 4:30 p.m., shouted, pounded and kicked the floor and walls to attract attention to their plight. First efforts by building employees to raise the elevator were unsuccessful.

Representatives of the elevator company were summoned and they opened a hatch on top of the cage to give those who were trapped more air. After about 30 minutes more they were able to raise the elevator and free the passengers.

An investigation is being made to determine the cause of the malfunction. Lt. Col. George E. Linebaugh, acting commander of the Army Support Center in the building, said. The elevator has a capacity of 20 passengers. An automatic device should keep it from moving when there is an overload, he said.

19 DAMAGED TREES BEING REMOVED IN FOREST PARK

A total of 19 storm-damaged trees are being removed from the northeast corner of Forest Park, Thomas J. Purcell, administrative assistant for the Department of Public Welfare, said today.

The cleared area will be used for ornamental pools, benches, walks and sewers. A contract for $58,500 was recently awarded for the work, authorized by a 1955 bond issue item.

The trees are being taken from a triangle bounded by Lindell and West Pine boulevards and Kingshighway. Fourteen trees will remain.

134 WORKS ARE IN PRINT EXHIBIT AT ART MUSEUM

A total of 134 works are included in the National Print annual exhibition which went on display today at City Art Museum. The showing will continue through Sept. 30.

The exhibition, organized by the Brooklyn Museum and circulated through the nation by the Smithsonian Institution, consists of woodcuts, lithographs, etchings and other prints. Most are in color.

MAILMAN RUNS 54 MILES

BURLINGTON, N.C., Sept. 3 (AP)—Mailman Paul (Hardrock) Simpson had a good sleep last night after running 54 miles. The marathon is an annual test that began 13 years ago for the grandfather of four. Everytime his birthday rolls around, he runs a mile for each year. Yesterday's jaunt took nine hours, including a stop for a change of shoes.

ROBBERS STEAL $300 FROM DELICATESSEN

Two Men Force Woman to Give Up $600 in Another Incident.

Joe's Food Shop, a delicatessen at 1711 North Jefferson avenue, was robbed of $300 shortly before 8 a.m. today by two men who held up the owner, Joe E. Goldberg.

Goldberg told police he was standing in front of the place when the two entered. He followed them in and asked what they wanted, and one showed a pistol and said, "This is a stick-up." They took $125 from him and $175 from the cash register, he reported.

Mrs. Eula Brockett, 836A Bittner street, was accosted by two men, knocked down and robbed of about $600 late yesterday as she returned to her home.

She told police the money was from two businesses owned by her father, Lee Sherrod, the Baden Taxicab Co. and the Baden Loop Tavern, both at 8449 North Broadway.

The robbers were hiding in the yard and jumped out at her after she got out of a cab. They also took her purse, which contained $3.

Police responding to a burglar alarm in a building at 817 Washington avenue early today arrived in time to see Herbert P. DeWeese, a former convict coming out a rear window of the Schneider Fur Co. on the third floor, they reported.

DeWeese, 24 years old, of the 2500 block of North Grand boulevard, told police he had taken nothing from Schneider's but had stolen $12 somewhere else in the building. He has served three terms in state prisons and the Workhouse since 1932 for burglary.

Lloyd Ridley, 4528 Clayton avenue, a chauffeur, reported to police yesterday that he was walking east on Compton avenue between Pine street and Lawton boulevard when four youths came out of an alley and assaulted him, taking his billfold containing $12. He was treated at City Hospital for cuts on the face.

Frank Z. Urezyk, a foreman living at 2816 Oregon avenue, reported that he was robbed of $28 shortly before midnight by two men who stopped him at California avenue and Sidney street. One of them knocked him down, and he was treated at City Hospital for a scalp injury.

REFUSES TO QUIT MADISON COUNTY SHERIFF'S RACE

Mark Deterding Says G.O.P. Leaders Deny Him Support as a Result of Decision.

Mark E. Deterding, Republican nominee for sheriff of Madison county, said today he had informed leaders of his party and other Republican nominees that he would not accede to their request that he withdraw from the race.

The candidates had told him they feared a non-support suit pending against him would adversely affect the entire ticket in the Nov. 4 general election. Deterding said that after he announced his decision not to withdraw at a meeting Monday night he was told by Republican leaders that he would be considered "a renegade." He added they also informed him that he would receive no financial support from the party.

Some nominees, party leaders and members said they would not mention Deterding's name in campaign speeches or put his name on sample ballots or posters. Deterding said.

Will Seek Help. He added that he will seek private contributions because he has "reached the limits of the money I can spend to make the race."

Deterding said some party leaders informed him that they kept other prospective candidates from filing so he would be unopposed and used that as an argument in attempting to persuade him to withdraw.

"The primary was supposed to be open, and I knew nothing of any promises made to any other would-be candidate," he said. "I've never tried to hide anything. If this charge were more serious I never would have thought of running in the first place."

Suit Filed in 1956. The non-support suit pending against Deterding was filed by his former wife at Torrence, Calif., in December 1956, alleging failure to support their 16-year-old son. Under the reciprocal non-support law, the case was transferred to Madison county court at Edwardsville, where a hearing is set for Sept. 19.

Deterding since has remarried and he and his present wife have five children. The other Republican candidates expressed belief that the Democrats will attempt to capitalize on the situation through a "whispering campaign."

HOME INSPECTIONS BEGIN IN COMPTON-EADS AREA

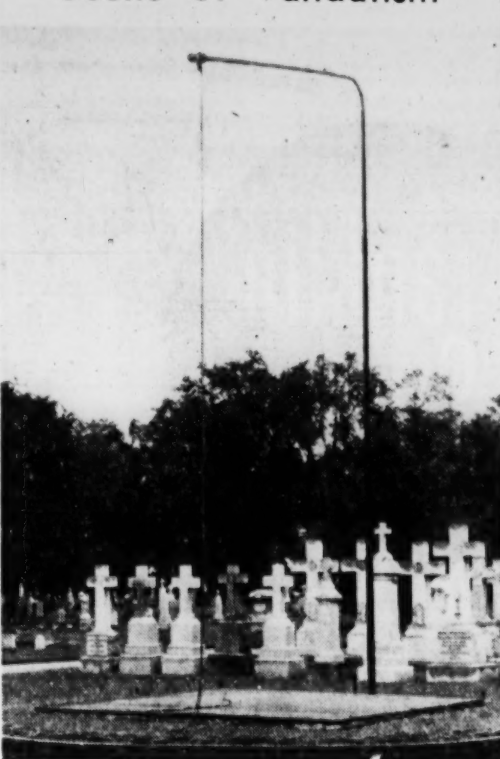

Work started today on a house-to-house inspection of all buildings in the Compton-Eads neighborhood, rehabilitation area. The work, being done by six inspectors and a supervisor from the city Building Department, is expected to take about two years.

Director of Public Safety Joseph P. Sestric said the inspectors have been transferred from the Hyde Park and Cherokee areas, where similar projects are nearly finished. There are about 4100 dwelling units in the Compton-Eads area. The survey is a preliminary to bringing them up to minimum housing standards.

The Compton-Eads area contains 54 blocks and is bounded by Russell boulevard, Park avenue, Jefferson avenue and Grand boulevard.

Councilman Bohrer Ready to Give Up Effort to Push for Vote.

St. Louis County Councilman George E. Bohrer said today he had practically given up on his plan to have charter amendments submitted to voters at the Nov. 4 general election.

There is little time to have the proposed changes drafted and considered by the council, he said, and explained that circumstances have forced a delay.

The circumstances he referred to are the diving accident in which County Counselor William B. Kline suffered a broken neck at Clearwater, Fla., last week, and the resignation of Donald A. Lasater as executive secretary of the council.

The councilor's office still can do the necessary work, but it will take longer in the absence of Kline and Lasater, who are familiar with the council's thinking with regard to proposed charter changes, Bohrer said.

Any changes to be submitted in the form of amendments would have to be passed by the council 35 days before the election, or by Oct. 1.

"You can rest assured the bills will be introduced," Bohrer said. "I just don't know when." One that he has been pressing would provide for a new Department of Revenue.

NEW BAYLESS HIGH SCHOOL OPENING SET FOR SEPT. 15

The new Bayless High School, which was scheduled to open for classes tomorrow, will not open until Sept. 15, Hugo E. Beck, superintendent of Bayless school district, announced today.

The opening is being put off because of delays in construction, which began in October 1957, Beck said. Kindergarten, elementary and junior high school classes will resume tomorrow, as scheduled.

About 350 students will attend the new school, in the 4500 block of Weber road, Affton.

10 JUDGES HERE FILE TO RETAIN THEIR OFFICES

By BOYD F. CARROLL, Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 3.—Nine St. Louis circuit judges and a judge of the Court of Criminal Correction have filed declarations of candidacy for retention in office under the non-partisan court plan, the Secretary of State's office reported today.

These are the only judges in the Eighth (St. Louis) Judicial Circuit whose terms expire this year.

Circuit judges seeking retention in office are: Robert J. Kirkwood, James F. Nangle, Waldo C. Mayfield, William E. Buder, John C. Casey.

William K. Koerner, John K. Regan, James E. McLaughlin and Theodore McMillan. Also filing was Judge Louis Comerford of the St. Louis Court of Criminal Correction.

Six circuit judges from the sixteenth judicial circuit, Jackson county, and Judge Elmo B. Hunter, of the Kansas City Court of Appeals also filed.

Declarations of candidacy must be filed 60 days before the Nov. 4 election. Under the nonpartisan court plan, judges run for retention in office without political party designation. Voters cast ballots for or against retention of a judge. The system applies only to St. Louis and Kansas City judges, and judges of the courts of appeals.

TWO-YEAR TERM FOR MAN WHO BEAT POLICE TURNKEY

George O. Michel was sentenced to two years in Alcona Intermediate Reformatory yesterday on his plea of guilty of assault to do great bodily harm in the beating of Police Turnkey Bill Harris last March 15.

Circuit Judge Franklin Reagan, denying an application for parole, told Michel: "This is not an open season on police officers in St. Louis." The judge sentenced him also to a concurrent two-year term for flourishing a pistol he had taken from Harris.

Michel and his brother, Louis, are in the Workhouse serving out fines of $1000 and $800, respectively, for violation of city ordinances in the beating. Louis Michel also received a one-year workhouse term on a felonious assault charge. They attacked and disarmed Harris in an alley near Kingshighway and Enright avenue after he sought to arrest Louis Michel for careless driving.

"No American has a greater stake in peace than the young American," Atkinson said. "The future is what he lives for and without peace, there may be no future—for him or for the world." Children may purchase stamps at schools or post offices.

Ships are on the way from the Mediterranean and the United States to join the United States Seventh Fleet patrolling the Formosa strait to prevent any Communist strike at Formosa. About 1000 United States Marines are coming from Okinawa for maneuvers on Formosa this weekend. Additional jet fighters have been sent from the United States to Far Eastern bases.

The Nationalist defense ministry expressed confidence that its own Navy could deal with Red torpedo boat attacks on supply ships to Quemoy. Communist shelling of the Quemoy airfield has virtually stopped air supply from Formosa.

The defense ministry spokesman, R. Adm. Liu Hsiang-tu, said some supply ships from the Pescadores islands had been turned back by Red attacks. Others were getting through "but how many I'm not going to let the enemy know," Liu said.

Convoy Turned Back.
One convoy was turned back yesterday by Communist torpedo boats without unloading 370 of 400 Nationalist troops sent to reinforce the Quemoy garrison. United States military advisers in the Pescadores said it was the third time in four days that supply and troopships had been unable to complete unloading into small boats off Quemoy.

One Nationalist convoy officer insisted, "If it were absolutely necessary we could have gone in and landed our troops. But the men aboard were not vital to the defense of Quemoy at this time and there was no point in risking lives and the ship."

Liu said the Nationalists were prepared to accept a percentage of losses in supplies and personnel rather than launch air attacks on the Communist mainland bases of forces harassing the convoys.

He said Communist artillery attacks had not reached a point at which the Nationalists would consider it necessary to bomb enemy gun positions. Such bombing would spread the vest-pocket war, Liu said, "which we don't want to do—we just want to calm the situation down."

General's Statement.
Liu recalled a statement last week by Gen. Wang Shu-ming, chief of the Nationalist general staff, that "we will bomb if necessary." Wang implied one factor was United States restraint of the Nationalists which is intended to keep the shooting from flaring into a major war.

The artillery bombardment of Quemoy and the tiny Tatan islets was relatively light today. After more than five hours of silence, the Red guns on Amoy and Tatan islands fired 525 shells between dawn and the early afternoon.

Communist shells scored 11 direct hits on Quemoy's main Nationalist hospital today, dispatches from the island said. The bombardment killed one male nurse and injured four other persons. Casualties apparently were light because the patients and hospital staff had moved to underground shelters.

Nationalist officers in Taipei charged the hospital shelling was deliberate. They said the Communists have long had zeroed in on Nationalist positions on Quemoy. They said the hospital was three-quarters of a mile from any Nationalist military installations. Some shells went the other way carrying Nationalist answers to Red propaganda leaflets. The Communists have been sending surrender-or-die threats to the offshore islands. The Nationalists suggested that the Red troops themselves ought to surrender rather than "sacrifice your lives for Mao Tse-tung and his bandits."

President Chiang Kai-shek led Formosa in observance of Nationalist armed forces day. The 71-year-old leader placed a wreath at the shrine of the nation's war dead in a Taipei suburb.

The day also was the fourth anniversary of the initial Communist shelling of Quemoy and the Matsu islands, 150 miles up the coast. The Matsus have not been attacked in the current outbreak.

Canada's Radical Doukhobors Tentatively OK Move to Russia

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 3 (AP)—The radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, who have written a 50-year history of violence and terrorism in British Columbia, gave tentative approval last night to a proposed mass move to Russia.

In a 600-word telegram to Soviet President Klementi E. Voroshilov, Freedomite secretary Bill Moojelsky said the Sons of Freedom had decided to accept in principle a Canada-British Columbia offer to foot the bill for relocation of the Sons of Russia. The bill, it is estimated, will come to about $2,000,000.

Moojelsky, speaking for the 2668 persons he said have already signed up for relocation in Russia, asked the Soviet Union to assure the Canadian government that the Freedomites would be accepted in the U.S.S.R.

The telegram to Moscow urged Russia to accept the 2668 "only with the bare necessities, including carpentry tools." It asked that the Sons of Freedom be settled in the Omsk and Altai regions of Soviet Siberia "in any other place historically designated and suitable for Doukhobors."

The Doukhobors fled Russia at the turn of the century under the pressure of Czarist persecution. The majority accepted Canadian law but the Sons of Freedom refused to send their children to public schools. When authorities forced attendance the Sons reacted violently. They bombed public buildings, railroads and highway bridges.

One of their most spectacular methods of showing their contempt for Canadian law was the nude parade, participated in by men, women and children alike.

Out of the years of violence and terrorism came the suggestion for relocation in Russia, now apparently only a few procedural steps away.

Rail-Highway Accidents.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission reports there were 3569 rail-highway grade crossing accidents in 1957, resulting in 1371 deaths and 3767 injuries. The figures for 1956 were 3639 accidents, 1336 deaths and 3755 injuries.

CONVEYOR BELT 5½ MILES LONG PLANNED IN OKLAHOMA

CHICAGO, Sept. 3 (AP)—Link-Belt Co. is building a 5½-mile conveyor belt system for Ideal Cement Co. in Oklahoma. The belt system will carry crushed limestone and shale at the rate of 1000 tons per hour from Ideal's Lawrence, Okla., quarry to the firm's cement plant at nearby Ada. Completion of the all-weather, enclosed conveyor is scheduled for early 1959.

The system, using 36-inch wide rubber belts, will conform to the topography and run about four feet above the ground for most of its length.

SBA TO LICENSE LOAN FIRMS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Small Business Administration announced yesterday it would be ready by December to start licensing new investment companies to provide loans and investment funds for small businesses.

A law signed by President Eisenhower Aug. 21 authorizes SBA not only to license the lenders with exemptions from various federal tax and regulatory requirements, but to provide substantial financial help in getting them started.

U.S. UNIONIST TELLS T.U.C. WEST MUST HAVE BEST ARMS

BOURNEMOUTH, England, Sept. 3 (AP)—A top American trade unionist told Britain's union leaders yesterday the free world has no choice but to equip itself with the best weapons of defense—including atomic weapons.

George M. Harrison, vice president of the AFL-CIO, warned delegates attending the Trades Union Congress here that mere barring of nuclear weapons won't guarantee world peace.

He said there were other weapons of mass destruction and declared the Russians would not hesitate to use them "in order to advance their aims and interests." Hundreds of British trade union men, some of them Communists and many of them non-Communists, advocate barring nuclear arms.

OCDM TAKES OVER PLANNING FOR EMERGENCY TRANSPORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Office of Civilian and Defense Mobilization is taking over the emergency transportation planning activities of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Funds for ICC's continuance of work aimed at safeguarding the country's transportation network in case of atomic war or other emergency were eliminated from the commission's appropriation.

The two agencies said yesterday OCDM is assuming the task under its emergency authority.

Racket Inquiry

First met the hoodlum, Gibbons said he remembered talking to him at an AFL convention in St. Louis in 1953. The committee has developed testimony that Dio and other hoodlums were co-operating with elements in the Teamsters Union to seize control of the Teamsters Joint Council in New York.

He was asked whether he assisted Richard Kavner, former Gibbons lieutenant in St. Louis and now an international organizer for the Teamsters, in giving Dio information designed to discredit an assistant of Thomas Hickey, a candidate for president of the New York Joint Council.

Gibbons conceded he was aware that information was being sent to Dio by Kavner and that he supplied some of the information. He denied, however, that he was giving it to Kavner for transmission to Dio.

Gibbons could not recall whether he discussed with Dio the advisability of employing a public relations representative to get Dio a clean bill of health with the newspapers.

When asked about his views of Dio, the St. Louisan said, "I do not want to have an answer that question, because Dio has a wife and two children and my views would be just another hurt for them."

He was excused from answering.

Asked About Burned Aid.
He was then asked if at 1 a.m. on June 24, 1950, he took Gene San Soucie, formerly of Local 688 and now president of an Indianapolis Teamsters local, to a physician for treatment of burns on his hands.

It was noted that the committee had information that San Soucie was suspected of arson in St. Louis in connection with a fire in a building occupied by a firm which was having a labor dispute with the Teamsters.

Gibbons denied taking San Soucie to Dr. Elmer Richman, who at that time was director of the Teamsters Labor Health Institute. He also said he did not know how or if San Soucie got burned.

Robert F. Kennedy, chief committee counsel, bore down on Gibbons for his statement before the committee yesterday that he "deplores" violence in strikes but failed to check up personally on violence that took place during a 1953 strike of Yellow Cab Co. drivers, a strike Gibbons was directing.

Attacks Police.
Asked if he had ever told an individual to give only his name and address and nothing more if arrested during the strike, Gibbons replied: "Exactly." He then added:

"I know something about the police in St. Louis and they are not above framing people in a labor dispute."

Gibbons, dressed in a neat blue business suit, defended his union's policy of paying the hospital bill of $524 for Joseph Bommarito, business agent of Teamsters Local 405 (taxicab drivers) in St. Louis. He told the Senators he assumed Bommarito had been hurt in a legitimate trade union activity.

Bommarito allegedly hurt his back attempting to overturn a taxicab during the strike. He was admitted to Faith Hospital, St. Louis.

"If we paid his hospital bills, it was because we assumed he was engaged in legitimate trade union activities when he was injured," Gibbons said.

"Do you think upsetting a taxicab was legitimate trade union activity?" Kennedy asked.

"I don't think so," Gibbons replied.

'Legitimate Activity.'
Kennedy then asked whether Gibbons had taken any action against Bommarito for his alleged offense, or if he would try to collect reimbursement for the hospital expenses from him.

"I am satisfied," Gibbons replied, "that if one of my representatives okayed the expenditure, it was because Bommarito was engaged in legitimate union activity."

Kennedy asked which representative might have okayed the expenditure.

"It might have been Louis Berra," Gibbons answered. Berra was director of the Labor Health Institute of Gibbons' Local 688 and also a business agent for the local. He was convicted of income tax evasion and served a prison sentence for failing to report a kickback from a contractor on a Teamsters building project.

All Way to Supreme Court.
Questioned further about the legal expense for Berra, Gibbons asserted union money was spent "on instructions of the rank and file."

"We spent money for legal expenses all the way to the United States Supreme Court on the theory a man is innocent until proved guilty," Gibbons testified.

The witness testified to the expenditure of $44,831 of union funds in the defense of Gerald Connelly, a Minneapolis Teamsters official charged with extortion and bombing.

Asked about the authority for the Connelly expenditures, Gibbons said, "It was done with the authority of the Central Conference of Teamsters."

"Have you a copy of a resolution to that effect," he was asked.

"I have a whole slew of resolutions," the witness answered. Following the line of questioning pursued yesterday by the committee chairman, Senator John L. McClellan (Dem., Ark.), Kennedy pressed the witness for a solid answer as to why union funds were used to "bail out" members of the alleged, goon squads, which were patrolling the streets of St. Louis to keep cabs off the streets. Kennedy said this should not have been done without an inquiry to determine whether those jailed were guilty as charged.

"I have confidence in my staff," Gibbons said, "and I feel certain members of my staff had inquired about the circumstances of the arrests, or attorneys for the union had done so."

Asked if he knew that the union put money for bail bonds and legal fees for those arrested in the violence, Gibbons replied that he could not say for certain, but "that would be the policy of our union."

Fifth Amendment 'Guide.'
Asked by Senator McClellan whether he had ever instructed anyone to take the Fifth Amendment, Gibbons replied: "Never, to the best of my knowledge, but I can not answer definitely."

The witness was handed a 16-page memorandum identified as having been prepared by Teamsters union lawyers as a guide for invoking the Fifth Amendment.

After consulting with Stanley Rosenblum, one of the attorneys who drew up the memorandum in 1954, Gibbons told the committee: "The memorandum was prepared for me and distributed to Teamsters attorneys."

"Why would a firm of lawyers prepare a 16-page memorandum on the Fifth Amendment?" Kennedy inquired.

"Because there is a Teamsters lawyers association," the witness replied.

No Personal Assignments.
Questioned about circumstances under which Louis D. Shoulders, then an Ace Cab Co. chauffeur, was sent to Granite City in 1953 to interfere with a strike, Gibbons declared he had no knowledge of sending Shoulders anywhere.

He explained that he personally did not send "volunteers" on strike assignments.

"State meetings are held and shop stewards are consulted about individuals who want to help the union," Gibbons testified.

"Someone called the Ace Cab Co., where Shoulders worked, and he was sent on the assignment, but I have no personal knowledge of the matter," Gibbons told the committee.

"Do you keep a group of thugs to act as volunteers?" Senator McClellan asked.

"I have no thugs," Gibbons replied angrily.

Senator Irving M. Ives (Rep., New York), took over the questioning.

"What kind of clause do you have that permits you to pull men off a job for union activities?" Ives inquired.

"I don't know how you can win a strike unless you mobilize the membership," Gibbons responded. "This is sometimes done for political purposes."

'Go In Heavily for Politics.'
"You mean you engage in politics?" Senator Ives continued.

"Yes, we go in heavily for politics in Local 688," Gibbons replied.

Senator Ives expressed interest in "any contract that permits the removal of men from their jobs to pull a strike." He asked Gibbons to furnish a copy of such a document later.

Questioning then turned to a reported meeting of Gibbons and other Teamster officials with Miss Mary Lou Bledsoe, self-described "decoy" in the 1953 Yellow Cab strike in St. Louis. Miss Bledsoe testified she was instructed in her duties at a meeting at 1127 Pine street which Gibbons attended.

"I'm in and out of meetings constantly," Gibbons answered. "I will not deny having been there, but I raise a serious question that I was."

Gibbons showed resentment when Kennedy sought to connect violence in a taxicab strike in Wichita, Kan., in June 1954, with the presence in Wichita of several St. Louis Teamsters agents.

"There is violence in Washington today and you sit here," the witness replied. "It is unjust to attempt to connect those men with violence when there is no legal showing of a connection."

Questioned on Racketeers.
Senator Ives leaned forward and said he had a question for Gibbons.

"How does it happen that in the Teamsters you have so many members who fall in the racketeer class?" he asked. "I don't know of any other unions that have as many, do you?"

Gibbons denied that his union had any more than its share of such members, but he added: "There's no mystery about why we have so many members who have made mistakes and are trying to rehabilitate themselves."

Gibbons explained that the Teamsters have co-operated with ministers, social workers and parole authorities in giving jobs to persons who have run afoul of the law and are trying to make a comeback.

"We happen to be in a largely unskilled area," he said. "It takes no particular talent to drive a truck, although it is a responsible job."

Teamsters Singled Out.
Ives said: "I can't criticize your desire to rehabilitate people, but I'm intrigued by the preponderance in your union of such people."

Gibbons replied, "I don't want to say that this is a ven-delta that your chief counsel is conducting," and went on to say that the Teamsters seem to be the one union singled out for attention.

"We've found more wrong with the Teamsters," Senator Ives said. "I'm not criticizing anybody who co-operates with a priest, but it just doesn't make sense. You seem to go out of your way to get these gangsters. Now why do you do it?"

No Study of Criminal Records.
Gibbons said there had been no objective study as to union membership of persons with criminal records, but that he was confident the Teamsters had no more than other comparable unions.

He had testified earlier that he had no staff to check the personal records of his members. "I judge them on the basis of their union activity," he said.

Yesterday, in his first appearance before the committee, Gibbons denied condoning strike violence, "goon squads" or purchasing control of Local 688.

'Opposed to Violence.'
Concerning strike violence and "goon squads," the tall, 47-year-old lieutenant of Teamster President James R. Hoffa, told the committee:

"A no time in all my activities in the labor movement, have I ever set up anything or any group that could be construed as a goon squad."

"I am opposed to any kind of violence in labor disputes," he said, adding, however, "I am 100 per cent in support of workers' rights to defend their jobs and rights on the picket line. If violence happens there, I would have no quarrel with it."

Senator Ives said Gibbons' offers to pay legal fees and living costs for convicted union members rewarded troublemakers.

The St. Louisan, who twirled a cigarette lighter between his fingers while testifying, insisted that the union "isolated" pickets it found to be "crackpots," but defended men "unjustly arrested by a police department that hates our organization."

Gibbons said there had been

Denial of Goon Squad.
"Did you set up a goon squad to operate in December 1953?" Kennedy asked. This was a reference to testimony of violence in the Yellow Cab strike that year. Gibbons has been singled out as the man who directed operations to keep Yellow Cabs off the street.

"Mr. Kennedy," Gibbons said solemnly after the chief counsel referred to long police records of some union members active in the 1953 strike, "at no time in all my experience in the labor movement have I set up anything that could be construed as a goon squad."

Gibbons freely conceded, however, that an organization of volunteers was set up "to win the strike." He added: "I probably gave them instructions to get the cabs off the streets, but to do it peacefully. I am opposed to any kind of violence in a labor dispute."

In an exchange with Ives, Gibbons said he did not want to be misunderstood. He said he was against violence and did not believe it served the interests of labor, but he said: "I am 100 per cent in favor of the right of workers to defend their picket lines."

Ives said loudly: "You know very well that in 1953 your instructions invited 'violence.'"

Gibbons denied this, but told the Senator: "You cannot win a strike with cabs in the street."

Handing Gibbons a list of men with prison records who had been active in the taxicab strike, Kennedy noted one of them had been arrested for "shooting his mother."

"I Am Stuck With Them."

In response, Gibbons protested that he could not take responsibility for investigating the characters of all union members, and did not have the committee's facilities for investigating the background of people.

"If the employers have these people," he said, "I am stuck with them in the union."

It was emphasized by Gibbons, who defended his position skillfully and never seemed at a loss for words, that he had difficulty evaluating the testimony of witnesses whose character, as Kennedy had pointed out, was not of the best.

The Senators and Kennedy kept insisting that Gibbons should have known that violence would result when he used people with police records for strike duty. Gibbons insisted he had no way of investigating each individual. To him, they were simply union members who offered themselves as volunteers, he said.

Gibbons was asked about the testimony of Miss Bledsoe. She said she was informed by Gibbons and a lieutenant, Richard Kayner, of a plan to "destroy Yellow Cabs and warn drivers it was not wise to be on the streets."

Gibbons also said that Miss Bledsoe testified before a St. Louis grand jury investigating the taxicab violence matter in 1954. He added that he was not indicted.

When Kennedy charged in ringing tones that Gibbons had condoned violence even though he had committed no violence himself, Gibbons responded loudly in the negative. He added, "When I am in a strike, I am out to win."

Senator Laves asked whether this meant that Gibbons believed in using violence to win a strike. The witness said he did not, but believed "in the right of strikers to protect themselves." He suggested that employers sometimes fabricate evidence of violence in order to turn public opinion against strikers.

Under McClellan's questioning, Gibbons said it was not his theory that when a strike occurred, a man who wanted to work should be subjected to violence. He said a non-striker was entitled to protection of the law.

"Was it reported to you that a cab was driven into the river?" McClellan demanded. "Was it reported that a cab was turned over?"

Gibbons was questioned about testimony of Oldron A. Mitchell, a former St. Louis Teamster who told the committee last week he drove a Yellow cab into the Mississippi river in December 1953 at Gibbons's direction.

Mitchell said he served as a member of a "goon squad" directed by Gibbons, Kayner, Pete Saffo and Berra. Saffo is executive secretary of local 638. Mitchell testified he met Gibbons in the 1100 block of Pine street and arranged to pick up the cab at the Missouri Athletic Club, where it would be left by its driver, and "take care of it." The cab was recovered from the river earlier this year on information obtained by a Senate committee investigator.

Gibbons, interrogated about the alleged meeting with Mitchell, said he had no recollection of the meeting and could not recall any such conversation.

At this point Gibbons showed lack of assurance. He said: "I don't deny I did it because of the tricks memory can play on you. In this case I don't want to fly in the face of the testimony because I know how tricky the mind can be. . . I'd like to go ahead and say I didn't."

"Yes, it would be helpful if you could," said Kennedy.

Beating of James Ford.

Kennedy also asked Gibbons about the beating of James Ford in December 1953. Ford was a member of Teamsters Local 682 who had been critical of Gibbons. St. Louis Police Capt. Thomas Moran told the committee last week Ford was badly beaten when he tried to enter a meeting of the union, then under Gibbons's trusteeship.

Gibbons said Ford and his group had interfered with the orderly conduct of previous meetings of the local. In the interest of orderly procedure, Gibbons said, he "called in men from various unions" to see to it that peace was maintained.

Again Kennedy recited the police records of men Gibbons had called in, drawing from the witness the assertion that he was "prepared to stand by every single act of my life." He said he knew nothing about the police records.

"To me," Gibbons said, "they were just active trades unionists."

"You used them, Mr. Gibbons, you used them," Kennedy persisted.

"Not as men with criminal records," Gibbons retorted, "but as members of unions in good standing."

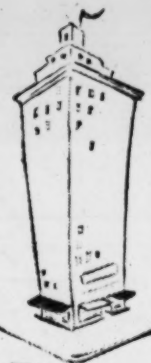

Kennedy inquired about Gibbons's relationship with Joseph Costello, operator of Ace Cab Co. in St. Louis, at the time of a "wildcat" taxicab strike in 1956. Gibbons said he was in New York at the time, but returned to St. Louis and tried to get striking drivers to go back to work.

$2945 Paid Ace Cab Co. Costello, Gibbons related, sent out cabs to prevent interference with his drivers. Gibbons said the union also sent out some 50 cars for that purpose. In the end, Gibbons said, Ace Cab Co. billed Teamsters Local 405 for expenses totaling $2945 and the union paid the bill.

Kennedy said, "All of the men whom the union paid through Ace Cab Co. had criminal records." Gibbons's counsel sel pointed out that the union had not hired the men.

"You condone the hiring of these gangsters and hoodlums to patrol the streets of St. Louis," Kennedy exclaimed to Gibbons.

"I do not," said Gibbons. He said Ace Cab Co. was under contract with the union and the union was legally responsible for the expenses incurred in coping with the unauthorized strike.

Senator Ives engaged Gibbons in a philosophical discussion about his responsibilities as a labor leader. The Senator brought out that unions headed by Gibbons in St. Louis had been involved in 250 strikes since 1941.

Some for Union Recognition.

"You mean management in St. Louis is so much opposed to unions that you have to strike once a month?" he asked Gibbons after the witness explained that some of the strikes were to obtain recognition of the union as bargaining agent.

Gibbons said he thought it was bad to have even one strike. He said he thought the record was not unfavorable.

however, in view of the fact that the union has 350 companies under contract.

Ives said he himself was bitterly opposed to "sweetheart contracts," in which union leaders give management advantageous terms at expense of union members, but he wondered whether Gibbons was on sufficiently friendly terms with management in St. Louis.

"When it comes to the business community of St. Louis," Gibbons said, "I am not on friendly terms with it—including civic progress."

Strikes and War.

In a heated exchange with Ives, Gibbons was accused of favoring violence in strikes. He denied this, but attempted to draw an analogy "between the will to win that prevails among strikers and the will to win that permeates the American people in wartime."

Ives scornfully rejected this. Gibbons was told that "what the American people feel in war and how you feel" were different things.

Gibbons said he "tried to build a bridge that would avoid strikes costly to both management and labor." He explained that his union had pioneered in such matters as medical care, and Ives said that perhaps Gibbons had tried to move too fast, and had not made friends.

Ives said he believed that Gibbons had the necessary intelligence and ability to get along better with management, and "if management is what you say it is, you've got a job to do."

JORDAN SAYS SMUGGLERS MOVED IN EGYPTIAN ARMS

AMMAN, Sept. 3 (AP)—The army said today it has evidence of arms smuggling from Egypt to Jordan dissidents. It displayed 3600 pounds of TNT which a spokesman said was moved into southern Jordan by camel train from Egypt's Sinai desert.

The spokesman said a desert patrol captured eight tribesmen from Sinai with Egyptian identity cards who brought 2400 pounds of explosives to Jordan on eight camels in early August. A ninth man escaped, the spokesman said.

He added that the eight now are in prison. After weeks of questioning, the spokesman said, they told where more TNT was hidden in the desert and also told who had employed them.

EAST SIDE JAILS DO NOT HAVE THE REAL MCCOY

Deputies at the St. Clair county sheriff's office were nonplussed today after they received a telegram from California prison officials asking when they could pick up an escapee being held at the jail in Belleville.

The telegram was the first word deputies had that they were "holding" the escaped convict, one Henderson McCoy, formerly of East St. Louis. A quick look through the jail failed to turn up McCoy. Nor was he to be found at any of the 13 other jails in the East Side area.

McCoy escaped from San Quentin penitentiary last July 23 and hasn't been seen since. Earlier today, however, prison officials there received a long distance telephone call from a man who said he was McCoy. He said he had surrendered himself to East Side authorities.

San Quentin officials fired off a telegram asking deputies at Belleville if McCoy had waived extradition and when he would be ready to be picked up. The search was on and at last report it appeared the escaped prisoner was still on the loose.

HUMP IN LAWN JUST AN OLD UNEXPLODED AERIAL BOMB

PLYMOUTH, England, Sept. 3 (UPI)—For years the elderly women of the Ingleside Old Peoples' Home have strolled about the broad lawns and held tea parties on the greenward. Yesterday one of the women tripped on a hump in the lawn and complained to the gardener. When he tried to level off the offending hump he found a hole seven feet deep and two feet across. In the hole was a relic of World War II, an unexploded aerial bomb.

M'DONNELL GETS HIGH ALTITUDE TESTING CHAMBER

An altitude and environment chamber was received today for installation in McDonnell Aircraft Corp.'s thermodynamics laboratory.

The chamber will be used for testing materials under simulated high altitude conditions. It will permit test of materials at temperatures ranging from 660 degrees Fahrenheit to minus 65 degrees.

Valued at about $500,000, the unit was purchased from Tenny Engineering Co., Union, N.J., and was shipped in four sections by ship to New Orleans and brought to St. Louis by barge.

When assembled the chamber will be 44 feet long, 18 feet high and 18 feet wide. It was taken in sections by truck to the plant today.

WOMAN WHOSE AUTO HIT POLICE CAR GETS 30 DAYS

Miss Aroura Duff, a maid, 4873 Page boulevard, was found guilty today of careless driving by Provisional Police Judge Drew Luten, who sentenced her to 30 days in the City Workhouse. She also was fined $100 for destruction of property.

Police testified that on Aug. 24 she drove an automobile into Pendleton avenue from an alley between Delmar and Washington boulevards.

The officers said that as the automobile moved into Pendleton, it struck a police cruiser, causing $1500 damage. Miss Duff, 23 years old, did not testify.

VETERINARIANS SUE HUMANE SOCIETY

Suit to enjoin the Humane Society of Missouri from the alleged practice of veterinary medicine was filed today in circuit court by 28 veterinarians.

The veterinarians charged that the Humane Society is operating in direct competition with them, in violation of its certificate of incorporation.

The Humane Society charges fees for services to diseased and injured animals, sells animals which it has collected "ostensibly in the performance of some humane duty," and employs a staff of both licensed and unlicensed veterinarians, collecting at least a percentage of their fees, the suit charged. Money which the organization obtains through donations and bequests is used to expand its commercial enterprises, the veterinarians alleged.

At the same time, the petition stated, the Humane Society has failed to provide a free animal clinic or emergency service, as was intended as its original purpose.

Circuit Judge Theodore McMillan set Sept. 11 for a hearing on why a temporary injunction should not be granted. The plaintiffs are veterinarians living in St. Louis and St. Louis county. The Humane Society shelter is at 1210 Macklind avenue.

G. S. Henry Dies in Canada. TODMORDEN, Ont., Sept. 3 (AP)—Former Ontario Premier George S. Henry died last night on the farm he sold less than two weeks ago for nearly $2,000,000. He was 87 years old. He raised prize Holsteins on his large farm. In politics he was a lifelong Conservative.

POSSE CAPTURES COUPLE AFTER POLICEMAN IS SHOT

GREYBULL, Wyo., Sept. 3 (AP)—A sheriff's posse today captured a young couple sought in connection with the shooting of a Greybull policeman. The two were taken into custody at a farm house just outside Greybull, ending an all-night search of the badland area north of here.

The posse was organized last night shortly after Glen Coxen was abducted in his police cruiser and shot in the face when he sought to question the pair. He was reported to be in serious condition.

Sheriff Lavell Brinkerhoff identified the man as Robert Ross Miller of San Francisco. He said the woman had not yet been questioned or identified. The couple abandoned a stolen car.

SEVENTH and WASHINGTON

By the Associated Press.
Dulles met yesterday with members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, including Chairman Gen. Nathan Twining and other Defense Department officials.
Shortly afterward, Mr. Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Newport, R.I., announced Dulles would fly there for a conference with the President tomorrow morning.
The State Department said Dulles spent his second day back from vacation getting a top-level Pentagon briefing.
"The purpose of the meeting," the announcement said, "was to analyze the serious situation created by the continuing use of force by the Chinese Communists in pursuit of their territorial objectives in the general area of the Taiwan (Formosa) straits."
The United States is committed by treaty to defend Formosa and the Pescadores. But it is left to the President to decide whether that defense requires also the defense of the offshore islands.
Dulles's findings, during these three days of close examination, presumably would help Mr. Eisenhower reach his crucial decision if Red China actually launches the attack it has long threatened.
White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, in announcing at Newport that Dulles would fly there, was asked if it was an emergency. He replied:
"You people are always looking for words I don't use; the Secretary of State calls it serious."

that the Seventh Fleet is being reinforced and that tactical air commands units have been moved to the Far East.
"Other than that, I don't know what Adm. Smoot is talking about," McElroy said.
Asked about Smoot's comment that "we will lick" the Chinese Reds if they attack Quemoy, McElroy said:
"We are not disposed to make trouble. We don't want to be rattling sabers and saying we can lick anybody in the world. That is not in our interests."
Secretary of State John Foster Dulles held an hour-long meeting with representatives of the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty to discuss the Formosa crisis.
Ambassador Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand told newspapermen there was "an exchange of views," but he flatly refused to give any details. He said Dulles summoned the diplomats for the conference.
The Southeast Asia treaty does not embrace the Formosa area but treaty members all have special interests in the situation.

sador Hollington K. Tong said last night he was convinced the Red Chinese "are determined to conquer the Nationalist stronghold on Formosa and then seek Far East domination."
Tong said in a radio interview the Red Chinese could not expect "sanctuary" on the China mainland if they launch an attack on the offshore islands.
He recalled that air defenders in the Korean war dropped their pursuit of Red Chinese aircraft when they reached the Yalu river boundary. This will never happen again, he said, adding:
"Even in a local war there would be no protection for the attacking forces in the areas from which planes or vessels can launch attacks on the West—no protection, no sanctuary."
Izvestia Repeats Soviet Warning on Formosa.
LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Izvestia repeated today a Russian warning that the Soviet Union would stand by Red China in any struggle for Formosa or the Chinese offshore islands.
"No military threats or any widely advertised demonstrations by United States armed forces can alter the determination of the Chinese people to assert legal rights to Taiwan (Formosa) and the offshore islands," Izvestia said, as quoted by the Moscow radio.
"The U.S.S.R., tied to the Chinese people's republic by the bonds of an inviolable fraternal alliance, fully supports this just struggle. This should not be forgotten by the United States imperialists, whose policy 'on the brink of war' has led to a series of complete failures."
It charged that the United States was "engaging in active military provocations" and playing with fire.

BRITON, 4 CYPRIOTS KILLED IN GUN FIGHT

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Sept. 3 (AP)—British troops fought a five-hour battle with small arms, rockets and grenades yesterday against a Cypriot underground band holed up in a stone barn. One Briton and four Cypriots were killed.

The clash the toughest since the Greek-Cypriot underground Eoka began its fight against British rule 3½ years ago. The action began when British troops, acting on a tip, went to the barn outside the Famagusta suburb of Liopectri. The four men in the barn opened fire, wounding one soldier. Troops surrounded the barn and returned the fire. Rockets and grenades were hurled against the windowless stone building, but it withstood the attack.

At one point 15 soldiers rushed the barn. They were met by submachine gun fire. Four were wounded and the rest fell back. Finally a few soldiers got to the roof of the barn, cut a hole and set fire to a pile of straw inside. The four Cypriots came out shooting and were cut down.

The British fired 1000 small arms rounds in the siege. All the men among the 1200 villagers of Liopectri were rounded up and held in a schoolhouse while the fighting raged. One of the four men killed was identified later as an underground leader who formerly had a price of $14,000 on his head. Earlier in Nicosia, a British airman was shot and killed while walking along a street with his wife. The wife was wounded.

In another incident, a British army vehicle was ambushed and one service man was wounded. The outbursts of violence left no doubt that Eoka has called off the truce it declared Aug. 4. The organization said at that time it would reopen operations if what it called "Anglo-Turkish provocations" continued.

British authorities today ordered Greek Cypriot youths between 15½ and 25½ years old to stay off the streets until further notice.

FUEL FIRM PROHIBITED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 3.—A temporary order prohibiting sale of stock by the Holman-ite Fuel Co., Inc., of Alton, or by the company's president, Henry W. Holman, was issued here yesterday by Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter.

Carpenter said an investigation showed that Holman had told a potential investor he had developed two new fuels, one from compressed corn cobs and the other from coal mine slag. Holman offered the potential investor a distributorship for the products, if he purchased stock in the company, Carpenter said.

The stock was not registered for sale in Illinois, Carpenter said, and its sale was "fraudulent and inequitable." A hearing to determine if the order should be made permanent was set for Sept. 23. Alton directors do not list Holman or the company.

Six Negro Pupils Turned Down
As a Group at Arlington, Va.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 3 (AP)—A school board member testified today the applications of six Negroes to attend a white school in Arlington county were turned down in a group without individual consideration.

The only reason given for the rejection, Dr. Barnard Joy told United States District Judge Albert V. Bryan, was low achievement.

Joy testified in a hearing to determine whether 30 Negroes must be admitted to various white schools in the county, just across the Potomac river from Washington, D.C.

In turning down the applications the county board followed rulings by the State Pupil Placement Board.

Case of One Applicant.
Frank D. Reeves, an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, brought up the case of "Applicant B," one of the six who sought to enter the Stratford Junior High School.

Reeves said this applicant's last achievement score was 7.2 compared with the median of 7.7 at Stratford. Median is the mid-point of a series and not necessarily the average.

Joy replied that "Applicant B" was considered with five others as a group and not individually.

As a group, Joy said, the six applicants would be in the bottom 15 per cent at Stratford.

He acknowledged, however, that about one-third of the Stratford pupils have an achievement level of 7.2 or less.

Joy took the view that, from an educational standpoint, it would have been unwise to assign the applying Negroes to Stratford unless they were outstanding in achievement.

Bar at Another School.
Reeves also took up the case of five Negroes who were denied admission to Washington-Lee High School.

Joy said various factors, principally overcrowding, resulted in the denial of these applications and the assignment of the Negroes to Hoffmann-Boston High School for Negroes.

Joy said that if race had not been in consideration at all, the Negroes would have been eligible to attend the white high school. But he insisted overcrowding and other factors caused the denial.

The Arlington superintendent of schools, Ray A. Reid, acknowledged yesterday from the witness stand that the standards applied to Negroes seeking transfers to white schools were not applied to white pupils seeking transfers from one white school to another.

While the court hearing was in progress the Arlington county board advised teachers that the opening of schools—already postponed from tomorrow to Monday—might be delayed further.

The school authorities closed their case this afternoon and attorneys for the applicants were given a brief recess before calling witnesses.

Other Postponements.
Opening dates have been postponed in two other places in Virginia. Charlottesville public schools, originally scheduled to open yesterday, have set the date for Sept. 15.

The delay in Norfolk and Charlottesville will keep the schools closed until after the United States Supreme Court has acted in the contested suspension of the Little Rock desegregation order.

In Norfolk, United States Judge Walter E. Hoffman today denied the Norfolk School Board's motion to delay desegregation of schools until 1959.

In his order, Hoffman said he reserved the right to reconsider after the Supreme Court rules on the Little Rock case.

Following is a summary on school integration in various places.

In Kentucky, it was just another school day for 20 Negroes and 161 white pupils attending classes together for the first time at Fulton high.

The school was desegregated by court order. Three other schools also held their first racially mixed classes in Nelson county, Ky., without trouble.

The second year of mixed classes began today at Charlotte and Greensboro, N.C. Officials expected no trouble. At Winston-Salem, four Negroes will enroll in white schools tomorrow. About 200 white pupils have withdrawn from a Winston-Salem elementary school at which three Negroes have been enrolled.

No Trouble at Clinton.
In Tennessee, 10 Negroes went to classes with 873 white pupils at Clinton High without incident. The school was the scene of violence two years ago when Negroes first were admitted.

Texas schools, both integrated and segregated, have opened this week without any reported incidents. There were no reports of Negro pupils attempting to register at schools that remain all-white.

At Colp, Ill., classes began with Negroes attending a grade school and white pupils paying $200 tuition each to go to schools in nearby communities.

The Rev. Archie Mosley, Negro principal of the Colp-Attucks grade school, said there were no applicants from white children for the second year.

"This boycott eventually will destroy the district," he said. He said the school's main financial support comes from the state on a formula based on attendance.

regular annual conferences of physicists from the United States, Russia, Britain and other nations to speed work on controlling the H-bomb reaction for industrial use.

U.S.-CANADIAN RELATIONS IMPROVED, BENSON SAYS
TORONTO, Sept. 3 (UPI)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said today Canada and the United States have much better understanding now of each other's viewpoints with respect to special export programs than they did a year ago.

Benson, in a speech at Canadian National Exhibition, referred specifically to the United States Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act known as public law 480, and the Canadian grant and credit program for moving wheat to South Asia.

He said the surplus disposal laws of both countries were necessary and inevitable.

He emphasized that the surplus disposal programs be administered "with the greatest care" in order that supplies moved be in addition, to and not competitive with, supplies that move in regular export trade.

BY AUTO, DRIVER
LEAVES SCENEIra Mobbs, 1508A South Seventh street, was struck by an automobile and seriously injured early today when he was crossing Seventh at Barry street, near his home. The driver stopped and then went on. Police arrested a suspect about two hours later.Mobbs, 56 years old, was taken to City Hospital with multiple fractures and internal injuries.A street-cleaning crew headed by Orville Kundert, foreman, saw the accident. Kundert told police the car was going about 40 miles an hour and stopped after striking the victim. Two passengers got out and ran, and Kundert said he told the driver he had better remain, but instead the automobile continued north on Seventh.Kundert gave police a license number, and Juan Ysaguirre was arrested at his home, 218A Lesperance street. He denied that he was involved, but was identified by Kundert and other members of the crew as the driver. He was booked suspected of a number of offenses, including driving when intoxicated.A state warrant against him
Joseph L. Niedbalski, 2316A
Allen avenue, and his 16-year-old son, Marion, were killed yesterday when their automobile struck a tree near Fayetteville, Ill., on Illinois Route 460 about 28 miles southeast of St. Louis.The machine went out of control after passing a truck.
The Niedbalskis were on the way to Todd's Mill, Ill., near Nashville, to pick up another son who had been visiting there. State police were unable to determine whether father or son was driving.Iceland Clash

entertaining visiting newsmen at dinner when the demonstrators appeared outside. Gilchrist played Scottish bagpipe music on his phonograph to cover the noise outside. A smoke bomb was tossed into the yard and the fumes drifted into the house. When the mob boomed, Gilchrist had the phonograph turned up.Then the demonstrators, most of them youths, began throwing bricks. Six panes of window glass were broken.
One pane shattered close to a British girl secretary."If they were cricket players they would be better shots," Gilchrist commented.
By that time the bagpipes had run out and the ambassador was playing Chopin for his guests on the piano.Every time someone got a direct hit with a brick on a window, the mob cheered. It numbered about 1000.A telephone call came from the Foreign Office in London.
Without raising his voice, the Ambassador gave a running account of what was going on.
Then he went outside to walk the dog.Casually he opened his front door, walked down and stood as close as he could to the mob. He looked at them andthe stone throwing stopped.
The Ambassador shook hands with a couple of policemen, and members of mob said not a word. After a few minutes, the envoy took the dog inside.
The state radio in Reykjavik said British trawlermen used axes, spikes and streams of water to keep Icelandic coast-guardmen from boarding one vessel to arrest its captain for violating the 12-mile bar. The British Admiralty made no mention of this incident.In the earlier clash, nine unarmed coastguardmen boarded the Northern Foam and were trying to head it into port when the Eastbourne sent aboard sailors.

The coastguardmen were captured and put aboard the Eastbourne, which tried to hand them back to the Icelandic gunboat Thor. The Thor's captain refused to accept them, apparently contending the men still should be on the Northern Foam.Sunday Wrestling Attacked.

U.S. PROPOSES 4-POINT U.N. PLAN FOR SPACE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 3 (AP)—The United States said today it will ask the United Nations General Assembly to adopt a four-point plan to assure that outer space will be used solely for the peace and benefit of mankind.

United States Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge announced that the United States has asked that the proposal be put before the 81-nation Assembly scheduled to open at U.N. headquarters Sept. 16.

The four main points are:
1. Creation of a special U.N. committee to make detailed studies and recommendations of steps for furthering progress in outer space work and to assure that outer space will be used solely for man's benefit.

2. A declaration by the Assembly separating the subject of peaceful uses of outer space from the long fruitless disarmament negotiations.

3. A formal declaration giving Assembly support to "the principle of the peaceful utilization of outer space."

4. An Assembly declaration endorsing in principle the establishment of appropriate international machinery to accomplish these aims.

Lodge announced to the American Legion convention in Chicago yesterday that the United States would seek assembly approval of an international space program.

The Soviet Union already has asked the Assembly to set up an agency for co-operation in the field of outer space. It wants the Assembly to take up at the same time the elimination of foreign bases on territories of other countries—a subject the United States says should not be linked with outer space.

Lodge said the potentialities for good and evil that will arise from exploration of outer space are enormous. He said urgent steps are needed to lay a solid basis for international co-operation in development of peaceful use.

He added that such steps can be taken "while parallel efforts are being made to conclude meaningful agreements on the disarmament aspects of outer space."

Internal Revenue Aid Quits. WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (UPI)—Justin F. Winkle, assistant commissioner of internal revenue in charge of technical activities, has resigned effective Sept. 30. He will enter private law practice.

OFFICIAL ASSAILS PROPOSAL TO GIVE DRUGS TO ADDICTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Government's top narcotics official yesterday denounced "proposals which he said would legalize drug addiction and establish drug bars for addicts."

Harry J. Anslinger, United States commissioner of narcotics, made the statement in an address prepared for the national convention of the Woman's Christian Union here. Anslinger was unable to be present, but the speech was read for him.

A report recently published by a joint committee of the American Bar Association and the American Medical Association would legalize drug addiction and set up bar rooms where addicts would be given free narcotics around the clock.

Anslinger said, "This would be the same as setting up state bars for alcoholics."

Local offices of the bar and medical associations said the joint committee's idea was to bring addicts under doctors' control rather than leave them in the hands of drug peddlers.

U.A.R.-Russia Air Service Talks. MOSCOW, Sept. 3 (UPI)—A United Arab Republic government delegation began talks with Soviet officials today on the establishment of direct air service between the U.A.R. and Russia.

WARSHIPS SAIL FOR RELIEF DUTY IN MEDITERRANEAN

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 3 (AP)—The attack aircraft carriers Forrestal and Randolph, two heavy cruisers, two fleet oilers and 16 destroyers sailed from United States ports yesterday to relieve ships in the Mediterranean.

Ships leaving from Norfolk, in addition to the two carriers, included: the fleet oilers Nan-tahala and Pawcatuck, the cruisers Newport News and Salem and Destroyer Squadron 22. The destroyers are the Dupont, Putnam, Henley, Ault, Waldron, Haynesworth and J. W. Weeks.

CONFESSION IN FATAL BLAST

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 3 (AP)—Police said yesterday a 20-year-old inmate of the Oregon State Hospital has admitted being responsible for the explosion at the Signal Fireworks Co. July 5. The man was identified as Richard G. Wagner of Milwaukee, Ore.

Wagner was on leave from the Salem mental hospital at the time of the blast. He since has been returned there. The explosion killed a child, injured 26 persons and damaged some 30 houses and small business firms.

REDS IN CHEMICAL PARLEY
 BERLIN, Sept. 3 (UPI)—The East German news service A.D.N. reported today that 50 experts from seven Communist countries are meeting in Dresden to discuss problems of the construction of chemical factories and new technical methods in the industry.
 The 11-day conference is part of the activities of the Communist Council for Mutual Economic Aid, the Communist counterpart of the West's Organization for European Economic Co-operation.

POLAR VOYAGES HAVE HEIGHTENED CANADA'S ANXIETY
 OTTAWA, Sept. 3 (AP)—The voyages of the American submarines Nautilus and Skate under the polar icecap have heightened Canadian apprehensions about the Soviet submarine threat.
 Naval headquarters, of course, rejoiced at the exploit. But the voyages caused frowns among naval planners trying to figure ways of defending Canada's harbors—and inland cities—from submarine missile attack.
 "The problem was there before the Nautilus and Skate cruises. But now it has been proved—if any proof were necessary—that ice is no barrier to the atomic submarine. Thus the navy now faces the enormous problem of how to prevent submarines from approaching Canada under the polar ice and slipping down Hudson and James bays to a point only 800 miles north of Toronto.
 The feeling here is that though Russia probably has no atomic submarines now, it can build them if the United States can. And Soviet advances in the field of missiles are already well known.

 Naval officers believe the submarine holds a greater threat for North America than the manned bomber or even the intercontinental ballistic missile.
YUGOSLAVIA SAYS IT GIVES RUSSIANS NO PRIVILEGES
 BELGRADE, Sept. 3 (AP)—"You have no special privileges in our country," the Yugoslav Communists told the Russians last night.
 The statement was in reply to the charge by Pravda, the Soviet Communist organ, that Yugoslav authorities had checked passengers and crews of Russian ships entering Yugoslavia.
 Borba, mouthpiece of the Yugoslav Reds, said the Russians and all others entering Yugoslavia are subject to customs control.
 "Maybe it's a custom in the East that Soviet citizens are not controlled when crossing borders," Borba said. "Perhaps that's why they are surprised that at our frontiers, they're checked just like anybody else."

BLAIR URGES BUSLINE HOLIDAY AUTO DEATH TO MAKE PAY OFFER TOTAL IN STATE LOW

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 3 (UPI)—Gov. James T. Blair yesterday urged American Buslines, Inc., to submit a new wage offer to its striking employees.

He called on the bus firm to bring a "revised wage offer to a conference here next Monday with union officials and the State Board of Mediation. In telegrams to company and union officials, the Governor suggested the new offer could be submitted in writing at the conference and then voted on by employees.

Company and union officials met last Friday in Springfield with Daniel C. Rogers, chairman of the mediation board, but failed to reach a settlement of the dispute. The union has been asking for a 15 percent wage increase for bus drivers. The strike began July 1.

American Buslines has headquarters in Lincoln, Neb., and operates busses into St. Louis and other Missouri cities. The firm has a bus station at 617 North Broadway in St. Louis.

The concern was cited recently by the Missouri Public Service Commission to show cause next Monday why its state bus certificate should not be suspended for failure to operate.

NAVY MEETING QUOTA HERE

The St. Louis Navy recruiting district reported yesterday that August was the fifth consecutive month it has filled its quota. A total of 1267 volunteers enlisted in the last five months, 150 more than the quota.

The office reported that 48 former service men re-enlisted in August, a record for re-enlistments here. Unemployment was given as one reason for the heavy enlistment.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 3 (UPI)—Missouri's Labor Day weekend traffic death total of six was "one of the best records in years," Col. Hugh Waggoner, superintendent, said today.

Waggoner added he was "real pleased" with the safe and sane driving. A record number of 390 highway patrolmen were assigned to traffic over the long weekend, and Waggoner said he was "certain this had some impact." Two highway patrol planes also were used to check motorists.

Lt. F. W. Shadwell, patrol information officer at general headquarters here, said eight persons were killed over the corresponding period last year.

"Six is too many people to be killed," Shadwell said. "One person alone is a tragedy. But when you compare our record with other states, we did a pretty good job."

Shadwell said 578 persons have been killed in Missouri traffic this year. At this time last year, 626 motorists had lost their lives.

BANK CUSTOMERS TACKLE ROBBER AND CAPTURE HIM

BLACKSTONE, Va., Sept. 3 (UPI)—Police today held a man whose attempt to hold up the First National Bank of Blackstone was thwarted by two customers.

Charles Nathaniel Mathews, 42 years old, of Wilmington, N.C., told officers he tried to rob the bank so he could spread money around.

Cashier Alice Hanson said he pointed a pistol at her, demanded money, walked behind the counter and stuffed $9600 into the bag. Customers Carroll Vaughn and T. O. Mayton, both of Blackstone, tackled and subdued Mathews as he backed to the bank door.

Heat Changed to Electricity By New Ceramic Compounds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—A new method by which heat can be converted directly into electricity was described today by Westinghouse scientists at a technical conference.

It uses a little known class of materials resembling the ceramics used in china dinnerware. Reacting to heat, they produce electricity simply, silently and without moving parts.

Among first possible uses seen for the new materials is in vastly improving transmission of radio signals from earth satellites. They may enable satellite radios to transmit louder and more numerous signals and do so for six months or more compared with about a couple of weeks when employing conventional storage batteries.

Emergency Power Units. Envisioned in another year or so are emergency power units for hospitals and for residential oil burners, washing machines and refrigerators during a failure of conventional power.

For the more distant future the scientists forecast that units employing the new materials would supplement, but not replace, conventional methods of providing large-scale power.

The Westinghouse researchers stressed that the work still was in its early stages "but the day of useful, reasonably-large thermo-electric power through these and other thermo-electric materials almost certainly lies in the not too distant future."

The new substances could utilize heat from such varied sources as coal, atomic reactors, liquid bottled gas and radioactive isotopes, the scientists said.

A radioactive isotope, such as polonium, would be used as a heat source in an earth satellite.

Cited in Testimony.

The Westinghouse scientists did not mention the possible satellite use. But their description of the materials ties in with testimony given the Senate-House Joint Atomic Energy Committee recently by Col. Jack Armstrong of the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

Armstrong said at that time that Westinghouse had developed thermo-electric materials that AEC scientists were trying to utilize "to provide an extremely light, an extremely small source of power for something like the Vanguard (satellite) . . ."

Dr. Clarence Zener, director of Westinghouse research, who made the formal report, said that while other types of materials have been used in the past to produce electricity directly from heat, the ceramics are more efficient.

Further, he said, the new compounds are "inexpensive, easily available, simple to prepare, and not composed of critical elements in short national supply."

WOMAN FREED WHEN SHE GIVES UP HER DAUGHTER

CHICAGO, Sept. 3 (AP)—A mother who preferred a life of a custody dispute was freed yesterday after turning the child over to circuit court.

When Judge Thomas E. Kluczynski ordered the girl returned to her father, the mother screamed: "You can't take my child away from me. That man is no good."

The mother, Mrs. Angelina Carey Flaherty, had asked that her 8-year-old daughter, Patricia Ann, be sent to the home of an aunt while the mother's petition for a new custody hearing is pending. Judge Kluczynski ordered the child to remain with William Carey, of Suburban Park Forest, Mrs. Flaherty's ex-husband.

Stowaways Fly to West.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 3 (AP)—Two Hungarian youths stowed away on a Hungarian airliner bound for Brussels yesterday, leaped out when the plane landed and asked for political asylum. One hid behind some crates in the plane, the other in a cavity beneath the passenger cabin.

POLE WHO FLED IN RUSSIAN PLANE NOW U.S. CITIZEN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 3 (AP)—Frank E. Jarecki, one-time Polish air force lieutenant who flew a Russian plane to freedom, became an American citizen yesterday.

Jarecki, 27 years old, now lives at Reno, near Oil City in Western Pennsylvania. He was among 19 persons naturalized in a brief ceremony before United States District Judge Herbert P. Sorg.

Jarecki fled from Communist Poland March 5, 1953, flying a Russian MIG-15 to the Danish island of Bornholm from near Warsaw. He was granted asylum in the free world and came to the United States May 1 that year. He turned down a $100,000 reward offered at that time to anyone delivering a modern Russian fighter plane to the West.

Turkish Cabinet Shakeup.

ISTANBUL, Aug. 3 (AP)—Turkey's Minister of State Emin Kalafat resigned from the Cabinet of Premier Menderes yesterday. No reason was given. The resignation was the second in two days from Menderes' Cabinet in what appeared to be a thorough political shakeup.

PLANGROUPOK'S HEAVY INDUSTRY IN BOTTOMS SITE

The St. Louis County Planning Commission voted last night to recommend rezoning of Columbia Bottoms for heavy industrial use. The rezoning was sought by the Industrial Park Commission of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis which plans to develop the area.

The plan commission made one exception in the rezoning. It reserved a section on Columbia Bottoms road, 1000 feet deep, for commercial purposes.

The recommendation will be presented to the St. Louis County Council at its regular meeting next Wednesday.

The tract consists of 5000 acres at the confluence of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. It was purchased by the City of St. Louis more than 10 years ago for development as an airport but those plans did not work out.

The St. Louis Board of Aldermen voted last June to give the Industrial Park Corp. for $25,000 a three-year option to buy the land for the appraised price of $1,250,000.

E. Oscar Rosenkoetter, vice chairman of the planning commission, said there was considerable discussion last night of city ownership of so much land in the county—thereby making it untaxable.

There is a possibility, he said, that steps may be taken to void the zoning if the purchase option is not exercised by the industrial park corporation.

Very little attention was given to the question of roads for the area at this time, Rosenkoetter said, because it is felt that road plans will be worked out as the area is developed slowly, without any sudden influx.

ALGERIAN GROUP STARTS WORK ON REFERENDUM

NEW YORK Times News Service ALGIERS, Sept. 2—A 16-member control commission went to work here yesterday to supervise preparations in Algeria for the referendum on constitutional reform.

The commission, which will supervise the balloting also, consists of 14 observers from France and two from Algeria.

Henri Hoppenot, career diplomat who served in Washington in World War II as the representative of Gen. De Gaulle's provisional government, is the commission's president. The two members from Algeria are Salah Mahdi, a Moslem, and M. Darrodes, a European. Mahdi is president of the court of appeals of Algiers. Darrodes is a member of that court.

MISSOURI TURNED DOWN IN BID FOR U.S. FLOOD AID

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 3 (AP)—Missouri's request for emergency federal funds to rebuild flood damaged roads and bridges has been turned down. Presidential assistant Sherman Adams wired Gov. James T. Blair today no federal aid would be made available under Public Law 873.

Adams said the Office of Defense and Civilian Mobilization had surveyed the Missouri flood areas and found the damage insufficient to justify emergency help.

The Governor had requested aid for 19 counties.

Last week the United States Department of Agriculture designated 14 Missouri flood counties as eligible for emergency farm credit.

MOROCCO TO BECOME NINTH MEMBER OF ARAB LEAGUE

RABAT, Sept. 3 (AP)—Moroccan government sources said today that this westernmost Arab country would become the ninth member of the Arab League.

In its 30 months of independence, Morocco has refrained from joining the league because it did not want to take sides in the Egyptian-Iraqi struggle for influence in the organization.

"Now that the split is cemented, we see no further reason for not joining," said a high Moroccan official.

JEAN SEBERG, PARIS LAWYER TO WED FRIDAY

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Sept. 3 (AP)—Actress Jean Seberg, who went from obscurity to stardom as Joan of Arc, has returned to her home town to be married to her French fiancé.

The 19-year-old Marshalltown girl will be married Friday to Francois Moreuil, 24, Harvard-educated lawyer from Paris, in Trinity Lutheran Church where she once taught Sunday School.

Producer Otto Preminger, who discovered Jean, will be a guest. Preminger chose Jean from among 18,000 aspirants in the nation-wide talent search to fill the title role in his movie, "Saint Joan."

Jean has made no further movies since she completed "Bonjour Tristesse" about a year ago.

Jean said her fiancé plans to practice law in Paris but is also interested in movie work. For the present, she said, they probably will find a place to live in California and honeymoon on an island off the Mexican coast.

Russian Longevity Claim

LONDON, Sept. 3 (UPI)—The Moscow radio claimed today that more than 500 men and women over 100 years of age live in the Stalino Oblast district of the Soviet Union.

The broadcast heard here said teams of scientists report all of them have spent their lives working at hard industrial or farm labor.

$41,360 SPENT BY SYMINGTON IN PRIMARY RACE

United States Senator Stuart Symington today reported expenditures of $41,360 in his successful campaign for Democratic renomination in the Aug. 5 primary election.

The report was released by James H. Meredith, Symington's campaign manager, who said the list of primary campaign expenditures would be filed today or tomorrow with the Secretary of State in Jefferson City. The report was filed today with the St. Louis county recorder of deeds.

Contributions to the Senator's campaign fund were not listed. Meredith told a reporter about 3000 contributions were received, ranging from 50 cents to "several hundred dollars" each.

Meredith said Symington was not required by law to list contributions in his personal campaign expenditure report.

although independent committees supporting him must. Missouri law permits senatorial candidates to spend about $75,000 in a primary campaign, or about $33,600 more than was actually expended in Symington's behalf.

Largest expense item listed was $7736 for the controversial campaign billboards, which brought some objections from members of the Democratic City Committee because they failed to state that Symington is a Democrat or was running on the Democratic ticket.

The billboard expenditures included $3993 paid to the Pioneer Advertising Co. for billboard space and $1743 paid through Fleishman-Hillard, Inc., St. Louis public relations firm, for artists' fees in preparing the design and for the cost of the paper used in printing them.

Other major expenditures were made for traveling expenses of Symington, Meredith and Stanley R. Fike, the Senator's administrative assistant, and for operations of the Symington campaign headquarters in Jefferson City.

Other expenses were for newspaper and display advertising, campaign buttons and matches, telephone tolls and postage.

Symington won renomination in the primary by an overwhelming majority over two little-known opponents. He did not campaign actively. He made a few weekend appearances in Missouri early in the campaign, but remained in Washington to attend Senate sessions during the last month and a half of the campaign.

BEGINS GLOBAL FLIGHT IN SINGLE-ENGINE PLANE

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP)—George Preston Williams, 34-year-old former Navy pilot, took off from Idlewild airport today on a projected round-the-world flight in a single-engine plane.

He hoped to fly nonstop to Rome, and complete a circuit of the globe in eight days. He is piloting a four-passenger executive type craft named "Wings for Peace."

The plane is made by the Mooney Aircraft, Inc., of Kerrville, Tex., for which Williams is a distributor in Mexico City.

GARAGE DISPUTE CLOSES STEEL PLANT; 19,000 IDLE

EAST CHICAGO, Ind., Sept. 3 (AP)—A dispute over relocation of a company garage today brought a shutdown of the Indiana Harbor works of Inland Steel Co. and made some 19,000 workers idle.

A company spokesman said the dispute involved 200 truck drivers who protested against relocation of a garage within the huge plant. Pickets appeared at the gates and prevented employees from entering.

The spokesman added that the pickets carried signs bearing the name of Local 1010 of the United Steelworkers Union.

Frank, 18 years old, St. Louis; James Taft, 17, Cole county; Roger Mingle, 16, Vernon county, and Larry J. Meyers, 18, East Prairie. The other eight were caught last weekend.

BRITISH GOLD AND DOLLAR RESERVES ROSE IN AUGUST

LONDON, Sept. 3 (UPI)—Britain's gold and dollar reserves rose $5,000,000 during August, the Treasury announced today. At the end of the month the reserves stood at $3,089,000,000.

It is the first time in 12 years that the gold and dollar reserves have risen in August, which is normally the period of greatest strain on the reserves. It is the eleventh straight month in which Britain has added to its reserves.

In August last year they dropped by $225,000,000.

NEEDED TO PILOT SPACE ROCKETS: SMALL SUPERMAN

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 3 (UPI)—A meeting of scientists heard an expert's report yesterday that indicates this country will have less trouble producing a space ship than finding a man to fly it.

Air Commodore W. K. Stewart, head of the Institute of Aviation Medicine, said the people who pick space pilots will have to find a man with superman qualities in everything but size. He will have to be small and light because 1000 pounds thrust will be needed for every pound he weighs, the expert said.

Stewart told the annual meeting of the British Association the first spaceman will have to have a combination of qualities seldom found together in one man.

He will need an alert mind so he reacts instantly to emergency; rugged health, to withstand the rigors of an artificial diet and abnormal atmosphere; intelligence and skill to control and service the space ship;

iron nerves to withstand weeks of isolation, and the personality of an adventurer—but he mustn't be foolhardy.

DRIVES WITHOUT LICENSE TO SAVE SELF IN QUARREL

RALEIGH, N.C., Sept. 3 (AP)—A woman who had been charged with kidnapping a baby and with operating an automobile without a license offered a plea of self-defense yesterday to the license charge.

Lawyer W. H. Yarborough, representing the defendant, Wilma Jean Collins of Garner, N.C., explained in Wake county superior court:

Doris Wright and a companion, Nathaniel, left a Garner tavern with Doris's baby in the back seat. They stopped to pickup Wilma, who got in the car and started a quarrel with Doris. Doris became so angry she began firing a pistol. Nathaniel fled and Wilma jumped in the car and took off for self-protection. When Wilma was arrested, Doris's baby was in the car. The kidnapping charge was dropped, but Judge Herman R. Clark fined Wilma $25 on the traffic charge.

LOSES DEPORTATION APPEAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Board of Immigration Appeals yesterday dismissed an appeal by Russell Bufalino from a deportation order entered against him at Philadelphia last April 2.

Bufalino was among those who attended a "crime convention" at Apalachin, N.Y., Nov. 14, 1957. Deportation proceedings were started against him the following month on grounds he had illegally entered the United States by claiming to be an American citizen.

Strange World of U.S. Television As It Appears to British Viewer

Washington Correspondent,
The London Observer.

WASHINGTON—There are many strange things to be seen on American television. There are adolescents whose voices are flattered and changed by electronics and who manage, even more today than film stars, to symbolize the dreams of unearned wealth and fame and oceans of love for the young and simple.

There are elderly singers who have survived and been accorded a sort of life peerage of respectable popularity. There are endless formula westerns where spiritually tortured cowboys do the right thing in the wrong way.

Home Life Can Be Beautiful. There are situation comedies where, day after day, a wise mother saves her husband from his folly and never lets him know he is no more than a puppet in her hands.

There are soldiers endlessly rewinning World War II and Korea. There are medieval sagas of England and Florence in which college boys in tight-fitting tunics fight for the purity of women, sportsmanship and the democratic way of life.

There is even an occasional politician, elaborately avoiding controversy and calling for hard work and unity. But the strangest thing I have seen recently was a half-hour interview with a man soon to die for murder in the electric chair. He was 37-year-old James Bell. The interview took place in Chicago on a weekly program.

Bell sat in a chair in a pool of light. In the shadows behind him you could just discern two armed guards. He was a Negro, with a sad, fleshy, stupid face. He never stopped licking his lips. Every now and then his eyes would stop darting around the studio and he would sit slumped and bowed and horribly hopeless. He looked a foolish, violent, pitiable man.

The interviewer was a tall, serious and very sincere man. He spoke without undue emotion. He reminded Bell that he was there under guard and that his appeal had been dismissed. He asked Bell what had happened "on that fateful day."

"Well," began Bell. "I'd been drinking all afternoon." He then carefully explained that he had killed a girl in the street.

"I left the tavern and told her I wouldn't give her any money and she said I'd be sorry for it. I kept on walking, as my memory recalls, people were passing. They hollered at me and said she'd called the police and, under the influence of alcohol—I had a gun in my pocket—I took it out and shot her."

Pathos With a Commercial. He admitted two convictions for burglary and that he had killed another girl. He said he had a good childhood.

The interviewer said, "I understand you've been a model prisoner, cheerful, in high spirits, in spite of what you have to face."

Bell said, "The only thing I can say is that I have faith in the Lord. I believe in a Christian family. I believe in the Lord. I knew I was doing wrong . . . the day before I received my sentence, the Lord woke me up out of my sleep and told me he was going to carry my burden for me."

He was followed by a Negro sociologist and a Negro minister who said the usual things about the responsibility of society for crime. There was a pause in the middle for a commercial.

15,000,000 HOLD HEALTH POLICIES FOR BIG BILLS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some 15,000,000 Americans are covered by a health insurance plan designed to protect them against such "catastrophic" medical expenses as the $2400 bill charged to the father of a child who had burned himself with hot grease.

The insurance paid for all but $500 of it. This insurance plan was created 10 years ago to take up where most leave off—coverage for illnesses and injuries of a financially catastrophic nature. Policies are "deductible." That is, the policyholder must himself pay up to a certain amount, generally anywhere from $100 to $300. Then, under the co-insurance feature of the plan, called major medical expense insurance, the insurance company pays 75 per cent of the rest of the bill and the policyholder 25 per cent.

Nice Work if You Can Get It. MACON, Ga. (UPI)—Gene Cochran was assigned by a firm that makes fish lures to "fish all summer and learn what fish think of the product." He stopped by his office once in a while—to collect his pay.

TRANQUILIZERS EFFECTIVE IN AIDING SCHIZOPHRENIA

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The effectiveness of tranquilizing drugs in the treatment of schizophrenia, the most common severe mental illness, has been demonstrated in a program of controlled research in 38 Veterans Administration hospitals. The VA said the tranquilizers, chlorpromazine and promazine, reduce both the number and severity of psychiatric symptoms. The VA study, which covered 600 cases, confirmed previous clinical observations that tranquilizers do not cure mental illness but help to make patients more responsive to other treatment.

ST. MAWGAN, England (AP)—A Royal Air Force helicopter whirled out to the rescue when somebody reported a swimmer floundering in Tramore bay. The pilot came in low and found a frolicsome seal, swimming competently in no need of help.

Bender, Now in Hoffa Pay, Gets A Brush-Off From McClellan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Chairman John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee refused yesterday to listen to what he termed a self-serving public statement from former Senator George H. Bender (Rep., Ohio).

Bender heads a controversial union-paid special commission created by Teamster President James R. Hoffa to investigate whether the union—ousted from the AFL-CIO for alleged corruption—is corruptly led. McClellan has had some caustic comment about the creation of Bender's group.

As the committee recessed a hearing on the Teamsters for the day, Bender approached McClellan and Vice Chairman Irving M. Ives (Rep., New York), with a request for an interview to discuss published reports that the Teamsters once had supported Bender financially for political office.

McClellan's Reply. "If you have any self-serving public statements to make, you can make them to the press," McClellan said.

McClellan said the committee had heard nothing derogatory about Bender up to now in its public hearings, but that if it ever did, Bender would be given an opportunity to testify.

With that McClellan strode away. So did Ives, saying "I have heard nothing like that."

turned to reporters who had witnessed the exchange and repeated a denial that he knew of any campaign contribution he ever got from the Teamsters of Hoffa.

Hoffa earlier had refused to say whether he ever contributed to Bender's campaign funds. He said that was something he believed the rackets committee would want to ask about.

Bender said the Teamsters and every other segment of organized labor fought him when he won a two-year Senate term in 1954, but that all AFL unions endorsed him in 1956. He said he has had a checkup made, and can find no record to show that he got any Teamster money in 1956 or any other time.

Bender Annoyed. Bender expressed annoyance at emphasis he said news stories have laid on the fact the Teamsters are paying him and his two colleagues $250 a day each to investigate the union.

"Every day I work I intend to be paid," he said. "I'm not wealthy, but I'm in comfortable circumstances. I don't have to be in a whitewash."

He did not say how many days a week he collects his $250 per diem allowance.

McClellan and Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy declined to say whether the committee was investigating reports Hoffa had been a liberal contributor to Bender's campaign funds.

COAST GUARD CUTTER LOSES HELM, SECOND IN HISTORY

HONOLULU (AP)—For the second time in the Coast Guard's history, one of its cutters has lost its helm.

A sailor reportedly came back on board the cutter Winnebago after liberty, removed the helm, and threw it over the side. With a new helm on the cutter, Coast Guard officials ruefully commented it had happened only once before in the history of the service.

Justice's Comment: 'Ugh.' DENVER (UPI)—Colorado Chief Justice O. Otto Moore, on hearing he had been given a lifetime honorary membership to the Pawnee Indian tribe, said he now can greet reporters who want advance tips on supreme court decisions with a noncommittal "ugh" instead of the usual "no comment."

TIMOTHY AND RED TOP SEED HARVEST OFF IN MISSOURI

COLUMBIA, Mo.—The estimated timothy seed harvest this year in Missouri is 9,100,000 pounds, Alfred C. Brittain, federal agricultural statistician here, reports.

Missouri farmers harvested 11,520,000 pounds last year. Both the yield per acre and the number of acres harvested were reduced by heavy rains at harvest time. The indicated production of redtop seed is 1,200,000 pounds, 61 per cent below the average production of the 10 years, 1947 to 1956.

The 1958 estimates for Illinois are 1,800,000 pounds of timothy and 1,625,000 pounds of redtop seed. Both figures are below the 1957 totals.

NOTES 'MASS PRODUCTION' BY DETROIT MOONSHINERS

DETROIT (UPI)—Moonshiners in the Detroit area have adopted the techniques of the auto industry and are mass producing "tax-free" booze.

Assistant United States Attorney John R. Jones said many distillers who used to be satisfied with stills of 54 and 135-gallon capacity have now taken to the 200-gallon size.

He observed: "I guess they have learned a few tricks from industry."

HALLETT IN OFFICE AS SEWER TRUSTEE

John F. Hallett, a vice president of First National Bank in St. Louis, began a four-year term yesterday on the Board of Trustees of the Metropolitan Sewer District.

He was appointed by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker to succeed Harry C. Brockhoff, who served about three years but resigned recently to devote full time to his private business. A certificate of appreciation was presented by the board yesterday to Brockhoff.

Hallett, 46 years old, is a native of Wellesley Hills, Mass. He was graduated from Yale University in 1934, after majoring in economics and accounting. He was elected a vice president of First National Bank in St. Louis in September 1949.

A $200,000 contract with Crow Contracting Co. was approved yesterday by the sewer district trustees for lateral sewers in Lakewood subdivision in north Affton. The sewers will serve about 500 lots.

Also approved was a $185,000 contract with J. E. Latta Construction Co. for two and one half miles of trunk sewer to serve the Creve Coeur-Frontenac area.

The sewer will extend from Lindbergh boulevard west paralleling the Missouri Pacific tracks to a point west of Ballas road. This sewer will serve an area of about 10 square miles in the Creve Coeur-Frontenac area.

W. A. Blue Construction Co. was awarded a contract for $42,000 for a trunk sewer in Vinita Park, extending north from Page boulevard about two-thirds of the distance to Midland boulevard.

Officials of the sewer district reported repair work is continuing on rip-rap along the south bank of River Des Peres near the Mississippi river. An earth slide of between 150 and 200 feet occurred there.

TURKS FIRED ON BORDER OUTPOSTS, SYRIANS SAY

DAMASCUS, Sept. 3 (AP)—The semi-official Middle East News Agency reported today that Turkish soldiers opened fire on Syrian outposts near Afrin, a border town north of Aleppo, yesterday.

The Turkish-Syrian Mixed Border Commission investigated the incident, the agency said, and the Turkish members of the commission apologized, saying the shooting was a mistake.

The news agency also reported that three Turkish smugglers were killed and six others wounded when a Turkish border mine exploded while they were attempting to cross into Syrian territory in the northeastern border district.

Pravda Attacks U.S. Congress.

MOSCOW, Sept. 3 (UPI)—The Communist party organ Pravda today accused the United States Congress in its latest session of "increasing the arms race and worsening the international situation." It said the Congress hoped by those means to "halt the economic crisis and to prevent any reduction in the profits of the large monopolies."

HOFFA REPORTED TAKING PART IN STRIKE MEETINGS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—President James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters Union is reported to be taking part in behind-the-scenes meetings aimed at ending a 23-day trucking tie-up in 11 western states.

Sources said Hoffa conferred last night with West Coast Teamster leaders and planned an early meeting, perhaps tonight, with trucking officials whose firms are involved in the interstate dispute.

Hoffa was reported also to have called a meeting of the Teamsters international executive board for this afternoon, presumably to deal with the shutdown and other problems facing the big transportation union.

The dispute started when the Teamsters council in Sacramento, Calif., called a strike of 2300 drivers to support a demand for a pay scale similar to that prevailing for drivers in the San Francisco bay area. The trucking firms countered by suspending most operations in the 11-state western area.

Hard-Hearted Red Boss Touched
By Love; Wants It in Book Form

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch
Special Radio, Copyright, 1958.

BERLIN, Sept. 3 — Walter Ulbricht, one of the hardest-bitten critics in the Soviet satellite stable, has come out in favor of love.

It seems unlikely that romance has touched the heart of the Socialist Unity Party (Communist) secretary at this late date—Ulbricht is 65 years old—nevertheless, this is what Comrade Ulbricht had to say in a recent address to East Berlin youth leaders:

"The girls want to read love stories. They ought to get them. Some youngsters—and that's why I'm telling the comrades authors—have said plainly: 'In your novels there's no real love.'"

"Well," asked Ulbricht, one of the most unloved men in Central Europe, "what is real love? I urge the authors to write more love stories—Communist love stories, that is."

That Western Culture. The thing that irritates the Soviet zone boss is the fact that young readers in the puppet regime prefer Western to Eastern literature, along with "decadent" jazz, sack dresses, and blue jeans.

"We can't leave the education of the youth to the fabricators of Western trash literature," Ulbricht concluded.

Curiously, these remarks touch on one of the softest sides of the Communist satellite world—entertainment literature. Observers in the West chuckled for years about the attempts of Soviet authors to put Red doctrine in their popular novels. Despite the chuckles, the indoctrination of a vast reading public that had become literate only recently was fairly successful.

On the other hand, in satellite states like East Germany, there was already a long tradition of high literacy and specific reading demands.

One of these demands has always been what the Germans call "entertainment literature"—historical novels, romances, and the like. Consequently, in order to sell any books at all, the "people's own" publishing houses have had to grind out a large volume of light reading matter.

Similarly, writers in the "worker's and peasant's state" have had to produce a proper quota of "real love stories"—no politics, please.

Of the more than 8000 books published each year in the zone, close to 40 per cent fall in the category of belles lettres.

What? No Message.

Moreover, at least a fifth of this book production is devoted to entertainment literature, according to Dr. Martin Greiner, a refugee professor of literature from Leipzig. Greiner, who has spent years wading through these books, says that few if any of them contain any "socialist message." When they do, he says, nobody buys them.

Greiner has a theory about this light literature. "People have been writing and reading 'kitsch'—roughly 'corny'—novels for 150 years," he says. "The costumes change—it was knights and robbers then; it's detective stories now—but the needs they satisfy remain."

"This literature of the trivial," as I call it, is something fundamental. You can't destroy it. The Nazis tried and they failed. The Communists have tried and they seem to have given up."

Greiner, who now teaches at the Universities of Giessen and Marburg, is convinced that the "corny" historical novels and detective stories compose one of the last bastions of bourgeois values in the Soviet zone.

"I believe it is utterly resistant to Sovietization," he said.

One thing that amuses Greiner about the East German "kitsch" literature is its utter similarity to light literature in West Germany. No matter how hard and fast the political and economic lines have been drawn to separate the Bonn and Pankow governments, he says, divided Germany is united in "kitsch."

DENMARK ACCEPTS PLAN FOR ONE PORT IN GREENLAND

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 3 (AP)—Denmark yesterday accepted plans of the American-Canadian Ungava Bay Iron Ores Co. for establishment in three or four years of a transit port near Godthaab, Greenland.

The company plans to ship its ore from the rich Ungava district in the Canadian Arctic across the Davis strait to the Greenland transit port in the 10 week a year when the Ungava bay port is ice-free.

From the Godthaab transit port the ore will be shipped on to European and American ports in the 10-month period in which Godthaab waters are free of ice. Denmark will collect a toll of nine and one-half cents per ton.

DEFENSIVE ARMS SOLD TO ISRAEL, U.S. ASSERTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (UPI)—The United States recently sold Israel a small amount of defensive arms, the State Department said today. Israel asked for the arms in July shortly after the Middle East crisis flared up in Lebanon, Jordan and Iraq.

State Department press officer Joseph W. Reap, who disclosed the sale, refused to give details on how many weapons or what type were sold to Israel.

An Egyptian newspaper said yesterday the United States agreed to sell Israel between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 worth of arms. Reap said such reports "are incorrect."

HOLDUP MAN CAPTURED, USED CHILDREN AS SHIELD

GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 3 (AP)—A holdup man armed with a rifle today held police at bay behind four school children and fled on the Merritt parkway in a stolen taxicab with one of the children as a hostage.

He was captured after an 80-mile-an-hour chase in nearby New Canaan. The 14-year-old boy was unharmed.

Police said the boy aided in the capture by knocking away the man's rifle when he leaped out of the cab to confront police.

State police officers persuaded the man to leave the boy's three sisters behind at the Greenwich toll barrier, where the series of events began.

The man, a Negro, used the girls as a shield as he backed to a taxicab in which he had ridden up to the toll gate with a cab driver a few minutes before. He then forced the boy into the cab with him and sped away.

FRENCH TRADE BALANCED
FOR FIRST TIME IN 4 YEARS

PARIS, Sept. 3 (UPI)—France's balance of payments registered a slight surplus last month for the first time in four years, according to a Foreign Ministry statement.

The surplus amounts to $4,400,000. Since 1954 France had a regular foreign trade deficit and there were fears before Premier De Gaulle's election last June 1 that it would have cut imports.

To seek a new foreign loan or During August, France piled up a surplus of $2,500,000 in trade with European nations. However, it ran up a deficit of $24,000,000 in the European Payments Union because it was paying past debts including $20,000,000 to Britain.

G. O. P. LACKING IN LEADERSHIP, SYMINGTON SAYS

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Mo., Sept. 3—United States Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), opened his campaign for re-election here last night with a speech in which he contended that the United States has suffered at home and abroad from lack of leadership by the Republican Administration.

"The American people have had enough of what is going on—more than enough—and they are determined to return the Democratic party to power," he declared.

"What this country lacks today—and this is becoming ever more clear—is the quality that characterizes true statesmanship, the quality of leadership. Leadership implies clarity of thought, a firm hand under trying circumstances, courage and vision. Above all, leadership implies the ability to act with decision."

Scene of 1952 Opener.
Symington delivered his campaign kick-off address at a dinner meeting of about 250 supporters from this heavily Democratic "Little Dixie" area. The dinner was held in a high-way cafe, where Symington had opened his first campaign headquarters in 1952 at the suggestion of the late Herbert J. (Jack) Blanton, editor of the Monroe County Appeal.

The Democratic incumbent turned down offers to open his campaign before a large rally in St. Louis or Kansas City, and chose to get his campaign under way here for reasons of "sentiment."

Symington, who may be an active contender for the Democratic nomination for President in 1960, also accused the Republicans of keeping the "true facts" from the people and juggling them into a false sense of security.

Floating on a Cloud.
"We have been floating on a cloud, oblivious of the danger signals flashing across the sky," he declared.

"Because no American soldiers have been dying on foreign battlefields, we have let ourselves be deluded into congratulating ourselves for keeping the peace."

"Because we considered ourselves the most advanced nation on earth, and because Russia was barely a generation removed from barbarism, we let ourselves believe what had been so would always be so."

"Where this Administration has defaulted most in its obligation to the American people is in keeping from them the truth about our dwindling relative strength as against that of the expanding Sino-Soviet Communist empire."

He said the Russians, in addition to launching the first earth satellite, are well ahead of the United States in development of intermediate range ballistic missiles and "years ahead" with the intercontinental missile. The Soviet economy is expanding at a much faster rate than that of this country, he added.

"No doubt this is one of the reasons they have been flexing their muscles recently in the Middle East and the Far East," he said.

Symington also struck out at Republican foreign policy, declaring "we have allowed ourselves to become identified with backward, discredited rulers in the Middle East and Asia, while the Soviets have successfully portrayed themselves as friends of Arab and Asia people."

"We have even neglected the problems of our South American neighbors to the point where our Vice President and his gracious wife were spit upon and stoned."

Cannot Forget Attacks.
In discussing integrity in government, the junior Missouri Senator declared Democrats could not forget the "vicious" G.O.P. attacks on the Truman Administration "about corruption."

He said he is "deeply troubled by the elastic notions of propriety which seem to have entered our political system," but cautioned Democrats to resist the temptation to make a political issue out of recent disclosures regarding Republican officials in Washington.

"As Democrats, we ought to be wiser and more honorable than to follow the example of the 'Great Crusaders,'" Symington said. "Let us candidly admit that no party enjoys a monopoly on virtue."

He reviewed at length his six-year voting record in Congress, and detailed his stand on agricultural issues. He pledged to continue to work for the betterment of the farmers, pointing out that agriculture is Missouri's only billion-dollar-a-year industry.

Officials on Hand.
Many Democratic state officials and party leaders were on hand for Symington's campaign opening, including State Auditor Haskell Holman, candidate for re-election; Lt. Gov. Edward V. Long, Secretary of State Walter H. Toberman and Wilbur F. Daniels, chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

DULLES SPEECH ARRANGED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will address the Assembly of Atlantic Treaty Associations Sept. 27 at Boston.

Also on the list of speakers, the State Department said yesterday, will be Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The assembly will consist of delegates from each of the 15 NATO nations. The group represents private associations which support NATO.

Earthquake in El Salvador.
SAN SALVADOR, Sept. 3 (AP)—A strong earthquake shook El Salvador yesterday. There were no reports of injuries or damage.

ANTI-TEAMSTER TRUCK UNION IS FORMED IN WEST

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 3 (AP)—Attorneys for a new truck drivers union disclosed plans yesterday to start a revolt against Teamsters Union jurisdiction in the west. They said the union, formed here, would file a petition with the National Labor Relations Board to be certified as a bargaining agent.

The new union is called the General Truckers Association of America. Attorney Tony Fredericks said it seeks to become the bargaining agent for employees of Consolidated Freightways in the Utah-Idaho district of the Teamsters Union. He said the constitution and by-laws of the new union "are sufficiently broad to anticipate membership of trucking company employees other than those of Consolidated Freightways."

Consolidated Freightways is one of many western truck lines idle for several weeks because of a dispute between the Teamsters Union and truck lines in central California. Fredericks said the formation of the new union had been made in "response to an apparent growing dissatisfaction among the employees with the Teamsters affiliation."

COURT UPHOLDS DROPPING OF TWO G. M. & O. TRAINS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 3—An order of the Illinois Commerce Commission which permitted the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad to discontinue two passenger trains between Chicago and St. Louis last April was upheld by Circuit

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Wed., Sept. 3, 1958 7C

Judge Creel Douglas here yesterday.

The cities of Springfield and Bloomington had appealed the order, contending that oral arguments had been denied. The judge said the commission was within its jurisdiction in denying them.

The G. M. & O. still operates four trains daily each way between Chicago and St. Louis.

Air France Flying to Cairo.

PARIS, Sept. 3 (UPI)—The state-operated Air France Airways resumed service to Cairo yesterday for the first time since the 1956 British-French invasion of the Suez canal zone. A French-United Arab Republic cultural and economic accord was signed in Switzerland last month.

$460,100,000 IN SURPLUS FOODS GIVEN AWAY BY U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (UPI)—The Department of Agriculture reported today a total of 2,845,000,000 pounds of surplus foods worth $460,100,000 had been donated in fiscal 1958 for use in school lunch programs and institutions in the United States, and by needy persons here and abroad.

This was an increase of 2 per cent in volume above the foods donated in fiscal 1957. The value of food donated in fiscal 1957 was $490,100,000. The fiscal 1957 donations included several million dollars worth of frozen beef, pork, and turkey which were not given away in fiscal 1958.

SENATOR NEUBERGER HAS MALIGNANT TUMOR REMOVED

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 3 (AP)—Senator Richard L. Neuberger (Dem.), Oregon, has undergone an operation for a small malignant tumor but his physician said yesterday it was of a type from which there is a "glimmering record of recovery."

The Senator's physician, Dr. Morton J. Goodman, said that Neuberger underwent surgery Aug. 29 at the University of Oregon medical school teaching hospital.

The doctor's statement, issued by the Senator's office, said, "The tumor was of a type and location in which there has been a gratifying record of recovery. As a protective measure, radiation therapy has been advised. This already has been commenced and is of the most modern kind."

BUSINESS POOR, BROTHERS LEAP TO DEATH TOGETHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Rebusch brothers were elderly bachelors—Roman 65 years old and George 63. Their health was poor. They operated a little company that manufactured bridal veils. Business had been bad for years.

Last night the brothers made a token $25 payment to another manufacturer in their office building who had befriended them and lent them money from time to time. Then Roman and George sat down at a desk in their little sixth-floor office in the millinery district and typed a note: "We have no money, no relatives, no friends. No religious service. Bury us in Potter's field." With that, they went to a window and leaped to death—together.

Japanese Neanderthal Man. TOKYO, Sept. 3 (UPI)—Japanese archeologists have dug up fossilized remains of two teeth and an arm bone on Shikoku Island on the Inland sea which they said might prove that Neanderthal men existed in Japan 300,000 years ago.

Locomotive Specialist. MOUNT VERNON, O. (AP)—Railroad locomotives are just too bulky to keep around the house, insurance agent Herbert O'Hanlon reluctantly agrees, so he is confining his hobby to collecting the big metal name plates from the steam engines. In addition, he owns part interest in an 1899 narrow gauge steam engine in a Golden (Colo.) museum.

U.S. Policy for Little Rock: Troops Going In if Police and Marshals Can't Keep Order

Department of Justice Official Comments on Faubus Statement—Eisenhower, Rogers Think Local Agencies Have Main Responsibility.

By JAMES RESTON

C. New York Times News Service, WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.

THE ADMINISTRATION is ready with two plans to carry out any United States Supreme Court order insisting on the integration of Little Rock Central High School Sept. 15. A responsible official said yesterday that the Department of Justice preferred to use deputy United States marshals to carry out integration orders of the courts and had already recruited a "considerable number" for possible use in Little Rock.

He added, however, that while the Administration would use the marshals and seek federal court injunctions against anyone illegally opposing the carrying out of court orders, federal troops had already been alerted to be ready in case the police and the federal marshals could not maintain order.

These comments were made in response to inquiries about a statement by Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, who quoted the New York Times as saying that the Federal Government was ready to use federal marshals to carry out Federal Court integration orders.

Marshals Handicapped. Deputy marshals of the federal courts, it was conceded in official quarters, are handicapped in any effort to exercise police authority. Their normal duty is to maintain order in the courtroom. They also have the power to arrest persons in contempt of court, and would have the power to arrest anyone interfering, say in Little Rock, with any court order instructing the racial integration of Central High School in the Arkansas capital. No official here is under any illusion that they could, by themselves, substitute for the police of Little Rock in the face of violent opposition to Negroes entering the school. However, the Administration is emphasizing that the primary responsibility for maintaining order in Little Rock and elsewhere lies with the police on the spot. This has been clear both by President Eisenhower and Attorney General William P. Rogers in the last two weeks.

"Each state," the President said on Aug. 20, "owes to its inhabitants, to its sister states and to the Union the obligation to suppress unlawful forces. It cannot by action or deliberate failure to act permit violence to frustrate the preservation of individual rights as determined by a court decree." "It is my hope that each state will fulfill its own obligation with a full realization of the gravity of any other course. Defiance of this duty would present the most serious problem, but there can be no equivocation as to the responsibility of the Federal Government in such an event. My feelings are exactly as they were a year ago."

Careful Check Made. Though the President's "feelings" about enforcement are undoubtedly the same, the procedures now being followed at the Department of Justice are considerably different. Forewarned by the outcry in the South against the sudden appearance of the federal troops last year, the Department is following each local integration crisis much more carefully and proposing the use of all intermediary steps for gaining acceptance before recommending the use of the troops.

Influential Southern Senators, whose support is necessary to the President's legislative program, have been emphasizing for a year that the sending of troops was "a drastic and illegal action" taken before other "legal" courses of action were attempted.

For example, Senator John Sparkman (Dem., Ala.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, drew a distinction yesterday between the use of federal troops and the use of federal marshals in such cases as the enforcement of the integration order in Little Rock.

"The exclusive power to provide the method of execution of federal court decrees," he said in Mobile, "is given to Congress by the Constitution." "By law, Congress has stipulated that enforcement of fed-

I.G.Y. Session Leaves Much To Be Done

Satellite Conference Raises More Questions Than Answers.

Editor's Note: This is the second of four articles by leading United States scientists who have participated in International Geophysical Year sessions in Moscow.

By DR. RICHARD PORTER
Chairman, United States National Committee Technical Panel on Earth Satellites.
MOSCOW, Sept. 3 (AP).

IT IS NATURAL to think of the work of a meeting such as the fifth meeting of the special committee for the International Geophysical Year as having been completed with the fall of the final gavel. Nothing could be further from the truth. In the field of rockets and satellites, at least, more questions were raised than settled. More work was left to be done than was accomplished.

Although some 75 important papers were presented by scientists from many countries during the seven half-day sessions of the rocket and satellite symposium, it was not possible for most of us to grasp more than a small fraction of the information made available.

For one thing, language barriers remain a formidable obstacle despite all attempts to surmount it. Another problem was the mental indigestion which resulted from too many papers for the available time. Therefore it will be necessary for most of us to read the translated papers and reports, to study them carefully, and perhaps even to correspond with their authors before much of the technical data presented at this conference can be completely understood.

Possible and Worthwhile. Fortunately for international science, it appears that this process of reading and corresponding actually may be not only possible, but worthwhile. Previous meetings on the subject of satellites, in which the Soviet Union has played an important part, have tended to be rather sterile. Little in the way of actual results had been obtained, and information about the vehicles and launching problems had been regarded as highly secret, at least by the U.S.S.R.

This year in Moscow there were some definite results to discuss, and although the Soviet scientists obviously still were unable to talk about how they launched their satellites, or how they sent most of the information back to earth, they were prepared to talk about their results.

Important results they were. First, the air density at altitudes of 150 miles and higher could only be estimated by means of very approximate assumptions before the International Geophysical Year began.

As a result of observations of the Russian and United States satellites by many I.G.Y. countries, it is now generally agreed that atmospheric density at this altitude is significantly higher than previously expected.

Radiation. Another subject of great interest was the radiation recently discovered in the ionosphere between 50 and 200 miles up and recently announced in Washington by Dr. James A. Van Allen of the State University of Iowa.

Several papers by both U.S. and Soviet scientists touched on this subject, and the latest information from both the third Sputnik and the most recent Explorer satellite was presented and compared. Although there were some differences in the data, it appeared to this observer, at least, that they can be explained by the differences in the means by which the data were obtained. And on the whole, there is agreement concerning the existence of the effect.

Here again, a good explanation of this radiation must be found. The extensive instrumentation of the Soviet satellites, made possible by their larger size, was very impressive to American scientists. Important scientific reports of early Soviet results on atmospheric composition, ion density, solar corpuscular radiation, micrometeorites, cosmic radiation, gamma radiation and biological experiments gave promise of great scientific advances to come.

Rocket Experiments. Despite the popular glamor of the satellites, one must not overlook the high altitude rocket experiments of the I.G.Y.

It was reported that the U.S.S.R. had launched 37 of these rockets by the first of June and the United States a similar number. High altitude rockets also have been launched by the United Kingdom, Australia, Canada and Japan. Results obtained include valid measurements of temperature, density and composition of the atmosphere in the important region between the maximum altitude reached by balloons and Soviet scientists touched on this subject, and the latest information from both the third Sputnik and the most recent Explorer satellite was presented and compared. Russia Never Demobilized, Truman Says

Tells Legion U. S. Faces Real Crisis—Deplores Cuts in Forces.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3 (AP). FORMER President Harry S. Truman said today the Soviet Union apparently is preparing for war, has been since 1945, and "the danger we face today is a very real one."

Truman said the United States trails Russia in arms and missiles and "for the first time in science we are behind." In this missile age, he added, the United States faces "a very real crisis."

He said there never has been a break in Soviet military preparations since the allied nations victory over the axis in 1945. At the same time, he said, American armed forces were reduced. This, he added, was "a grave mistake."

The former President, in a speech to the fortieth annual national convention of the American Legion, said the United States must be ready for war.

"We must have the strongest of defenses—we must surpass any potential enemy of the free world technologically and hold the free world together. This we can do."

Can Do It Again.

"It is wicked to say that we cannot do this without bankrupting our economy. Two world wars did not bankrupt us. Confronted by total war, we had the will, the resources and the ingenuity to do everything necessary to save our country and our allies for a free way of life. We can do it again, if we have to."

Truman's views differed sharply with remarks made to the Legion convention last night by Defense Secretary Neil McElroy. McElroy told the Legionnaires the United States is ahead of the Soviet Union in over-all military strength and this country and its allies are strong enough to win either a general or a limited war.

Truman, in his speech, said the Russians have missiles that can carry a nuclear warhead from the continent to ours. He said the United States also is behind in the number and quality of shorter range missiles.

The Russians, since 1945,

Muskie Almost Sure Winner Over Payne in Maine Election

Democratic Vote - Getter Expected, to Unseat G.O.P. Senator Who Received Favors From Goldfine.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 3.

AS MAINE GOES SO GOES—With a change in law this is the last year that the Maine election barometer, so often proved faulty in the past, will be looked to for clues to the fall election.

Next Monday Maine voters will go to the polls to choose a Senator, members of the House and a Governor. Because the Democrats have at the head of their ticket the most popular vote-getter in the history of what has always been a minority party in this state, the Republicans would like to amend the law to move this year's election forward to the national date of Nov. 4.

It is too late for that, and Gov. Ed Muskie is considered by most of the political soothsayers almost certain to defeat Senator Frederick G. Payne who is running for re-election. What it will mean nationally is questionable. Muskie's popularity is a phenomenon that ignores party lines and has little to do with issues.

Muskie is the new New England—the son of a Polish immigrant, who worked his way through college and law school—friendly, cheerful, a conspicuous success at the age of 44. Payne, looking every inch a Senator, is in the tradition of the Yankee overlord who for so long ran things to suit themselves.

Campaign Restrained. Reserve and restraint are strong elements in the Maine character and it is a little hard at first to discover whether an election campaign is really on or not. Asked if the report were true, one of the natives observed "Oh, yes, they're havin' an election campaign all right and it sure is cloudin' up the television."

The issue that the outsider might have assumed to be worthy of Democratic attention is never mentioned by Muskie or any other Democrat. That is the favors showered on Senator Payne by Bernard Goldfine as revealed in the investigation into influence allegedly exerted on Goldfine's behalf by his good friend Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President. Payne got an interest-free loan of $3500 to make a down payment on a Washington house, a vicuna coat and a number of free nights of lodging in the best hotels.

Payne is the only one to raise this unpleasantness and he does it, or so his critics say, by planting questions in his audiences. Then he answers them with a righteous fervor, insisting not only on his own virtue but on the benefactions conferred on Maine by his friend, Goldfine.

There are those who challenge this contention and one of them is the senior Senator, Margaret Chase Smith. The Lady from Maine has a forthright way of speaking her mind, and on one occasion she sharply challenged Payne when he held forth on the benefits Goldfine had brought to the state.

Senator Smith said that in her home town of Skowhegan she discovered that Goldfine had moved in on a textile company and shortly afterward the mills were closed and have never reopened. This is a sensitive point in a state that is losing industry.

AMERICANS FIND CAPITAL OF LYDIA'S KING CROESUS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 3 (AP)—The site of the ancient Lydian city of Sardis, once the capital of wealthy King Croesus, has been located by American archaeologists. It was found after two months of searching and only a few days before the experts' departure home. A team of Harvard and Cornell University archaeologists found ruins of the city under remains of a Roman city which had been uncovered earlier this summer. Harvard University reported yesterday. Sardis was the capital of Lydia in the Sixth Century before Christ and was a leading city of the ancient world. It flourished from the late stone age until its destruction by Tamerlane in 1302. King Croesus was the last Lydian monarch to reign there. In Roman times it was the seat of a Christian bishop and was one of the "seven churches

On Faubus's Defense

I would like to comment on the letter from Flora L. McAtee of Crawfordville, Ind.

I, being a white person, would certainly like to see the white people of the United States choose the manner in which they live; but I would also like to see our Negro people be permitted to do the same.

Since 1868, Negroes have been tendered the same rights as all other citizens of the United States. One of these rights is the freedom to attend the school of their choice—a right which certain citizens among them Gov. Faubus, would deny.

Therefore, I would term the "Little Rock deal" not a "Communist trap," as Miss McAtee suggests, but a prejudicial move to preserve "white supremacy."

I also dispute Miss McAtee's contention that Gov. Faubus was within his rights as a state official in denying Negroes admission to Little Rock Central High. Article XIV of the Amendments to the Constitution states, "No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States," and Article IV, "This Constitution," shall be the supreme law of the land. Gov. Faubus violated the Constitution, which made it perfectly lawful for President Eisenhower, as commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, to defend and enforce the Constitution.

P.S. on Humane Slaughter

As one who has worked to help end the medieval horror of slaughter-house methods in America I cannot allow Shalom Raskas's letter to go unanswered.

Anyone who has studied the hearings on the Humane Slaughter Bill must have noted the odd alliance of forces opposing this legislation.

In the forefront, although Jewish methods of animal slaughter under Mosaic law are fully protected in the legislation, are rabbis of the Jewish faith. Other forces opposing the legislation were some large and some small packers, the American Meat Institute, which lobbies for all packers, segments of the farming industry, and Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who takes no chances on alienating city voters or business support.

The issue is not, as Mr. Raskas seems to believe, that humane slaughter methods lack something of perfection. It is that they represent an advance of several centuries from methods now in use and will, upon universal adoption, inevitably lead to still better and more humane methods.

Neither does the matter have anything to do with hunting and fishing; for the issue here is not one of killing but of causing deliberate and useless suffering to untold millions of helpless living creatures. Leonard Hall, Caledonia

What Ails the Cornices

"The Cornice Bombardment" editorial asks what has happened to cause this. I suggest it is caused by sonic boom. Downtown buildings were not built with this sort of factor in mind. Don't blame the building or the builder. Blame the creators of this repeated shaking of the building. I say this is what is knocking off the cornices. E. Oldendorph

Unveiling H-Power

The announcement by the United States and Great Britain that they will share their research in hydrogen fusion power with the world is a development long awaited. Scientists have complained all along that a policy of secretiveness was hampering progress. Researchers in one country might spend months on a phase of the problem that had already been solved in another country. The tremendous forward drive that can come of pooled knowledge and joint effort was lacking.

How much the decision, just announced at the second annual international atoms-for-peace conference in Geneva, will mean, will depend on how quickly and how thoroughly it is implemented. Soviet Delegate Dr. V. S. Emelyanov announced subsequently that Russia will make public all the results of its experiments in controlled fusion.

If electricity can be made from controlled fusion of hydrogen atoms, plentiful energy will come within the reach of an energy-hungry world. Relatively scarce and hard-to-come-by uranium will be replaced as fuel by raw materials as abundant and accessible as the seas. The problem of disposal of radioactive wastes, a mounting vexation in the production of electric power from atomic fission, will be nonexistent.

Its hopes thus aroused, the world will look to the United States and Britain with particular urgency to make good on their promises. We shall be under more than ordinary keen scrutiny because some of the circumstances attending the announcement smack of propaganda. The announcement was not made until after Russia's development of its impressive Ogra machine had become public knowledge. It was then made at the opening of the atoms-for-peace conference rather than through the customary channels.

There is another reason still why our making good on this promise should be not only thorough but prompt, and that is that the development is very long overdue. Under the influence of Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, until recently chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, the Eisenhower Administration has clung for some years to its lone-wolf course in hydrogen-power research. Yet even Adm. Strauss, as the President's atomic adviser and delegate to the Geneva conference, now says the lifting of the veil of secrecy "is expected to facilitate attainment" of the goal of producing fusion power—a tacit admission that secrecy he insisted upon stood in the way.

From Adm. Strauss's prominence in announcing the hydrogen declassification, it would seem that he might have something to do with putting the new policy into execution. Though Adm. Strauss's opposite number in the announcement was Sir John Cockcroft, a member of the British Atomic Energy Authority, the United States Atomic Energy Commission and its new chairman, John A. McCone, took a back seat.

There would seem some question whether the best man to administer or advise on the new policy would be one who has opposed it dogmatically and constantly through the years. The AEC has a new chairman now. He looks promising. It is much to be hoped that the Administration will give Chairman McCone a chance to show what he can do as head of the country's atomic program in fact as well as in title.

Pot of Gold, Too

The fortieth season of the Municipal Opera ended on a run of lulling notes. It was the rainiest summer in many years and four performances were completely cancelled. Yet the total attendance was 654,000, approximately 17,000 more than last year when three more performances were given.

Notwithstanding the highest budget in the Muny's history—more than $1,000,000—the prospect is that all bills can be paid by receipts and that the pledges advanced by the record high number of 1484 guarantors will be refunded. "Roberta" played to 82,666 in the course of a week and that attendance goes into the record books as the second largest one-week presentation in four decades.

Clearly the public liked the policy of bringing Bob Hope, Dolores Gray, Virginia Gibson, Hans Conried and the other outstanding entertainers who played between the great oaks under the stars this summer. According to the schedule, "Finian's Rainbow" brightened the sky for only one week, but a more accurate view is that it stretched all the way from early June to the last of August.

Defense Goes Forward

It is encouraging to find the Pentagon already putting into effect some important provisions of the recently passed bill for reorganization of the Defense Department. The tempo should be maintained. There should be no slowing down in the drive to overhaul the cumbersome machinery for making decisions and issuing commands.

The Joint Staff, which does the planning for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the channels of command from the Joint Chiefs to various unified commands, are being reorganized. In effect this should mean sharper thinking in the brain that directs the fist and smoother passing of impulses through the connecting nerves. It is high time. For the past decade the command and planning system has lagged while new weapons systems and methods of employment have been appearing with startling swiftness.

Under the new setup, the Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Force are eliminated from the chain of command. The U.S. European Command, for example, headed by Air Force Gen. Lauris Norstad at Paris, will report to and receive orders from the Joint Chiefs under Secretary of Defense McElroy. All unified commands will be switched over between Sept. 15 and Jan. 1. As a result, the reorganized Joint Staff, and particularly its new operations section, will be responsible for daily liaison with the commands.

The Joint Staff, which was limited to 210 officers, should have need for every one of the additional 190 officers it has been authorized. Formerly this staff was divided into many groups in which the three services were equally represented. What happened was that the group studies failed to develop much worth while because each service indulged in logrolling. Under the new system, there will be several staff sections but no more committees. The Joint Staff will originate position papers and they will go up to the Joint Chiefs with any service divergencies. If all this adds up to an elimination of the competition and confusion that has prevailed for so long, and leads to swift communication between truly unified commands and an appropriately staffed group of Joint Chiefs, the nation's defenses should be far better equipped to deal with any sudden emergency.

'Keep 'em Guessing'

What should the United States do about Quemoy? A "help is coming" statement by an American admiral on Formosa only adds to the uncertainties permitted by the official Administration policy line, which remains what it has been for four years: "Keep 'em guessing."

This line holds to the 1955 Formosa resolution, which commits the United States to defend Formosa, but leaves it to the President to decide whether Quemoy and nearby Matsu are essential to that defense.

The "keep 'em guessing" policy may sound mysteriously effective, but it has a serious disadvantage. To a dangerous degree, the policy permits Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa and the Communists in Peiping to call the shots.

For example, last week the President said Quemoy had gained "in strategic importance" because Chiang had now stationed a third of his troops there. That is, Chiang was allowed to strengthen his demand that the United States defend the islands, simply by moving more troops there.

Meanwhile the Communists have sent more than 124,000 rounds of shells into Quemoy in two weeks. If this is a war of nerves, it is an expensive one. In any case Red China can face the United States with a risk of war by invading the islands. The Communists are keeping us guessing.

Hence the United States is in an unenviable position with regard to tiny islands off the Chinese mainland, which have no strategic importance to the United States. We are in this position because of the actions of two hostile Chinese regimes, which our "guessing" policy has done nothing to separate.

Even now Washington could effect a separation by inducing Chiang Kai-shek to withdraw his troops from Quemoy and Matsu. This would entail a loss of face for Chiang, and a retreat from brinkmanship by Secretary Dulles. The alternative, for which there is still time, is to place the Quemoy issue before the United Nations. The U.N. General Assembly meets in two weeks.

In the long run the U.N. may have to consider an international trusteeship for Formosa, to settle the rival claims of the Communists to that island and of Chiang to all of China. Such a settlement would entail admission of Red China to the U.N. That may some day prove to be a reasonable price to pay for peace in the Orient.

But at this moment the United States is confronted with the narrower, more imminent issue of involvement over islands which are not worth the risk of war. Why wait for such issues to arise before deciding upon a solution? In two weeks Washington could prepare a request for the United Nations to consider Quemoy and Matsu.

If Chiang is not invited to get off those islands, the U.N.'s attention can be invited to them.

Wherever Prejudice Arises

The most encouraging thing that can be said about the race rioting in London's Notting Hill district and the industrial town of Nottingham is that the police seem to be handling it very efficiently. Injuries have been few despite the many persons involved.

Only once before, in 1954 and in the same depressed area, has Britain experienced racial strife. That was minor compared to the present outbreak in which big mobs have battled in the streets. The roots of the present conflict are the same old ones—trouble over competition for housing and jobs and trouble over girls. In addition to the race problem, the London authorities also have to contend with bands of juvenile delinquents.

Preoccupied as the United States is with the Little Rock case it can find time to sympathize with Britain and hope that the rioting over there has come to an end. The British tradition of civil liberties may enable Britain to avoid the tragedies and mistakes that have beset America.

Mighty Good of Him!

Harold J. Gibbons, St. Louis Teamster boss, indignantly denied the assertion of McClellan Committee Counsel Robert Kennedy that he had used $78,000 of union money to "buy up" Local 688 back in 1949. The payment was nothing of the sort, he said. It was "a matter of decency" to Lawrence J. Camie, John J. Church, Harry Karsh and other officers of the old AFL local.

They had not completed their terms of office when he merged their union with his former CIO organization, so they were entitled to severance pay. No, they had no contract with their members calling for such pay. But on the other hand, said Mr. Gibbons, there was nothing in the constitution of his old organization forbidding such a payment.

Just the same, Mr. Gibbons apparently was not especially eager to tell his old rank-and-file members about the payments, let alone to get their approval in advance—even though the money was borrowed and presumably will be repaid from local funds, if it is repaid. It seems, according to his testimony, that Mr. Gibbons felt it was sufficient to mention the matter to his shop stewards council.

Maybe the shop stewards were glad to hear about the payments; maybe not. There should have been satisfaction of a sort in being associated with a man who paid out $78,000 as "a matter of decency." Can those who presumably will pay the bill deny that this was mighty generous?

To Serve Justice

Circuit Judge Jones of St. Louis County Circuit Court is to be commended warmly on his announcement of new policies for the Criminal Division, beginning Sept. 15. Here are the major provisions:

1. Every Friday morning will afford an arraignment docket for all individuals charged in informations or indictments of the preceding week.

2. All persons accused of a crime will be given official notification of the date of trial, along with prompt setting of the case.

3. Accused persons who do not have the means to hire a lawyer will be provided with counsel in accordance with their constitutional rights.

These new policies which Judge Jones announces should do two things. One is to expedite the handling of cases. The other is to guard the constitutional rights of all persons accused of crime.

The Rebel Yell Rises Again in Dixie Politics

From The Courier-Journal, Louisville

Twenty-two years ago the Solid South lost a vested power of veto in the Democratic party's national conventions. Its state political hierarchies have been writhing ever since. The recent election in Alabama turned up a fresh display of frustration's mortal pain. It showed that the lineal descendants of 1948's Dixiecrats, if not indeed those same seceders themselves, are at their plottings again.

In the 1936 Democratic convention at Philadelphia, where Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated for a second term, the party's rule requiring a two-thirds vote to nominate a presidential candidate was repealed. The rule then was 104 years old. It had been a party fixture since Andrew Jackson devised it in 1832 to make sure of Martin Van Buren as his running mate and heir.

Over the century, Southern Democrats clung to it and immemorably used it as a minority group's protection against steamrollers and candidates whose leanings they disliked. They took its termination hard, and from then on the party was to be roiled by a kind of underground resistance movement.

Milwaukee's Transit Spiral From The Milwaukee Journal

Revenues momentarily rise, but ridership keeps right on declining, red ink soon looms again, fares get another boost.

The Transport Co. and the state Public Service Commission take it for granted each time that higher fares are the inevitable last resort to hang on to solvency a little longer. The inference is that declining ridership is a separate problem, unrelated to the fare structure. In theory this ought to be true, since transit riding is still a bargain compared to true costs of operating a private automobile instead.

But do most people think that out? Do they just naturally prefer using autos? Or do most of these "lost" transit riders in fact suppose themselves to have been priced out of the buses?

In sum, does anybody really know that fare increases may not indeed be an important cause of rider losses, and not just a sad result?

are trying to find out. The 20-cent Omaha fare has been experimentally cut in half on certain runs to see how many more riders that pulls to a given downtown area; if it works it will be extended.

The Metropolitan Transit Authority of Los Angeles is cutting its 17-cent fare to a dime for a 60-day trial. Pittsburgh Railways Co. will carry its passengers to the downtown shopping center for a dime, too—a big break from 25-cent trolleys and 30-cent buses.

NEVER LOOK BACK, by Billy Pearson and Stephen Longstreet. (Simon and Schuster, 370 pgs., $15.00.)

Jockey Billy Pearson disregards the admonition in the title of his own autobiography "Never Look Back." This advice is apparently applicable to mounted jockeys only.

This is the era of public confessions. Barney Ross and Lew Ayres led the way. Then Lillian Roth refused to cry today for yesterday's mistakes, so Americans cried for her. Now Billy Pearson recalls his early years and a career somewhat less than entirely virtuous. One cannot help but admire Pearson for he makes an honest and objective evaluation of his life, mistakes and misdeeds included. Indeed, a life story which includes no mistakes or unworthy acts is either incomplete or counterfeit.

To borrow race-track vernacular, Pearson got away from the gate slow as a youngster, wall back in the pack. His early environment was built around a broken home and led him to trouble inside and outside the law at an early age. Later he won himself a job as a professional rider, but his attitude toward life and people had not yet changed.

Pearson says he and his jockey associates ridiculed the outside world and believed . . . people outside the sacred circle of horse manure . . . were all marks, squares, suckers . . . women were natural prey, marriage a convention of patsies." Even within such a group, Pearson was a non-conformist, "a good smooth liar with a baby stare."

Pearson tipped the scales at 100 pounds. He looked like a boy much of his life and suffered a great deal of abuse as a consequence. Much of his irresponsible conduct was probably a matter of overcompensation for physical limitations.

Yet this is the same Billy Pearson who faced Hal March in 1956, was quizzed on the subject of Great Art, and walked off with $64,000. Pearson had booted home the greatest long shot of all time. He subsequently became known as an expert on Pre-Columbian Art and an extravagant lover of beautiful things from "bummingbirds to Ferraris to Italian primitives." Bit pommel and girth seem foreign to tempera, fresco and wash, yet in Billy Pearson they meet. Art and racing are two sides of one man's effort to surmount mediocrity and abuse.

Stephen Longstreet is the man to whom Billy Pearson here tells all. Longstreet's version is earthy and spontaneous. He has kept it entirely within the spirit of the life which it records. Robert Friedman

Osark Adventure TREASURE IN THE VALLEY, by Lois Snelling. (Funk & Wagnalls, $2.95.)

Long a contributor of short fiction to magazines for young readers, Arkansas-born Lois Snelling has now achieved publication of her first juvenile novel. It is not surprising that she selected the Ozarks country near her present home at Rogers, Arkansas, as the setting of this fast-paced, suspenseful, and often humorous story of two boys on the adventure of their young lives.

Joe Prynn and Tip Craig, teenage cousins, come to Arkansas to explore some property which their families have inherited. From the moment of arrival, danger stalks them through the colorful and sometimes frightening country which Miss Snelling knows and describes so well. Narrow escapes become the order of the day as the two boys find themselves closing a trail of reality around legends of buried treasure on their property.

"Treasure in the Valley" is written in an idiom which will delight today's teenage reader. And the climax will thrill every reader, including this one. Edsel Ford

WALTER LIPPMANN

WASHINGTON.

LAST WEEK, ON THE TWO BIG QUESTIONS of integration and of the islands off the shore of China, the President followed the same fundamental line of conduct. This is what he would not make clear in advance what he believes and what he intends to do.

With the Red Chinese threatening the island of Quemoy, where Chiang has most unwisely locked up a considerable part of his army, the tactic of the Administration was to keep everyone guessing about what we would do in case of an invasion. And in regard to integration, the President not only refused to say what he believes but he cast doubt upon whether he agrees with the line taken by the Department of Justice and his own Attorney General.

This could be described as the use of mystification as a tactic—as a deliberate decision in critical issues to keep everybody guessing. But in all probability the President's tactics are not deliberate and are not the result of a decision.

Blow Must Fall First.

They are. It would seem, a habit derived from his military experience. For at the press conference last Wednesday, the President was asked by Mr. Chalmers Roberts of The Washington Post whether the fact that Chiang has so many troops on Quemoy would affect his judgment about what he was committed to do in Formosa. To this the President replied that "you simply cannot make military decisions until after the event reaches you."

This conception of the character of a military commander goes a long way to explain why there is no United States policy about the offshore islands and why there is a dense fog over what the Administration will do in the integration cases.

As Gen. Eisenhower sees it, the event does not reach you until "you reach you," and then you react—you send the paratroopers to Little Rock, you send the marines to Lebanon, you send the Seventh Fleet to Quemoy.

Dulles' View Differs. The notion of waiting for events to reach you before taking a decision is not, we may venture to say, an inspired conception of military leadership.

In diplomacy and in politics it is a tactic which, except in rare circumstances and among very astute and sophisticated men, is almost always mischievous. None knows this better than Secretary Dulles himself, who has put himself repeatedly on record in favor of not leaving our adversaries in any doubt about our intentions.

ter than Secretary Dulles himself, who has put himself repeatedly on record in favor of not leaving our adversaries in any doubt about our intentions. This, in fact, has been the central principle of the security pacts of which Mr. Dulles has signed so many. They are meant, as he has often explained, to prevent miscalculation and misunderstanding in the other camp.

But at Quemoy and the offshore islands we have been following exactly the opposite line. By doing this, we have put off having to decide, on the one hand, to advise Chiang to withdraw his troops from an untenable position and, on the other hand, commit our own forces to the defense of these untenable positions.

Fogged Up by President. This has meant that we have gambled that uncertainty about what we mean to do will deter the Red Chinese from doing anything.

Whatever the outcome, this kind of wager is an unsound practice, and it is beneath the dignity of a great power like the United States, which must not bluff and must not play tricks.

Carried over, as it has been, into the dark and dangerous problem of integration, it is a very bad practice indeed. As evidence of this, there is the speech last Wednesday by Attorney General Rogers to the meeting of the Bar Association in Los Angeles.

Mr. Rogers made a brave attempt to make clear, in the face of what the President has fogged up. But on the crucial question Mr. Rogers, who has no Administration policy to rely upon, resorted to exhortation and to pious platitudes.

Preaching But No Policy. The crucial question is what the Federal Government will do about the defiance of the Southern state governments, now that the issue is not lawless mobs but resistance to the state governments under state laws.

Mr. Rogers exhorted and admonished the state governments to accept the federal law. He said there could be "no equivocation." But he abstained from saying how the Administration proposes to begin to deal with the Southern resistance.

He could not say what is the policy of the President on this central and crucial issue. For there is no policy.

There is only the tactic of "not making decisions until after the event reaches you."

SNYDER HITS BOARD OF PARKWAY SCHOOLS

Superintendent Says It Is Mostly Interested in Economizing.

The Parkway Consolidated School District's board of education is more interested in saving money than in developing a good educational program, Robert D. Snyder, superintendent of the district, charged yesterday.

Snyder told 100 district teachers at a meeting held preparatory to the opening of school. "If this board's major objective is to economize, then maybe the board should resign or else start to reflect the desires of the citizens in the Parkway district."

The superintendent's three-year contract, under which he will receive a salary of $17,500 this year, will not be renewed when it expires next June 30. The six-member school board voted last week against renewal of the contract.

Reasons Differ. Snyder contended the board refused to renew the contract because the members felt his salary was too high. Elmer N. Widen, president of the six-member board, declared Snyder's salary was not a factor in the decision against renewing the contract.

"We are not satisfied with his performance," Widen said. He declined to specify the objections to the superintendent's work.

The school board president said he thought "it was very unprofessional of Snyder to involve the teachers in his personal fight." He described the speech as an "inflammatory harangue."

In his talk, Snyder declared "in my opinion, if our board had to make a choice between educational quality and economy, this board would take economy. Therefore, I do not feel that the board's thinking is in harmony with the desires of our citizens who want an outstanding educational program and who aren't afraid to pay good salaries in order to get outstanding teachers."

Joined System in 1950. Snyder, who was formerly chairman of the St. Louis Council on Human Relations, entered the school system in 1950 and was made superintendent when the consolidated district was formed in 1954. His salary was $9,500 a year when he signed his present contract in 1956, calling for $12,500 the first year, $15,000 the second and $17,500 the final year.

None of the present board members was on the board that signed the three-year contract with Snyder. Last June, about 1200 residents of the district signed a petition urging the board to renew his contract next year.

Parkway district has about 2000 pupils and operates five elementary schools and one high school. Tax rate is $2.95 on each $100 assessed property valuation. Salaries of teachers range from $4,000 a year to $6,700, depending on length of service and type of degree.

SPARKMAN URGES DEMOCRATIC UNITY

Tells Fellow Southerners That Party Helps to Safeguard Their Interests.

NEW YORK Times News Service MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 3—Senator John J. Sparkman urged Southern Democrats last night to remain loyal to national party leadership. He said "Southern interests" were safeguarded in the party councils through an alliance of western and northern Democrats.

Sparkman, 1952 vice presidential running-mate of Adlai E. Stevenson, spoke at a meeting of Alabama Young Democrats. He recommended a broad political strategy for "loyalists." His proposal would define Supreme Court decisions and Eisenhower Administration policies in the civil rights field as interlocking assaults on Southern traditions that had been blunted only because of the helpful alliance of western and northern Democrats in Congress.

He chided Republicans and disgruntled Democrats as "ever criticizing Walter Reuther, Senators Hubert Humphrey, Paul Douglas and Wayne Morse and other Democrats who call for integration, but seldom criticizing Vice President Nixon, Senators Irving M. Ives, Edward J. Thye and Everett M. Dirksen, the corrupt labor leader Dave Beck, and other Republicans who just as vigorously advocate integration."

Sparkman twice singled out Minnesota's Humphrey as a proved friend of Southern interests for sponsoring an amendment in Congress last year that repealed an 1866 statute authorizing use of federal troops to enforce civil rights legislation.

"It is from northern and western Democrats in Congress that the South has received the most help and sympathy, even in racial disputes," he said. "This fact is a major reason I urge Alabama to stay with the Democratic party."

Religious Affiliation in U.S. Put At a New High of 104,189,678

But National Council of Churches Report Says Increase Didn't Keep Pace With Population Rise.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP)—The National Council of Churches says reported religious affiliation in the United States was at a new high of 104,189,678 last year, but the ratio to population dropped slightly from 1956.

The statistics released by the council indicate a net gain of 964,724 church and synagogue members for 1957.

The 1957 total was 61 per cent of the nation's estimated 170,500,000 population. The increase of 0.9 did not keep pace with the population rise, estimated at 1.7 per cent.

Last year's proportionate drop was the first since World War II.

The new figures are included in the annual statistical report of the National Council of Churches, leading Protestant and Eastern Orthodox group in the country. The statistics are in the council's "yearbook of American churches" for 1959.

Reported by Groups. Benson Y. Landis, editor of the yearbook, stressed that the council had not conducted its own census, but had compiled the figures that were reported by religious groups.

A study of the statistics showed certain omissions. In one case, a Protestant body that had formerly reported more than 1,500,000 members was dropped from the compilation.

The statistics covered 255 denominations in 48 states and the District of Columbia. The major denominations to the west and typhoon Grace whirling in from the east, 212 Nationalist Chinese service men were married today in Formosa's biggest mass wedding.

The mass wedding was held on Nationalist armed forces day to save service men from the high costs of individual ceremonies.

Surviving are his wife; three sons, David, Michael and Paul J. Seele, and a sister, Mrs. Roy Cornish.

In relation to population, religious membership was 23 per cent in 1860; 20 per cent in 1880; 36 per cent in 1900; 43 per cent in 1910 and 1920; 49 per cent in 1940, and 57 per cent in 1950.

Landis said a better estimate of the Protestant statistical trend was indicated by 226 Protestant bodies that reported in both 1956 and 1957. They showed a gain of 1,241,083, or 2.1 per cent, he said.

He noted that some religious bodies never report. One is the Christian Scientists, who have a policy against the "numbering of persons."

One difficulty in ascertaining exact church totals is the variation in the way the denominations count members.

20 Rare For Buc Pitchers

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3 (AP)—Since 1930, the year Bob Friend was born, the Pittsburgh Pirates have come up with only two 20-game victory pitchers. Now Friend is just one game short of becoming the third.

The last pitcher to win 20 for the Pirates was Murry Dickson, now with the New York Yankees. He did it in 1951—and with a seventh-place club.

Truett "Tip" Sewell, the guy with the blooper pitch, is the only other Buc to win 20 in one season since 1930. He did it twice, in the war years of 1943 and 1944.

Now, with the Pirates scrapping for their first finish in the first division in a decade, Friend is the National League's top winner, picking up his nineteenth last night as the Bucs defeated Philadelphia 3-2 and regained a second place tie with San Francisco in the pennant chase.

Drysdale Wins.
The Giants were spilled 4-0 by the Los Angeles Dodgers and Don Drysdale, who allowed five hits in his first shutout of the season. That left the Giants and Bucs eight games behind idle Milwaukee.

In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated Boston 6-1, regaining a 12-game lead over the idle Chicago White Sox. Washington beat Baltimore 4-3 and Detroit whipped Kansas City 6-1.

Friend, who never had won more than 17 in any previous season, gave up seven hits, walked one and struck out seven for his third straight victory and fifth in his last six decisions. He had a shutout until the eighth. Wally Post's tenth homer, an inside-the-park job, scored the Phils' other run in the ninth.

The Pirates, who managed only five hits off loser Don Cardwell (2-4) in his seventh game, put it away on Frank Thomas's solo thirty-fifth home run in the seventh. They broke a scoreless tie in the sixth on Bill Virdon's eighth home run.

Record Is Even.
Drysdale, once 1-7 and now 11-11 with a string of straight successes, struck out six and walked three for his first shutout since he beat the Giants 10-0 with a three-hitter Aug. 30, 1957. He gave up two hits in the fifth, when the Giants loaded the bases with one out.

The Dodgers, who had lost five in a row to the Giants, nailed it in the first on Gino Cimoli's solo homer, his eighth, off loser Ray Manzant. Gil Hodges hit a bases-empty home run in the fourth for his tenth consecutive year of 20 or more.

Drysdale now has matched

No Labor Day for Him
BOB TURLEY of Troy, Ill., got Labor day off from pitching chores for the New York Yankees. He idles in the Yankees' dugout after closing August with his 20th victory of the season. "Turley is the first major leaguer to win 20 this season and the first Yankee to do so in four years."

The longest winning streak in the National League this season, Milwaukee's Warren Spahn and Carl Willey also won six in a row, but both strings are dead.

Magic Number Is 11.
Zach Monrre, 27, Yankee right-hander making his first start since July 28, got past the Red Sox with a five-hitter for a 3-1 record. He had a shutout until Dick Gernert hit his twentieth home run with two out in the ninth. Home runs by Mickey Mantle (38) and Yogi Berra (21) on successive pitches in the sixth inning broke up a scoreless tie. Dave Sisler, who has failed to finish any of 14 starts since June 8, lost it for a 7-8 mark.

The victory reduced the Yankees' magic number to 11. Any combination of Yankees victories and/or Chicago defeats totaling 11 clinches the flag for Stengel.

Herb Moford (4-7) gave up only two hits as the Tigers swept their three-game series at Kansas City. He had a perfect game until Harry Chitt doubled in the sixth, then lost his shutout on Bob Cerv's thirtieth home run—his first in almost a month—in the seventh. Bob Grim (4-6) lost it after winning three straight. Gail Harris hit his fifteenth homer for Detroit.

Cochran Plays Californian In Amateur

Bob Cochran, state golf champion, drew a Californian in the first round of next Monday's National Amateur tournament at the Olympic Club in San Francisco.

Cochran will play Dan Silvestri of Sharp Park in a first quarter match. Also in the upper quarter is Jim Frisina who plays Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C.

The other two St. Louis entries are in the fourth quarter of the draw. Dick Kohlmann and Leslie Fowler, Boulder, Colo., and Hord Hardin opposes Alfred Sams, Macon, Ga.

Two former St. Louisans are in the field. Gene Andrews, one time Public Links champion, now playing from Whittier, Calif., meets Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., and Tom Draper, now playing from Royal Oak, Mich., drew a first round bye.

Hillman Robbins, defending champion from Memphis, meets Bill Wayman of St. Paul, Minn., in the first round.

Law Suit Perils Senators' Move

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 3 (AP)—Lawsuits and threatened lawsuits hung over franchise negotiations between Minneapolis and the Washington Senators today, less than a week before showdown time.

In Washington, Robert R. Rodenberg, identifying himself as a stockholder in the Senators for 29 years and owner of 75 shares, filed a suit in Federal court yesterday to oust Calvin Griffith as Washington president and to enjoin transfer of the club to Minneapolis.

The suit asked $500,000 damages.

In Minneapolis, there was new conjecture about a possible taxpayers' suit against the city for approving a $9,000,000 bond issue, part of it guaranteed by the city, to expand Metropolitan Stadium.

The legal maneuvering further befogged a franchise issue which will come up for a full airing when the American League meets in Chicago Sunday.

Rodenberg's suit came not long after the Senators' principal minority stockholder, H. Gabriel Murphy, said he would take legal action to challenge any shift of the Senators.

Named with Griffith in Rodenberg's action were other club directors—Vice President Joe Haynes, Eugene Young and Thelma Griffith Haynes.

Rodenberg charged conduct of the defendants "has seriously diminished corporate revenues and unless enjoined will result in insolvency of the corporation." The suit says also that Griffith has "practiced fraud, deceit and trickery on the community and stockholders, thereby forfeiting the good will of the community, necessary to successful operation of the team."

Stabno, business agent of a city employees' local that says the city council granted only token wage increases recently.

Stabno fought council approval of the bond issue last week, contending the city could not ethically risk taxpayers' money on a baseball stadium and club wage requests by its employees.

Councilmen replied no money which would be used for wage boosts would be risked on the stadium.

Stabno says he understands a number of individuals are considering action to challenge legality of the Minneapolis bond issue.

The bond plan won final approval by unanimous vote of the city's Board of Estimate and Taxation yesterday.

When reports that a possible suit were published again, Stabno said:

"Nothing has changed as far as I know the last couple of days. Our union does not plan to initiate the suit to my knowledge."

"However, a number of persons in the wards of liberal (a local political faction) aldermen have told me they are considering it. As for ourselves, we are not at all sure whether it is legal for the city to aid in financing of a private project outside the city limits such as the stadium is. We think the state attorney general should rule on it."

The Minneapolis city attorney's office says the bond issue is perfectly legal. Supporters argue there is precedent for the city committing public money for projects outside city limits.

At any rate, this was the status today of Minneapolis-Senator negotiations:

 Minneapolis has given the Senators a contract offer. The city has final authorization to issue $9,000,000 in bonds, half for expanding the stadium and the balance for retiring original bonds.

Griffith can ask the league in Chicago for permission to move, if he gets the authorization of the Senators' board of directors, which is considered more or less a formality.
 If Griffith were to make the request he would then need favorable votes from six of the American League clubs.

INVENTORY TAX BASE POLICY IS URGED FOR CITY

Development of definite policies for setting the assessment base of inventories for merchants and manufacturers for tax purposes was urged in a report made yesterday by Computax, Inc., a firm employed by the city to study operations of the License Collector's office.

Progress toward standardizing reporting of inventories has been made by License Collector Joseph T. Juggs, Hayden and should be continued, the report said.

However, because of the indefiniteness of laws governing the subject, the report said, the exact point at which policy replaces law is unknown. For this reason, it was recommended that positive and definite decisions on policy be made so that an equitable and uniform method of administering the tax can be established. The study was begun in February after complaints that the administration of the tax on inventories was so vague that the city was not obtaining all the revenue which could have been expected from that source.

Revised Tax Form. A revised tax return form to achieve better reporting of inventories has been devised by the firm in consultation with the License Collector, the City Counselor, the Comptroller and the State Tax Commission, the report noted.

A requirement to report the largest volume of inventories on hand between the first Monday in January and the first Monday in April, has resulted in an accepted practice of reporting only percentages of inventories, the report pointed out.

For this reason, the report recommended that a standard "tax equalization ratio" be established by the Board of Merchants and Manufacturers Tax Equalization and be printed on the tax return forms.

The equalization board appointed this year already has notified merchants and manufacturers to report their inventories at 100 per cent. For tax purposes, the board said it would reduce those reports to 50 per cent of value.

Central Filing System. Establishment was recommended as soon as possible of a central filing system which could be used by the assessor, the license collector and the collector of revenue for comparative purposes and as a check to make certain that all types of licenses and taxes are paid.

Such a system is authorized under a measure recently enacted by the Board of Aldermen and its establishment was awaiting the completion of the Computax study.

The study recommends specific systems of bookkeeping, filing and auditing for this new office as well as certain changes in procedures in the license collector's office.

It made recommendations also for separation of collection and auditing in the various offices, and suggested that most of the auditing could be done in the central file office.

Revision of auto license application forms and mailing practices to encourage motorists to apply for city license stickers by mail was recommended.

The report said application forms could be mailed out with personal property tax bills. The system would do away with the large rush of license applicants in City Hall each year, the report said.

Some applications are currently made by mail, but are made separately to the license collector. About 26,500 received licenses this way last year.

The report stated that some 200 restaurants which had received sanitation certificates from the Health Division had not applied for the necessary licenses to operate and some may be operating without licenses.

It recommended that the sanitation certificates be withheld until licenses had been obtained. Dr. Floyd Carroll of the sanitation section said, however, that this procedure would require restaurants to remain closed for almost three weeks each time there was a change of ownership.

Health Division inspectors do not check for licenses. He said he believed that was a policy matter.

NEVADA DEMOCRATS SELECT CANNON TO OPPOSE MALONE

RENO, Nev., Sept. 3 (AP)—Nevada Democrats have picked Las Vegas City Attorney Howard Cannon, to try to unseat Republican Senator George Malone, in the November election.

With about 98 per cent of returns tabulated from yesterday's primary, Cannon led Dr. Fred Anderson, a Reno surgeon, by more than 1000 votes.

Mid-morning total: Cannon 22,520, Anderson 21,341.

Malone was unopposed for the G.O.P. nomination to a third term, as was Republican Gov. Charles Russell, also seeking a third term.

London Race Riots Continue For Fourth Straight Night

Policeman searching youth for hidden weapons in riot-stricken Notting Hill district of London.

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Race rioting continued for the fourth straight night last night in London but police took the edge off the violence and kept big mobs from forming.

Fifty-nine persons were arrested, the biggest roundup since whites began attacking Negro immigrants from the West Indies and other Commonwealth areas nearly two weeks ago.

Hundreds heeded Scotland Yard warnings to stay off the streets of the Notting Hill district—the chief trouble spot—and surrounding areas. Police patrols moved in whenever those who did come tried to form the large mobs which rampaged through the area on previous nights.

Dozens of automobiles and hundreds of walkers were collected in a band through the streets with knives drawn. A mob of whites jumped them. The police moved in and broke it up.

Press Denounces Violence. At least two Negroes were stabbed.

Dogs Help to Break Up Fight. In one of the most serious incidents of the night, a gang of white youths stormed a Negro calypso club in the Baywater area with gas bombs. Negroes inside battled back and knives, bottles and glasses were hurled from both sides.

The fighting spread swiftly to neighboring streets, with bands of white teenagers hurling rocks and fire bombs through the windows of Negro houses. Five truckloads of police aided by Alsatian dogs broke up the fight.

Ten Notting Hill Negroes walked in a band through the streets with knives drawn. A mob of whites jumped them. The police moved in and broke it up.

Police questioned leaders of the bands, trying to learn if a central organization was behind the disturbances.

Britain's big newspapers bitterly denounced race violence. All cited parallels with Hitler. The London Times blamed "a tiny submerged hooligan element." The conservative Daily Sketch blamed fascists, working through "the bored mass of Teddy boys and frustrated youth of the big cities."

Angry members of Parliament demanded firm government action to stop the riot.

The pro-labor Daily Mirror led rising demands for restriction of Britain's present unlimited admittance of immigrants from the Commonwealth. The Mirror demanded that no Commonwealth citizen—white or Negro—be allowed to migrate to Britain unless they had a job and a home to go to. Much of the white resentment at the immigrants stems from competition for housing and jobs.

New York Times News Service. Sir Oswald Mosley's British Union Movement, a Fascist organization, has helped foment the riots.

The movement held an open air meeting in the Notting Hill district Monday night shortly before thousands of rioters stormed through the neighborhood's shabby streets, attacking Negroes and destroying their property.

Fascist Pamphlet. Police had noted that well-dressed men, driving large cars ferried rioters from one trouble spot to another in Monday night's outbreak.

Officers of the British Caribbean Welfare Service, which looks after immigrants from the West Indies, cited a pamphlet issued by the Union Movement and distributed in the Notting Hill area.

The pamphlet reads: "Protect your jobs. Stop coloured immigration. Houses for white people—no coloured immigrants. A square deal for the Negro in his own country."

Beneath the illustration is a drawing of a group of Negroes carrying spears under a sign reading "we in" while a group of whites leave through an exit marked Canada and Australia.

Police Note. The illustration is the words: "People of Kensington, act now. Your country is worth fighting for. Fight with the Union Movement."

Jamaican Emigration Continues. KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sept. 3 (AP)—Jamaicans are continuing to depart at a rapid rate for England, despite outbreaks of racial violence there.

Yesterday 354 left for London, some in search of jobs and others to join families already in England. About 300 more are booked to sail Sept. 8.

ALABAMA NEGRO LEADER CHARGED WITH LOITERING. MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 3 (AP)—The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who led the Negro bus boycott in Montgomery, was arrested outside the City Hall today on a charge of loitering.

Police said King was in a crowd of Negroes which had gathered for a preliminary hearing for a Negro accused of attacking another Negro leader, the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy. They said the Negroes blocked the sidewalk and, when an officer told them to move, King twice refused.

The Negro minister, pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church and widely known as a leader in the fight against racial segregation, was permitted to sign his own bond.

FRENCH QUADRUPLETS BORN. SOISSONS, France, Sept. 3 (AP)—Quadruplets, three girls and a boy, were born yesterday to the wife of a farm worker.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Laniere, already have two boys. The mother is 31 years old.

SAVINGS CITED
POWER PROJECT

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP)—The St. Lawrence power project may save municipalities and rural co-operatives in northern New York and Vermont as much as 25 per cent on their electricity bills, the New York State Power Authority says.

A statement by the authority says its chairman, Robert Moses, has told all municipalities in the St. Lawrence project market area:

"Since the villages will be buying power from the authority at lower cost than they have been producing it or purchasing it from other sources, we are bound to save money. We expect them to reduce their rates to the extent made possible as a result of this saving. We shall therefore expect that initially the new rates will reflect at least the amount of the saving."

Power from the project will be marketed through municipal and rural co-operative distribution systems, the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. and the New York State Electric & Gas Corp.

The project's power will go to about 600,000 rural and domestic consumers within a marketing area of 150 miles from the project.

"Better Clothes for Less Money" at Wall.

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP)—As business winds up for its autumnal pitch the odds today seem to favor the home team—the one we all hope wins, steady and sure recovery.

But there are factors—some potential and some just fears—that could throw it off-form.

Sam Dawson

Steel output is rising and auto makers are set for a spurt of new model production. That cloud you glimpse on the horizon is a threat of an auto workers strike. If it develops into a thunder head the steel and many other industries will feel it.

THE LONG PERIOD OF INVENTORY cutting appears nearing an end. Some companies have resumed ordering hand to mouth. Others are rebuilding stocks in belief that business will get better steadily. Government spending is on the rise, making more work in many industries. But in recent days there's been a turn in Washington to talk of economizing again. One of the things giving the recession an initial nudge was an economy wave in government spending. The decline in earnings has been halted by many fortunate companies and some are definitely on the up-grade again. Business confidence in better sales and profits this fall and winter pops up whenever executives are questioned on the outlook. The same confidence (tied in with belief in more inflation) has sparked much of the gains in the stock market.

THESE TWO FORCES work on each other. Brighter business prospects pep up the stock traders. And a rising stock market always kindles more confidence among business men and consumers. Only the extremely cautious warn of the dangers of over confidence, of what might happen to public psychology if the recovery isn't as spirited as hoped for. And they note that for all its new talk of confidence, business itself hasn't changed yet from a program of less spend-

CONSUMER INCOME IS rising and seems likely to continue to do so. Even with unemployment unpleasantly high, income totals have been bolstered by Government and corporate unemployment payments. On the positive side has been a rise in wage scales, made effective by an increase in factory work weeks, a pay boost for government workers, higher incomes for farmers and a slow but steady gain in incomes in the service industries. What consumers will do with their higher income after taxes will spell what course business takes this fall. Consumers weren't panicked by the recession and seem ready to go on spending as before. If they spend a little more for the durables—if, for instance, they take to the new models the auto makers are bringing out—the recovery seems in the bag. If business, in turn, spends more for inventory, for better equipment, the recovery then will be sizable. Adding it all up, business is looking for a good fall and winter.

THERE ARE, OF COURSE, the enigmas. There's always some international ruckus. If

Ruth Millett How to Lose a Job

IF YOUR JOB is in a store, or entails dealing with the public, no matter how small that job is you will be lucky to hold it and your chances of moving up are pretty thin, if—

You argue with other employees in front of customers. You meet the public chewing gum or with a cigarette dangling out of your mouth.

You wouldn't dream of breaking off a "He said and I said" conversation with another employee to wait on a customer.

You don't like your boss or the way the place you work is run and you're anxious to tell anyone who will listen, especially those who do business with your employer.

You like to talk about your personal troubles, and if you can bend a customer's ear with your own private tale of woe, you will.

You believe in doing only what you are paid to do and have no intention of doing anything extra.

You don't believe in smiling at those you have to serve in the course of your day's work.

You barely let a customer get out of earshot before making fun of him, and occasionally your humor is even overheard by the customer.

You find it easier and simpler to say, "We don't have it," or "I don't know anything about it," than to look for what is wanted or try to get the information that is asked of you.

You live for the coffee breaks and the lunch hour and quitting time and nothing you do in-between interests you. It's just so much drudgery that has to be done.

You are so sure that you are worth more than you are being paid that you don't bother to do your job as well as you could.

In sum, you don't like your job and you don't care who knows it.

Bennett Cerf Try and Stop Me

FAMOUS REMARKS of famous men and women: Benjamin Franklin (upon discovering electricity): "Ouch!" Oliver St. John Gogarty: "We are part of what has gone before. Parcels of the past guide us. What we call the present is only a suburb of the past."

Archaeologist (upon discovering petrified bodies in what obviously must once have been a prison in the ruins of Pompeii): "Hardened criminals, I'll vow."

Joe E. Lewis: "Conditions have gotten so bad in transportation they tell me the Mississippi river now only runs three times a week."

BACK FROM A TRIP through the wildest stretches of Utah and Arizona, a publisher whose hobby is visiting National Parks recalls one day when he suddenly was ambushed by a posse of Indians. "They bobbed up from nowhere," explained the publisher. "Suddenly they were in front of us, behind us, to the right of us, to the left of us!"

"What did you do?" asked a friend anxiously. "What could we do?" chuckled the publisher. "We bought some blankets."

THREE KIDDIES in Beverly Hills decided to play house. Said the first, "I'll be the papa." Said the second, "I'll be the mama." Said the third, "I'll be the lawyer."

Important Look in Fall Hats

By Sylvia Stiles

A LOOK OF IMPORTANCE is the first requisite of a new fall hat. This effect may be credited to the shape which is certain to be high and bulky, to the elaborate material of which the hat is made, or to the intensity and abundance of the trimming. Frequently all three of these features contribute to the hat's domination of the costume and a woman's conviction that last year's model must be relegated to the rummage sale.

Each of the familiar shapes such as the turban, toque, beret, bonnet and sailor has been glorified in the design of the latest millinery modes. There is an inflation of crowns, a heightening of trimming and a thickening of brims to make each hat attain an imposing appearance. As for the materials, all of those furry fabrics that are fuzzy and fancy are fashionable. Soft textured soles are used extensively. Sleek and elegant panne velvet appears in lush shades.

It has been a long time since feathers bedecked our hats as they do this fall. Many hats are entirely covered with feathers. Others have feather pads, quills and ostrich tips for decoration. Beads and braid are other old-fashioned hat trimmings to be revived. Fur is scheduled for generous distribution later in the fall, and for surprising color accents.

1—John Fredericks recommends the high toque to give that important look to the costume. This model is cleverly designed with folds of blue gray soieil arranged to suggest deep tucks. This high pleated cuff is caught with a tuck at the side, creating a flaring edge that is flattering. A black velvet ribbon circles the cuff and ties in a bow at the side front. Basis of the hat is a soft black velvet cap.

2—One of those fuzzy felts known as "mousse" was used for this black hat that features a profile silhouette. Silk and jet braiding outlines the irregular brow line. Hat fits snugly as a wig except for its high drapery into a peaked crown at the back. The hat is from the Hattie Carnegie collection.

3—Black velour is puffed out to form a bubble-crown hat that represents one of the featured silhouettes for fall. A John Fredericks design, the hat is trimmed with feather pads highlighted for an iridescent effect.

4—Ombre shading from dark green to gold represents a new achievement in fine felt hats. This custom model of soieil is an example of the "walking hat" designed to be worn with the suits that are tailored and have the longer jackets. The very high crown, caught into pleats at either side of the front, is typical of the trend. A side accent of felt strips is the only trimming. Various other color combinations may be selected.

5—Here is another example of the "walking hat" with the high crown, and the dipping brim. The crown which is slightly higher at the front is covered with natural guinea feathers. Hat body is a felt skirting in mint brown tone although other shades, such as red, are available. A band of the felt circles the crown and ties with a bow.

6—Ingenious designing is illustrated by this "double" toque which actually is a hat on top of another hat. Cognac colored panne velvet edged with black grosgrain was used for the twin toques which may be arranged to suit the wearer. They may be stretched out for a high effect or draped softly. From the collection designed by Mr. John, the hat has its own birdcage veil.

This illustration can be distilled into one basic thought: any time you sign a paper of any kind, be sure it says what you want it to say, and do not be bamboozled by a remark that it is a "standard" form, or a "standard" receipt, or a "standard" whatnot. Why You Should Read the Fine Print

This is the third of a series of articles based on the book "Pay the Two Dollars" by Alexander Rose, published by Simon and Schuster, Inc., New York.

By Alexander Rose

ONE of the strangest cases on record, having to do with fine print, occurred on Park avenue in New York. On a bright, sunny afternoon a man decided to go to the hospital. There was nothing the matter with him, but he had hospitalization insurance and hadn't been getting along too well at home. He decided to stay in the hospital for a week and rest up.

Just before making this decision he had come from the renting office of an apartment building, where he had signed a lease, and he had the lease in his pocket when he entered the hospital.

He asked for a sunny room and began living it up, with pretty nurses coming and going, and good food and so on. But in the evenings, with the nurses gone, and no radio or television handy, he felt like reading.

He glanced idly around the room and suddenly saw this lease sticking out of his coat pocket.

And that is how he came to read his lease.

It was a standard lease of 8000 words, in very fine print, and nothing untoward happened for over an hour.

Suddenly this man became violently ill, began ringing all the bells, hurled his water glass through the window, and nearly set the hospital afire with the cigar.

Well, everybody came on the run and they finally got him under control and lashed firmly to the bed, but all the hospital people agreed it was the worst relapse they had ever seen.

The story finally came out in the next day. It seems this man had come to the clause in the lease concerning dogs:

19. No animals of any kind shall be kept or harbored in the demised premises, unless the same in each instance be expressly permitted in writing by the landlord, and such consent, if given, shall be revocable by the landlord at any time.

Well, when the man read this clause he blew his top, because he was very fond of dogs and wouldn't be without one. But he knew the landlord would never permit this dog in the house, in writing or otherwise, because the animal was as big as a polo pony, and that even if he did get the consent, by some miracle, it would be revoked by the landlord the minute he laid eyes on this dog, and it would all be legal, under the lease.

Before he knew what he was doing, he was reading the other clauses, one worse than the other.

The bells began ringing when he saw a clause that No Matter What Employee of the Landlord damaged his property, the Landlord was not responsible.

The cigar got to the pillows when he got to the paragraph about No Singing or Piano Playing at Any Time of the Day or Night.

Hysterically, he croaked to the psychiatrist that it seemed to him that under this lease he could live in the house and pay the rent, provided he sneaked in and out and didn't make a sound. But at the end of his raving he had a lucid moment and said grimly, "We'll see what a jury says about this!"

But the psychiatrist said, "I am afraid you won't. You can't have a jury, according to this lease. Clause 23 distinctly says that you have signed away your right to a trial by jury. Even if you fall 19 floors down an elevator shaft because of the negligence of the landlord, and break every bone in your body, you have no right to a jury." The man turned purple.

"But the Constitution! The Constitution of the United States distinctly says—"

The psychiatrist shook his head sadly. "Clause 23 here is stronger than the Constitution, because you signed it. You didn't sign the Constitution."

Well, before they finally let this man out of the hospital, they spent four days reading this lease to him, word for word. They figured if he got to reading it at home he would go into a real-estate coma, which is the worst kind, and might never come out of it.

They read the clause dealing with Remedies of the Landlord, which shows what happens if the Tenant doesn't toe the mark; they read about Waiver of Redemption, Fees and Expenses. No Representation by Landlords.

They had to give the man a shot of adrenalin with this last one, because it showed that the landlord made no promises of any kind and the tenant moves in at his own peril.

WELL... THEY GOT WHAT THEY WANTED... OR DID THEY?

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Sylvanus and Evelyn Duvall

"Nobody works for nothing!" True — False —

TRUE. At least they won't work for very long without some reward. These rewards are by no means always in money. A man may work harder at his hobby, for which he is not paid, than at his job, for which he is. His pay may be in terms of the acceptance and praise of others. But whether it be inner satisfactions or external rewards, he must have some kind of compensation if he's to keep going. So must you and your children.

Should you try to be "a strong, silent type?" Yes — No —

No. Bottling up your anger and fears in order to be the "strong, silent, manly man" isn't good mental hygiene. Women feel better for their tears and temper tantrums that help release their feelings. Why should we always expect our men to swallow their emotions? Writer Selma Greenberg suggests that this practice may be the reason why men suffer so much frustration, commit suicide three times more often than women, and suffer five times as many ulcers.

Most boys don't want to become scientists. True — False —

TRUE. they don't according to recent findings of the Purdue Opinion Panel. When several thousand tenth, eleventh and twelfth grade high school students were asked the question, "Do you think that you would like to be a scientist?" only one in five (21 per cent) replied YES, and more than half (51 per cent) said flatly NO. As would be expected, more boys than girls expressed interest in becoming scientists, but only 28 per cent of the fellows said they wanted to as compared with 42 per cent who said they didn't want to become scientists. The other 30 per cent were undecided.

Clogged Drains

Basement and outside drains often become clogged because the holes in the drain cover are large enough to allow a good deal of debris to get into the line. Putting wire screening under the cover will help or you can get special types of covers that won't allow large particles of matter to enter the line.

John Crosby TV Comedians Bemoan 'Plight'

IN THE CURRENT ISSUE of Esquire there's a piece called "The Plight of TV Comics." And not long ago, the front page of Variety was enlivened by a story headlined "Youngman Blasts Fellow Funsters" in which that comic charged that comedians had lost their sense of humor and had become "embittered human beings." Somewhat earlier in the summer I wrote a piece about Jack Douglas in which he mourned that comedy was no laughing matter any more.

You can almost follow the progress of the summer months by the number of articles bemoaning the tough time of the comedian. When you encounter magazine articles using the word "plight" in the title, it's very hot out indeed and there's nothing much else to write about. Actually, the Esquire article is a good piece—a symposium pooling the brains of Steve Allen, George Axelrod, Mort Sahl, Wally Cox and Peter Ustinov. That's a restless and variegated collection of intellectuals and they explored the subject with vehemence and, in some cases, some bitterness.

Sahl opened by calling attention to a complaint by a former editor of Punch that the trouble was a lack of social criticism. "His basic premise is that there is suppression and I think among the performers I know there's more apathy than there is suppression," Sahl said.

That's a good point. Ever since I can remember, there has been a cry that comedians are being suppressed when, as a matter of cold sober truth, there are few who have much to say. Suppose you struck the fetters off Milton Berle. "Say anything you choose, Miltie," you urge him. "Speak your mind, man." What do you suppose he'd say? Well perhaps he'd turn into Voltaire, coining great witticisms about social injustices, but I rather doubt it.

In the field of social criticism most comedians simply don't have inclinations that way. When they do feel the urge—if they get big enough like Bob Hope—they go right ahead and speak their minds, make jokes about Eisenhower's golf game which in a lesser comedian would be censored. I imagine Hope could even get away with Sahl's crack about Vice President Nixon: "He's been on the cover of every magazine except True."

But there's no doubt in my mind that apathy starts with suppression. If you keep telling the comics "you can't make a joke about that," eventually they lose the desire and then they lose the knack of the thing. The terrible thing about limiting the area in which a comedian can operate is that he forgets how to operate in those areas. If he is told early enough that he must not make jokes about vice presidents (or about bakers or butchers or whoever), he builds up mental controls so that if someone says "go ahead be funny about bakers," he can't do it.

If the silence continues long enough, this feeling extends to all the listeners. If they never heard a joke about bakers, they assume first it isn't funny, next it's sacred. And by then it will be sacred. Then when a bold spirit comes along and tells a joke about a baker, it just sounds dirty—and sure enough the hold guy will get letters saying "cut out the dirty jokes."

Axelrod, who has written for radio and television comedians, voiced a thought that has disturbed me from time to time. The writers for the situation comedies, he said, are actually beginning to condition the audience to behave the way they do on the radio or TV.

"I think fathers are actually beginning to become bungling—just as fathers are portrayed to us. We get second-hand observations. A lot of writers don't observe from life but they observe from other situation comedies or from people who are beginning to act like situation comedy. I fear for the minds that have grown up with the situation comedy thing and the movies. For example, most kids think that when you get married what happens is two great heads kiss and that's the end. The whole race is going to die out because they don't know what happens after this." (Copyright, 1958, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Elinor Williams Tips for Teens

Q.—"DEAR MISS WILLIAMS: I like to wear shoes with high heels very much. I am 12 (but I look much older) and my parents won't let me wear them. What shall I do?"

Answer—Wait a year until you go to junior high or senior high school, then ask your parents to say "yes" to "little heels"—the kind that are shaped like high heels, but are not actually high. These are in good taste for that age—for dress-up events.

Q.—"DEAR ELINOR: I am a girl of 15 and a boy, also 15, is a good friend of mine. He comes to my house on Friday nights and he calls me often on the telephone. He is a nice boy and my parents approve of it. Is this all right?"

Answer—Yes, it's all right if your parents approve of him. Home is the place to see your friends—and the place where dating should begin—gradually.

Q.—"DEAR ELINOR: I am 18 and my boy-friend is only 16. I like him a lot and he likes me; we look the same age. But I feel funny, knowing he is much younger than I. What do you think about this?"

Answer—A little difference (believe me, this is a "little"; as you grow older, two years seem less and less) is not so important as really liking and appreciating each other, enjoying the same things and having fun together. Forget the age-difference, treat it as a joke or ignore it as "nothing," because it is. The less you think and talk about it, the less other people will.

$100,000-a-Year Business Beautifying Dogs

Joan Kruger's Poodletown Furnishes Everything Up to and Including Mink Jackets for Posh Pets

Poodle in mink jacket, made by Poodletown in New York.

By Virginia Irwin
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.
YOU MIGHT CALL Joan Kruger the Dior of Dogdom.

An amiable young woman who has built a $100,000-a-year business in catering to fashion-conscious owners of canines, Miss Kruger operates a posh establishment known as Poodletown here in New York.

At Poodletown, luxury-loving dogs can be outfitted with mink coats, nylon nighties, cocktail collars made of black lace and pink satin, smoking jackets, silk bathrobes, suede sport coats, rhinestone anklets and hand-embroidered place mats with matching dog dishes.

The former Grace Kelly has dropped into Poodletown to pick up choice items for her miniature black poodle, Oliver. Just before her marriage to Prince Rainier of Monaco, she bought a bunch of special collars, leashes and other doggy garments to match her own ensembles.

A member of the Ford family recently had Poodletown make up a special charm collar for a favored pooch, and Tommy, a cocker spaniel, and Toby, a Welsh terrier, owned by the millionaire Laurence Rockefeller, have been regular patrons of the canine beauty parlor operated in connection with Poodletown. The shop gets periodic orders for luxury items from a dog out in Saudi Arabia whose bills are paid by an oil-rich sheik.

As ritzy as all get-out, Poodletown caters largely to social register canines but Miss Kruger wouldn't hesitate a moment to design a mink coat for some newly-rich mutt that might wander off some side street into her Park avenue emporium at the corner of Eighty-third street.

"I don't mean to sound snobbish but most of our trade comes from people on Park avenue and Fifth avenue," Miss Kruger explained. "And it just happens that we're in the heart of the poodle country so most of our customers are poodles."

Poodles, incidentally, have long been favorites among people with money. But in the last few years they have also been catching on with ordinary folks. The American Kennel Club reports that their poodle registration rose from eighteenth place in 1957 to fifth in 1957 and is still going uphill. Because her business is so successful—as well as slightly silly and fantastic—Miss Kruger has appeared on TV and on radio. Even the staid and stolid Wall Street Journal has paid her recognition with a piece about her prosperous specialty shop. And after every bit of publicity Miss Kruger braces herself for a spate of angry letters. Some people think it's downright wicked to spend anywhere from $275 to $350 for a mink coat for a dog. They just can't understand why anyone would pay $30 for a pair of hand-made nylon dog pajamas or $45 for a dog collar made out of gold lame and trimmed with mink puffs, rhinestones and fake rubies.

"For years businesses like mine have prospered in Europe," Miss Kruger points out. "The demand for luxury things for dogs is here, too. Somebody would be bound to supply that demand and I figured it might as well be me."

Joan got into the dog business some years ago back in New Rochelle, N.Y. She boarded dogs and trained them. Then she moved to Manhattan and opened up her beauty salon for dogs and soon was also in the accessories field. At first she called her establishment Chi-Chi Chien, which might be translated roughly from the French as "swanky dog." She incorporated her business under this name in 1951 but decided almost immediately that she'd be better off with the name Poodletown. Seems that too many people took Chi-Chi Chien for something Chinese. They were always walking in looking for chop suey or chow mein. One man even thought Chi-Chi Chien was a laundry.

Miss Kruger may well be the first person ever to make pajamas for a dog. The first pair she ever sold was for an elderly Welsh terrier with rheumatism. She made them out of warm flannel. Now she makes them for other customers out of terry cloth in pastel shades. She also makes pretty gay printed nylon numbers for female dogs.

He brought in a bundle of dirty shirts.

About 10,000 dogs are in and out of Poodletown each year. Most are neighborhood blue-bloods who live with their masters and mistresses in the swanky apartments and town houses of the gilded reaches of Park and Fifth avenues around the Eighties. Others come from suburban homes and arrive at Poodletown in limousines.

Some of Poodletown's customers Miss Kruger never sees at all. They order by mail and she estimates her mail order business alone will this year run to around $10,000. By mail you can order lower-priced "standard" things that are kept in stock. For instance there's the reflector collar, made from Morocco leather with genuine bicycle reflectors clamped on, for only $9.50. Or the "house collar," strictly for "dressing up," made of red and white or blue and white checked gingham, at $6.

Miss Kruger is no longer surprised by any order. She has a customer in Scotland who recently ordered a coat for his poodle made up his clan's tartan. Last winter she made a suede and fur parka for a dachshund belonging to a couple in Alaska and this summer made a life jacket for a poodle whose master is a sailboat enthusiast and likes to have his dog sail with him in regattas. "Thanks it's good luck," she says.

Now she makes them for other customers out of terry cloth in pastel shades. She also makes pretty gay printed nylon numbers for female dogs.

Miss Kruger has a regular staff of five seamstresses who work on commission turning out handmade doggy garments to special order and also for the sample stock Miss Kruger keeps in the shop.

Poodletown's biggest single order—between $700 and $800—came from Elizabeth Taylor. Liz walked into Poodletown one day and ordered everything in sight for her three toy poodles. Pajamas, all sorts of jeweled collars, the works, including a sapphire-mink coat costing $350. The doggy luxuries were loaded into the Rolls Royce of Miss Taylor's husband, the late Mike Todd, and the screen beauty drove off. Next day the chauffeur was back with the coat. Todd, who denied his young wife nothing, nevertheless took a dim view of a mink coat for a dog.

Miss Kruger has just filled an order from the wife of a Texas oil millionaire for a doggy jacket made out of black velvet, trimmed with soutache braid, cerulean mink tails and gold buttons. Price $120. One of her seamstresses is working now on a pair of $9 red and white striped bathing trunks for a wire-haired terrier and another has just completed a $55 tuxedo in Skinner's satin with handmade buttons for a poodle down in Atlanta, Ga.

Around Christmas one of the most popular items is the black lace and pink satin collar with a matching hostess apron for the dog's mistress. The set sells for $19.50. In the beauty salon attached to Poodletown, four experts trained in canine cosmetology work continually at top speed to take care of the doggy customers.

A poodle groom costs between $3 and $15, except for "show clips," fancy trims that begin at $25. Some dogs have their own private shampoos, formulas specially made up and scented for their personalities. Miss Kruger ordinarily uses a shampoo on her dog customers made from a beauty-parlor formula which doesn't burn when soap gets in the dog's eyes.

Miss Kruger's customers seem to be a grateful lot. At Christmas time she's practically deluged with gifts from dogs all over the United States and even from some living abroad. She gets imported cheeses and perfumes, books and flowers. She also gets hundreds of cards from dogs she has outfitted. They sign the cards with their paw marks.

Last year about this time Miss Kruger held a fashion show in a fifth floor suite overlooking Rockefeller Center and clinched her right to the title "Dior of Dogdom." Noting at that time that she was doing a $100,000-a-year business, the Wall Street Journal treated the event as economic news.

people plump down more than $275,000.000 for food alone for the 25,000,000 dogs in this country. Another $25,000,000 goes for leashes, collars and luxury items such as are found at Poodletown. "There's no limit to what people will spend on a pampered pet," Miss Kruger smiles. "Some of the requests I get make it hard for me to keep a straight face. I don't ordinarily go in for dog furniture but I once had a Louis XV bed made for a poodle who slept in his mistress's bedroom and had to have a bed to match her suite."

Replacing Sash Cords

THERE are an awful lot of broken window sash cords in this land and the reason that there are so many is that most people think that to replace one you need a degree in engineering. Actually you don't need much more than a screwdriver, a hammer and some new cord.

To replace a sash cord the first thing to do is to remove one of the little strips of wood on the inside of the window frame that holds the sash in the frame. Once one of these strips is off, the lower sash can be pulled out of the frame. If the upper sash cord is broken, take out the lower sash and then remove one of the parting strips that runs between the upper and lower sash. With this out of the way, the upper sash can be removed.

At the bottom of the sash frame is a little cover held in place with a screw and if you take this out you'll be able to reach inside the window frame and pull out the sash weight. Remove the old cord from the weight and then run the new cord over the pulley at the top of the frame, down through the frame and out this opening. Tie the cord to the weight, replace the weight and put it back into the frame.

Replace the cover and then hold the sash in place so that the cord can be cut to the required length. Be sure to leave enough cord for tying to the sash. The proper length of the cord should be such so that when the sash is opened the weight does not hit the bottom of the frame and when the window is closed, the weight does not hit the pulley at the top.

After tying the cord to the sash, check the operation before replacing the little strip of wood that holds the sash in place.

A hot soldering iron is good to soften up hardened wood pithy such as you may run across when trying to replace a broken piece of window glass.

Miss Byars to Make Bow at Tea.

MISS CAROLINE BYARS, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis T. Byars will meet her mother's friends at a tea this afternoon at the Byars home, 12 Clermont lane, Ladue. She will be one of four girls who will be presented at a dance June 19 at Selma Hall, overlooking the Mississippi river near Festus, Mo.

The bay window in the living room is filled with greenery and marked at each side with tall standards of yellow and white summer flowers as a background for Mrs. Byars and her daughter to receive their guests. An epergne holding more of the blossoms adorns the tea table. Small tables, shaded with yellow umbrellas, are scattered about the lawn and around the swimming pool. Punch will be served on the terrace.

The debutante will wear a light blue organza dress, molded to below the neckline with a softly flaring skirt banded at the hem with two shades of deeper blue. A rose in three shades of the blue, entwined with ivy leaves, is at the left. Miss Byars will hold a shower bouquet of stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Byars has chosen a muted beige and blue taffeta gown, the bouffant skirt of unpressed pleats. She will wear a corsage of blown slipper orchids.

Assisting Mrs. Byars will be Mrs. Drennon Byars, Dr. Byars's cousin from Alma, Ark.; Mrs. Mary D. Brown, N.Y.; Mrs. Byars's sister; Mrs. Eugene Bricker; Mrs. Cecil Charles; Mrs. Franklin Walton, and Mrs. Heinz Haffner.

Miss Byars has asked the following young women to serve: Miss Frances Anne Marbury, Miss Betty Howard, Miss Deborah Ward, Miss Sally Mill, Miss Katy Wells, Miss Eleanor Wehmiller, Miss Kathryn Comfort, Miss Jeanne Behrens, and Miss Jane Elizabeth Sutter. They will wear wrist corsages.

Miss Ellerman Introduced at Luncheon.

PASTEL FALL FLOWERS in which yellow predominated provided an attractive decorative theme for the debut luncheon today of Miss Carolyn Mae Ellerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Ellerman, 10 Crestwood drive, Clayton, at St. Louis Woman's Club. Mrs. Ellerman and her daughter greeted 125 guests in the music room of the club before the great gold-framed mirror. Baskets and bouquets of flowers were arranged in the music room and throughout the other lower floor rooms.

Forty-three debutantes were seated at a U-shaped table in the dining room and nearby were tables for six and eight guests. The debutante table was covered with pale gold satin and decorated with wicker epergnes, the bases filled with green and gold fruit and the upper tiers holding yellow roses and blue cornflowers. A similar epergne adorned each smaller table. Luncheon was preceded by champagne cocktails. A small orchestra played during the party hours.

Miss Ellerman wore a pale blue organdy dress, embroidered with pastel flowers, made simply with a scoop neck, brief sleeves and a full skirt falling from an organdy cummerbund. She held a nosegay of yellow blossoms. Mrs. Ellerman wore a short rose beige lace sheath dress and a brown slipper orchid corsage.

Among the guests were Mrs. Henry J. Heitner and Mrs. Edward A. Ellerman, grandmothers of the debutante. Miss Ellerman will depart Sept. 25 to start her senior year at Bradford (Mass.) Junior College.

Miss Carol Lipton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Silbert Lipton, 122 Crandall drive, Clayton, has returned from a three-month tour of Europe sponsored by Smith College. Miss Lipton will be a senior at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., this fall.

Miss Carton Becomes Bride Of J. R. Pauley

MISS FRANCES CARTON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Carton, became the bride of Joseph Renard Pauley Saturday morning at St. Roch's Church. The Rev. Joseph T. Schejbal performed the ceremony in a setting of white flowers and candlelight before the immediate families.

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Carton had as her only attendant, Mrs. Charles P. Noel Jr. (Virginia Evans). Thomas Pauley was best man for his brother. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Pauley, 515 Tiffin avenue, Ferguson. Guests were seated by Lawrence Lucas and Richard Duncan.

The wedding gown was deep ivory taffeta designed with a round neck overlaid with alencon lace sprinkled with pearls. The skirt fell full from a fitted bodice into a chapel train. The bride wore a short Italian lace heirloom veil, which had belonged to her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Henry O'Hara, and carried a white prayer book covered with white moth orchids. Mrs. Evans was in a French blue polished cotton dress and a white hat. Her bouquet was white roses and chrysanthemums.

After the wedding there was a small reception at the Carton home, 6158 Kingsbury boulevard. The buffet table, set in the patio, was decorated with sweetheart roses and daisy chrysanthemums. Mr. and Mrs. Pauley will live in Clayton.

Uncle Ray's Column Origin of Writing

By Ramon Coffman

ONE OF THE great things in the history of the human race is the invention of writing. More than anything else, this invention has brought about the development of civilization.

The origin of writing may be traced back to three main centers—Egypt, Sumeria and China. The Egyptian system of writing led to the alphabet. The other two methods became important to several nations, including Japan.

Japan imported the Chinese system of writing. There have been changes, but the Japanese still follow the basic plan adopted from China.

All the main systems of writing go back to picture words. Before anything was known about spelling, a picture was made to represent a word. A picture of a fish meant "fish," and a picture of a star meant "star."

When we look at stars with just our eyes, we may see "glints" which suggest points. We usually think of a pictured star as one with five points, but the people of ancient Sumeria made pictures of stars with eight points. A star, after being photographed through a telescope, appears as a small, round object, but people have been picturing stars with points since the origin of writing.

Scholars have traced some of the picture words of the Sumerians through several stages. They have found that the words were changed as thousands of years rolled past.

The words were made on fresh clay, and the clay was baked, or hardened in the sun. Pictured sticks probably were used to make the outlines at first. Later these gave way to metal instruments which were pressed into the clay.

Sumeria was conquered by the Babylonians and later by the Assyrians. With the changes of power, there came changes in writing, but we must thank the Sumerians for beginning this great art in that part of the world.
